DELAYS IN BIG INDUSTRY CODES STIR PRESIDENT

He Ponders Action in Factional Rows.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 13.—[Special.] — President Roosevelt today called for swifter action in lining up the key industries of the nation behind the national recovery act.

Aware that lagging by the "big five" industries, coal, steel, oil, automobiles, and lumber, which, together, employ more than three-fourths of the labor in the United States, might jeopardize the success of the whole NRA program, the President took a hand himself in determining what must be done to get these five quickly under codes.

President Studies Difficulties.

At first Mr. Roosevelt called for Hugh S. Johnson, his administrator for national recovery, but Mr. Johnson was speechmaking for the cause in St. Louis. Then the President summoned Kenneth Simpson, deputy administrator, who is in charge of the codes for three of the big five, coal, oil, and steel.

After discussing the situation in these industries with Mr. Simpson, and searching with the deputy for the jams which are holding up each code, the President directed that Gen. Johnson come to the White House tomorrow.

Indications were that Mr. Roosevelt intends to act directly, perhaps calling in the leaders of the warring factions in each of the industries which thus far cannot agree. He also may summon those industrial leaders who have refused to submit to wage and hour schedules and trade practice provisions.

Labor representatives and members of the NRA labor advisory board have been urging strongly in the last few days that steps be taken to compel the big industries to accept codes if they do not agree promptly on voluntary codes. The President has the power to inflict codes on lagging industries and to invoke a licensing power to enforce adherence to the codes, but he is known to be reluctant to pursue such a drastic course except as a last resort.

Labor Day 3 Weeks Away.

Administrator Johnson had predicted that "five million of the unemployed will be back at their jobs by Labor day," but Labor day is only three weeks away. While Mr. Johnson has quit predicting, it generally is conceded that nowhere near that number can be put on the pay rolls of trade and industry.

Plans for action are being charted by the President, it was declared, and will be completed in his conference with Mr. Johnson tomorrow and then discussed at the weekly meeting of the President's executive council at the White House on Tuesday.

Other causes for worry are also under discussion at the White House. The President's reëmployment agreement, or blanket code, was intended to hasten putting into effect temporarily shortened hours of work and higher wages pending the writing and approval of formal codes.

Insist on Code Changes.

Outwardly Mr. Johnson and his aides have expressed elation at the manner in which the campaign to get employers to sign the agreement has progressed. But approximately 100 industries have insisted upon modifications to the blanket code, stretching hours and cutting down the minimum wage provisions. Some of the biggest industries have not put any improved scales into effect.

More important than this, however, in the opinion of some of the Johnson staff, is the wholesale amount of cheating which is going on, according to reports reaching Washington.

Merchants and other employers by the thousands, especially those dealing directly with the consuming public and who see a compelling need to display the Blue Eagle insignia, have been found to have signed the agreement, but to have either made no pretense of putting its provisions into effect or of circumventing them by various methods.

Some employers are forcing longer lunch hours upon their workers, calling on them to do the same amount of work in the shorter hours. Others are cutting the wages of higher paid employés to meet the higher costs. Others are closing branch offices and plants.

Postmaster General Farley said in New York yesterday that he believed cheating employers could be prose-

ROME HAILS AIR HEROES AS IT DID CÆSARS OF OLD

Duce Calls Flight 'Sky Revolution.'

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Aug. 13.—Premier Mussolini thanked Air Minister Gen. Italo Balbo and his trans-Atlantic flyers for spreading his prestige and Fascist ideas among Italian immigrants in the United States today after a triumphal procession under the historic arch of Constantine.

Il Duce stood in Domitian's stadium atop Palatine hill. He was garbed in the uniform of a corporal of the black shirt militia.

With the flyers lined up before him and the duke of Aosta standing beside him, Mussolini delivered a brief speech to the aviators before he gave Gen. Balbo his new air marshal's hat and handed out gold medals to some of the others and promotions in military rank to nearly all of the participants in the mass flight to Chicago and return.

Calls Flight Fascist Revolution.

"The mass flight to America and return was a consecrated Fascist revolution in the skies of two continents," Mussolini said.

"Today after your typically Roman triumph which you so richly merited I declare also that you deserve well of Italy, of the Fascist revolution and of the science of aviation.

"You deserve well of Italy because during your 12,427 mile flight, which will become more and more famous as time passes, millions of men in all languages of the world have pronounced the name of Italy. When you reached America you warmed with your presence and with proofs of your valor the patriotism of that grand community of Italians.

Expresses His Thanks.

"You deserve well of the Fascist revolution because your crusade was made in black shirts. You deserve well of aviation and I think many years will pass before the aviation corps of any other country can surpass or even equal your magnificent enterprise.

"I express my satisfaction as head of the government, as an Italian, and as a Fascist, to you."

Mussolini's speech reiterated in substance Gen. Balbo's speeches made in New York and elsewhere that the air crusade was for political propaganda purposes and prestige.

Cannons Boom Welcome.

The flyers paraded through the streets of Rome this morning to the accompaniment of booming cannons. The air heroes passed under the arch of Constantine while women threw flowers and laurel leaves in their path.

The welcome was planned to compare with the triumphal entry of the old Roman emperors, but several of the airmen are reported to have said that they received greater receptions in Chicago and New York.

Like all triumphs, their Roman triumph under the arch of Constantine was brief. They left their cars and walked under the arch. Several thousand people saw them and cheered. Having passed under the arch they went to the Palatine hill, where Mussolini was awaiting them.

Earlier in the day the airmen came to the Quirinal palace for a reception by King Victor Emmanuel. The monarch received them in the throne room with his aviator cousin, the duke of Aosta, standing close by.

Fête at Orbetello Today.

Tomorrow the flyers will be taken to Orbetello, the starting point of their double Atlantic cruise which began July 1. At Orbetello the king will have a chance to take the chief part in the ceremonies and he will review them at 8 o'clock. Then the heroes, less than 48 hours after their arrival in Italy, will be given long furloughs to rest up.

Calls Flight Lesson in Pacifism.

New York, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Gen. Italo Balbo's mass flight was characterized today by Count Eugenio Casagrande di Villaviera, organizer of the royal Italian air corps, as a sensational attempt to demonstrate that it is "time to disarm."

"The flight," he asserted, "has an infinite lesson in pacifism for all the world."

The count, who was Premier Mussolini's chief aid during the creation of the Italian air corps after the historic march on Rome, declared the flight proved "national isolation is illusory."

"Of what use are fortresses, large naval fleets and barricaded frontiers," he said, "when planes can destroy

Three Warships Are Sent to Protect Americans.

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 13.—President de Cespedes tonight said that President Roosevelt's order to send three warships to Cuba to protect American lives and property was made with his "full knowledge and approval." The three vessels are expected to reach Cuba early tomorrow.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 13.—Three warships were ordered to Cuba tonight by President Roosevelt "for the safeguarding and protecting of the lives and persons of American citizens."

The President announced that his action was not to be construed as a military intervention in the political or governmental affairs of the riot torn island.

Forces Will Not Land.

The American forces will not land in Cuba, it was understood, unless there is danger that American citizens may be attacked during the rioting now participated in by natives throughout the island. The President hopes, it was said, that the moral effect of having American warships lying in the harbors of two Cuban ports, Havana and Manzanillo, will be sufficient to restrain acts of violence against Americans.

It was reported, however, that a small naval guard will be sent to the American embassy as a precautionary measure to protect Ambassador Sumner Welles, his family, and his staff.

Mr. Roosevelt acted after he and Secretary of State Hull had obtained a full report of present conditions in Cuba.

Steam for Havana.

The three war vessels tonight are steaming for Cuba under special orders. Two destroyers, the U. S. S. Taylor and the U. S. S. Claxton, acting under the command of Lieutenant Commander George T. Howard, have been standing by in the vicinity of Key West, Fla. Their destination is Havana.

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 13.—Two hundred political prisoners, who were liberated today from the Principe Hill fortress, killed five porristas among the jail guards late tonight. Twenty guards were wounded before troops suppressed the battle. The prison is in custody of two machine gun companies. Soldiers are surrounding it against possible attack by the ABC. Several members of the Porra are refugees or prisoners inside the walls.

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 13.—More than 60 have been killed and Cuba's national vendetta against the porra continued today throughout the island. Vendetta is the name given the man hunt against the porra. And the porra is the organization of tough gangster types which was the secret police of the Machado government.

Bloodshed in Havana grew tonight. Thirteen members of La Porra, Machado's gangsters, were killed after a running battle of five miles with soldiers and revolutionists. The slain porristas were in two armored cars in a La Porra reprisal caravan.

Report 356 Slain in Island.

After a chase through the streets their cars ran out of gasoline. The gangsters ran into a park and shot it out with fifty soldiers and a posse of 100 civilians. Several soldiers were wounded. Earlier ten porristas were killed in the street or on housetops.

The scenes of death and sacking enacted in Havana following the overthrow of the Machado regime were repeated in other parts of the island. Some Havana newspapers estimate the number of porristas and others killed in the island at 356 and the wounded at 725, many seriously.

There was evidence, however, that the porristas were not going to submit to their extinction without a struggle. This morning an autoload of men drove up to the residence of Dr. Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, who yesterday became provisional president of the republic, fired into the house and then sped away. The gunmen are believed to have been porristas.

Ask End of Strike.

A proclamation asking people to end the strike which for eleven days has closed all business, industry, and transportation on the island was issued tonight by President De Cespedes. Leaders of unions demanded that now that the political revolution is over labor conditions be bettered before the strike is called off. De Cespedes asked them to return to their jobs immediately, promising to appoint a commission to recommend terms of settlement of any labor disputes.

While President de Cespedes and his advisers set the formation of a new government the army and police aided the ABC, the radical element in the revolution, in the manhunt for porristas. The goal is the externina-

Hobos Draft Code to Fit NRA Rules

The hobos of America, meeting in their 25th annual convention at 180 West Randolph street, announced to the world last night that they are traveling workmen, and as such want their own code under the national industrial recovery act. So saying, they drew up a code for which they will seek the insignia of the blue eagle.

Leaders of the hobos asserted there is plenty of basis for their having a code. Contrary to some belief, they pointed out, hobos are not bums and tramps. They are workers, industrious and legitimate, differing from other workmen in that they are itinerant. They travel about because they work at jobs at which they could not make a living if they stayed in one place.

"A hobo works for his living," said Jeff Davis, who is known as the king of the hobos. "He travels to find work, instead of staying in one spot. He is not dependent on charity, like a bum or tramp. As proof of this, more than 150,000 accredited hobos have scorned charity during the depression by going out and finding work, no matter what it is. We're entitled to a code."

Code of the Hobos.

The code drawn up at the hobo convention is brief. Here are some of its provisions:

"Hobos will not work in restaurants if by doing so they deprive married men of work. No real hobo ever took such a job.

"Hobos will not clean snow and ice off sidewalks or shovel coal for less than 50 cents an hour, nor will they wash windows for less than that rate.

"Hobos may chop wood on farms for a bed in the barn or a meal at night or in the morning, but they shall not chop all day just for a bed and a meal. To do so would cheapen their labor to the coolie class."

Fit Hobo Labor Problems.

There are some other provisions in a similar vein, and these, "King" Davis said, fit the various labor problems of the average hobo. In discussing the code with its minimum hour and wage provisions, Davis produced a card dated 1913 when the hobos' union—the International Itinerant Workers of the World, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor—was incorporated in Indiana. This card cited the union's aims as a universal eight hour day and a minimum wage law.

"We're gradually getting there," he said. "That's the hobo platform. In demanding this code, hobos only want justice, not charity. We work, anywhere, everywhere, all of us skilled laborers. Our organization is national and will keep the boys in line."

SAYS U. S. TARIFF WILL BAR FRENCH WINES, LIQUEURS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 13.—French wines and liqueurs will be barred from the United States by a prohibitive tariff unless France agrees to an acceptable war debt settlement, according to Jouett Shouse, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment and former chairman of the national committee of the Democratic party. Mr. Shouse is now vacationing in Paris.

"Prejudice against France in the United States is so great, due to her debt defaults, that she will certainly not be allowed to touch the wine and liqueur market in the United States," he said. "France first must pay the two defaulted installments and ask for an adjustment of the balance of what she owes."

Mr. Shouse predicted the repeal of the eighteenth amendment in December and estimated that the wine and liqueur market would amount to between 5 and 10 billion dollars a year.

"Most wines and liqueurs consumed in the first few years must be imported," he said, "because they will require maturing—especially hard liquor. The immediate market for goods will be worth far more than what France would have to pay on her debts."

HOTEL ASKS NRA CHIEF TO PAY FOR ROOM IN ADVANCE

Dayton, O., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson may be a "big shot" in the National Recovery Administration, but he was just another traveler to a hotel clerk here.

The general had not so much as a toothbrush for luggage when he stopped here unexpectedly last night because flying conditions made continuation of his flight from St. Louis to Washington too hazardous. He was taken to the hotel in an army automobile. Like any other guest, he walked up to the desk and introduced himself. A newspaper reporter vouched for his identity.

The clerk was skeptical and, seeing no luggage, informed the general that, NRA chief or not, he would have to pay in advance.

This was too much for Johnson. Mumbling "To hell with this place!" he walked out.

Another hotel welcomed him with open arms and Johnson retired to his room after asking that an automobile be sent for him at 5:30 a. m. and ordering a toothbrush be purchased and sent to his room.

Farmer Willed $125,000 for Saving Woman's Life

New Boston, Ill., Aug. 13.—[Special.]—Dwayne Hoage, a New Boston farmer, will receive half of the $250,000 estate of the late Mrs. L. McDonnoes of Santa Monica, Cal., for saving the woman's life 15 years ago, according to the terms of her will.

Sally Rand Falls in Lake and Is Rescued

Miss Sally Rand of fan dance fame fell from a speedboat into the cold waters at the mouth of the Chicago river early this morning and was saved from drowning by a coast guard surfman who swam nearly 100 feet to reach her.

The accident occurred a few minutes after Miss Rand had terminated her engagement at the Streets of Paris concession at the World's Fair. The end of her engagement was announced during the evening by A. N. Rebori, director of Paris, who said she was returning to the stage and screen. There were some reports that salary differences were involved.

Falls from Speedboat.

After dancing for the last time in the Paris concession Miss Rand boarded a speedboat to get to the near north side for an engagement at a night club. The boat, operated by Melvin Sheldon, 406 North 2d avenue, Maywood, reached the mouth of the river quickly and made a sharp turn into the river a short distance from the old Chicago coast guard station.

Just as Sheldon made the turn Miss Rand stood up—to get a breath of fresh air to clear a headache, she said later. She lost her balance and fell screaming into the water.

Lookout Rescues Her.

Bo Borgstrom, coast guard lookout, saw her fall and sounded an alarm. Before an emergency crew could man a boat Surfman George Arnold, 26 years old, dived from the station pier and swam to Miss Rand. He reached her just in time and before either the coast guard crew or the speedboat could arrive. Miss Rand was taken to the station and revived by Mrs. John A. Anderson, wife of the coast guard captain.

52 COUPLES WED JOINTLY; THEIR CHILDREN WATCH

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Aug. 13.—The simultaneous marriage of 52 couples was celebrated in a suburb of Budapest today. They are members of a community of 2,000 and are mostly beggars and casual workers.

Driven together by common distress they live in battered huts built of old planks. The parish priest, shocked at the number of families with unmarried parents, persuaded these people to get married.

Accordingly, the 52 couples went together to the registry office and then to the church, followed by a small crowd of their children, who witnessed their parents' wedding. After the ceremony the local burgomaster presented a package of food to each couple, who then enjoyed a joint wedding breakfast.

tion of the secret police and others who in the last three years have been identified with the persecution of factions opposed to the dictatorship of President Machado, who yesterday fled to the Bahamas by plane.

Carloads of the ABC's dashed about the city running their quarry to cover. From balconies and rooftops men and women looked on the killings, and a fiesta spirit prevailed as the massacre of the porristas proceeded. Mobs kept streaming through the streets pillaging and wrecking the homes of persons marked for destruction. The bloodthirst was unabated.

The crowds this morning located three porristas in a house, among them Col. Manuel Rodriguez Batista, former chief of the palace secret police, a branch of the porra. They were chased over the rooftops with men and women on other roofs giving the hue and cry. The three dodged pursuers, but were killed by soldiers and marines.

"Gladiatorial Show" Staged.

One spectacle was staged in mid-afternoon at police headquarters, the populace watching as at a gladiatorial show in ancient Rome. A group of officials whose names were marked for death were discovered hiding in a barricaded room at headquarters. They were Lieut. Codina, explosives expert; Maj. Fernandez Pelaez, aid to former Chief of Police Antonio Anciart, and the secret policemen, Gustavo Gutierrez and Ortega, the latter charged with the murder of the student Gonzales Rubiera. Crowds, mostly of young men, surged around and demanded that the refugees be turned over to the ABC.

A revolver with four cartridges was reported to have been handed to the barricaded men with notice that within an hour they must shoot themselves or surrender. As the news spread the streets rapidly filled with men in white linens and women in gay garments appeared on balconies and rooftops. Movie men set cameras at the corner and awaited the killings.

Scene Like Ball Game.

Across the street in a market chickens were squawking and a radio was filling the air with jazz. Cars with wild eyed youths dashed up from time to time while the mob rent the air with shouts of "Viva. ABC!" Drenched in the dazzling sunshine and in full view of hotel balconies the populace had settled down gayly as at a circus or ball game.

At the end of an hour the chief of police appeared on a balcony, waved his hand, and said the men had surrendered, were prisoners, and not refugees, and would be taken to jail.

"Viva!" yelled the crowds.

Mounted police and soldiers cleared the streets and later the hunted men were placed in an ambulance and taken to Principe fortress, Havana's city jail.

The country mansion of Alberto Barreras, president of the senate, was destroyed by fire late tonight. The residence is located at Naranjito, eight miles from Havana. A mob of several hundred revolutionists ransacked the home and then applied gasoline and a torch.

The crowds turned their attention elsewhere. Swarming up side streets they wrecked the home of the mistress of one of the blacklisted officials.

In the city of Pinar del Rio the mob spirit was also unrestrained. Crowds wrecked officials' homes, burned residences of pro-Machada men and killed members of la porra as fast as they were driven from cover. Some were battered to death with sticks, some bodies were burned, some men after being shot to death were tied by ropes to automobiles and dragged through the streets.

Wild Time in Santa Clara.

There were wild demonstrations in Santa Clara city, birthplace of Machado. Mobs wrecked the Machado monument in Villa Clara park. In a wild eyed man hunt porristas and police who in recent years were implicated in political killings were riddled with bullets or hacked with hatchets.

Blood lust ran high in Moron, the city of Camaguey, Gibara, Manzanillo, Ciego de Avila, Jucaro, Sagua la Grande, and other cities and towns. Through the island the cry of the successful revolutionaries is "vengeance and extermination."

To keep the records clear De Cespedes today reinstated the Supreme court and was officially sworn in as provisional president at 9:30 o'clock this morning at his home in the presence of several Supreme justices.

Welles Congratulate De Cespedes.

The ceremony was brief and was witnessed by several score of prominent Cubans and Ambassador Welles. Welles returned later and congratulated the new president on behalf of the United States.

Shortly after De Cespedes became president as an actuality at noon yesterday, the Supreme court of 15 magistrates tendered their unconditional resignations. De Cespedes, according to the best sources of information, accepted the resignations, ordered the Supreme Court building taken over by soldiers and declared the temporary nonexistence of the Supreme court in Cuba.

After conferences De Cespedes reconsidered the acceptance of the resignations and early this morning ratified the present members in their positions as magistrates. The island thus having a Supreme court again, after lacking one for a few hours, De Cespedes took the oath in compliance with the constitution.

Two Cabinet Members Named.

The first two members of the new cabinet were announced by De Cespedes. Dr. Cosme de la Torriente, Cuba's first ambassador to the United States, will be secretary of state. He is president of the Nacionalista party and represents the faction of the opposition headed by Col. Carlos Mendieta, Cuban sugar planter and physician who is a refugee in New York. Demetrio Castillo Pokorney will be secretary of war and navy. He was secretary of public works under Alfredo Zayas when the latter was forced by United States Ambassador Enoch Crowder to organize the so-called "honest" cabinet.

De Cespedes announced the following appointments outside the cabinet: Col. Julio Saguilly Echarte, formerly chief of the aviation forces at Camp Columbia, as chief of the army staff; Gen. Enrique Loynaz del Castillo, one of the closest friends of ex-President Mario Garcia Menocal, as chief of the national police, and Jose J. Rosado as chief of the secret service.

De Cespedes in his first formal address said:

"I wish the republic to be governed by public opinion. I am most decidedly in favor of a free and unrestricted press. Where there is no public opinion there exists no republic."

Report Welles, De Cespedes Clash.

Meanwhile constitutional questions arose and differences of opinion are reported between President De Cespedes and Ambassador Welles. As a source of information Welles was a total loss to newspaper men. As a practitioner of old fashioned diplomacy, his stock diplomatic reply to press conferences in a frost bitten voice was, "I have nothing to say."

Opposition leaders report that Welles frowns upon the action of the new government in ousting the present congress which has been almost solidly pro-Machado. Most of its members are in hiding anyhow and fear assassination by the crowds in their present temper. It was unable to meet as scheduled last night to accept President Machado's resignation and officially proclaim Dr. De Cespedes president.

Reports from revolutionary leaders are that Welles told De Cespedes that it would be well to retain the present congress until the regular elections in November next year. Welles argued that the constitution should be followed.

Cubans Prefer Quick Vote.

The military officers who headed the revolt of the army which precipitated the flight of Machado to Nassau in the Bahamas are reported to prefer new elections in sixty days to replace the ousted congress. Welles is reported to have alleged that new party organizations could not be adequately set up in sixty days and that reorganization of the old ones possibly would not be advisable since the old groups might get in again.

De Cespedes, according to the version of Cubans, suggested that congress might be reinstated provided the members would agree not to oppose the new administration and would cooperate in reform measures.

The theory of some Cubans is that it is quite as constitutional to oust congress as part of the revolution as to chase the president into exile.

Shoot Two in "Celebration Riots."

CAMAGUEY, Cuba, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Two persons were shot and homes and business places of Machado supporters were damaged in "celebration riots" by enemies of the old régime today. An agent for a tobacco company met the demonstrators when they arrived at his establishment and opened fire, wounding two of them. After smashing windows in the store, the mob moved on and wrecked the newspapers La Region and El Noticieron.

Furniture in the home of Senator Justo Lamar Routa was dragged into the streets and burned. Similar scenes ensued at the homes of Dr. Arturo Don, former governor, and Dr. Moya Quesada, former police chief. A dry goods store and a bakery were visited. The demonstrators became more orderly when soldiers mounted machine guns in the public square.

Machado Aid Slain at Santiago.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Gustavo Sanchez, alleged confidant and informer for ex-President Machado, was shot and killed here today in a demonstration by a crowd celebrating the downfall of Machado. Later thousands of persons marched to the ABC cemetery to pay homage to those who had been slain in recent years in disorders attributed to Machado henchmen.

Machado's Family Flees.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Advices were received in reliable quarters here late tonight that Señora Elvira Machado, wife of the former president of Cuba, several members of her family and a group of personal servants, had left Cuba quietly on a gunboat this afternoon and would land at Key West tomorrow.

The report said the group had boarded the gunboat Guan Bueno Zayas presumably at or near Havana. It was not stated what time the party would land at Key West.

MACHADO LANDS IN BAHAMAS AS CUBAN FUGITIVE

Ex-Dictator Arrives in a Chartered Plane.

NASSAU, the Bahamas, Aug. 13.—(AP)—A twin motored amphibian plane bearing Gerardo Machado into political exile came down on the waters of Nassau harbor soon after dawn today.

Deep lines of fatigue appeared in the face of the ousted president of Cuba, who, with a group of close friends, fled for his life from Havana yesterday.

Due to darkness, his chartered plane alighted at Andros island and the party spent last night in the ship. Natives had brought them cooked food.

"My Love Is for Cuba."

"My love is for Cuba," said the former iron-handed ruler at his hotel. "History will show that my work has been good. Cuba is constitutional. If it is the people's will that I go I obey. There will soon be stability in Cuba.

"I am glad I am with English people. England understands trouble and my relations with England were always good."

Machado, who fled in such haste he had no baggage, wore a crumpled white suit and a soft straw hat.

The Machado party was met by government officials. Directly upon arriving its members drove to the Royal Victoria hotel, where they called for whisky and tea.

Police guarded the plane and accompanied Machado and his associates to the hotel, where a special detail of officers was placed around the building. Customs officials seized five revolvers from the party, but said they would be returned when the party left.

Plans Are Indefinite.

He expressed himself as "highly pleased" at his reception here. His plans appeared indefinite, although he was considering sailing on a liner leaving here Aug. 26.

With Machado were Dr. Octavio Averhoff, former secretary of the treasury; Jose Izquierdo, former chief of Havana central district; Eugenio Molinet, former secretary of agriculture and labor; Manuel Mireno, a personal aid; two pilots, and an aviation official.

The former president spoke only briefly of the state of affairs in Cuba.

"I have been for eight years president of Cuba and the good must be taken with the bad, but I think I have given Cuba a constructive government. However, I do not wish to defend myself, because I believe my record will stand by itself.

"Cuba is a constitutional country and it has a right to a change of government."

United States Consul Patrick Hurley called on Machado this afternoon, but a police officer guarded the door to the former Cuban president's suite where Machado was asleep, and Hurley was invited to call again at 5 o'clock.

STEAL BAGGAGE IN AUTOS.

R. M. O'Neill of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Alonzo Burdette of Tipton, Ind., reported to police last night that hoodlums smashed the windows of their automobiles, parked at different spots in the loop, and stole their baggage.

THREE WARSHIPS ORDERED TO CUBA BY ROOSEVELT

in the Carribean, is proceeding toward Manzanillo, a city of 25,000 population on the southwest coast of Cuba. This vessel is believed to be the destroyer Hamilton.

The three destroyers, Admiral William H. Standley, chief of naval operations, told newspaper men, carried complements of about 50 men each. The vessels have 5-inch guns.

The U. S. S. Richmond, a cruiser, is also cruising in the Caribbean, the admiral said. It is accompanied by the Hamilton and another destroyer.

Guard Against Looting.

No mention was made in the President's announcement concerning the protection of American property in Cuba, but it was assumed that his injunction for the safeguarding of American lives and persons will be broad enough to guard against looting American plantations and estates.

The present government of Cuba, installed after the flight of former President Machado, is wholly satisfactory to the Roosevelt administration, it was stated. The new president, Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, is deemed most friendly to the American government.

Recofinizes New Regime.

Full recognition of the régime of De Cespedes was given by the President in his announcemnt tonight declaring that the change in Cuba's government was "in entire accord with the recognized constitution and laws of that country."

It is the hope of the Roosevelt administration that the Cuban people, after exhausting their Latin convulsive exuberance, will settle down and permit the new government to establish peace.

At present, it was stated, there is no disposition upon the part of Mr. Roosevelt to send forces of United States marines to Cuba, for this, obviously, would be an act of intervention.

Text of Announcement.

The President's formal statement follows:

"Latest advices are to the effect that domestic disturbances, including acts of violence, are occurring in some parts of Cuba among certain elements of the population.

"In these circumstances, I feel constrained as a matter of special precaution and solely for the purpose of safeguarding and protecting the lives and persons of American citizens in Cuba, to order certain vessels to points on the Cuban coast.

"The change of government now taking place in Cuba is in entire accord with the recognized constitution and laws of that country, and no possible question of intervention or of the slightest interference with the internal affairs of Cuba has arisen or is intended by this precautionary step to protect, if necessary, the lives of American citizens, pending the restoration of normal conditions of law and order by the Cuban authorities.

Issues Strict Instructions.

"I am giving strict instructions accordingly to the commanders of each vessel.

"The American people deeply sympathize with the people of Cuba in their economic distress and are praying that quiet and strict order may soon prevail in every part of Cuba. The American government will lend all aid feasible, through constituted Cuban authorities, for the relief of the distressed people of the island."

Cubans Will Have Voice in Rule, Says New President

HAVANA, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Dr. Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, suddenly elevated to the presidency of Cuba in succession to the deposed Gerardo Machado, asserted today in an interview that his people are very grateful to the United States for their attitude toward Cuban sovereignty in the present crisis.

"I sincerely hope that we will be able to establish economic relations satisfactory and beneficial to both countries," the new chief executive asserted spontaneously after answering a number of questions about plans for the new régime in the island republic.

Dr. de Cespedes spoke perfect English.

Reveals Governmental Plans.

Shortly after taking the oath of office this morning, the provisional chief of state received the Associated Press correspondent with the utmost informality, leading him through the back hall of his home into a sun washed patio to stand in the midst of luxurious shrubbery.

"The plan of my government," he said, "is fulfillment of the patriotic and representative desires of the entire Cuban people—restoration of normal conditions in every order of affairs throughout the country and establishment of moral peace everywhere in order that the free people may continue to follow the pursuits of life and happiness in their ordinary walks."

As to constitutional reforms, for which a program was drawn up as part of the mediation efforts of United States Ambassador Sumner Welles, the new president asserted: "I intend to carry out the program in order that political parties may organize and go to the next polls with a sense of safety."

Working on Cabinet.

Specific questions concerning his policies Dr. de Cespedes called premature, explaining that "we are now receiving the congratulations of all parties and are just beginning."

He was giving the keenest attention to the formation of his cabinet, he said, but was not yet ready to announce the complete personnel. The government would be one of national concentration, he indicated.

"You did not ask me this, but I am going to say it," President de Cespedes interposed. "The Cuban people are very grateful to the United States for aid in our war of independence and this gratitude is renewed today because of the attitude of the people and the government of the United States toward our people and our sovereignty.

"I sincerely hope that we will be able to establish economic relations satisfactory and beneficial to both countries."

In sight of fifteen friends, Miss Bernice Hallwas, 23 years old, of 4930 Huron street, was carried out into the lake by an undertow off the Winthrop Harbor beach yesterday and drowned. She and several other girls were wading in the water when a breaker struck them.

SOLDIERS' FIELD VESPERS OPEN FESTIVAL WEEK

Protestantism of Chicago Observes Centennial.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

A centennial service as simple and sincere as prayer meeting in a white-spired New England meeting house uttered last evening Protestantism's thanks for its hundred years of activity in Chicago.

The commemoration on Soldiers' field under the setting sun had a three-fold significance.

It celebrated not alone the civic incorporation of Chicago one hundred years ago this month, not alone the opening of Chicagoland Festival week, which commemorates the centennial, but also the organization in that memorable 1833 of our first Presbyterian, Baptist and Episcopal churches.

The Eloquence of Simplicity.

The eloquence of the occasion lay in its voicing of the essential simplicity of evangelical Protestantism, and in that pious adherence to simplicity which gave Protestantism birth and which for more than four centuries has made it a salutary factor in the life of Christendom.

To the contemplative mind this austere eloquence was very impressive and at moments of climax deeply moving.

The ten thousand worshipers in Soldiers' field knelt not in the prayers and seldom rose for the singing of the old war hymns of Protestantism that were the glory of the evening.

Clergy in Business Suits.

The clergy—the Rev. Drs. Robert Clements, Joshua Oden, John Evans, the Rev. Mr. A. H. Leaman, and the conserated laymen, Daniel Prothero and Harry Saulnier—grouped around the undraped pulpit—or reading desk, rather—at the north end of the vast field, wore business suits of black and gray, and some of them were waistcoatless.

Not a surplice, not a cross, not any kind of ecclesiastical emblem, was visible.

The pastors uttered their forthright prayers briskly, crisply, rapidly—as if not to detain eternity. One of them unaffectedly and fervently thanked God for the fine weather and for the abundant shower of "newspaper publicity" which for days has heralded the service.

John Evans Drives It Home.

The Rev. Dr. John Evans, rector of St. Luke's parish, Chicago, was in key with all this forthrightness.

Machines and mechanisms, be they industrial, political, ecclesiastical, cultural, meant naught to him in comparison with you.

He meant just you, reader, and in far carrying voice he thrice flung the word to the east, to the west, and far down the field.

Presbyteries, synods, conventions, and hierarchies—they to him were nothing without you.

"Machines with no personal significance," he shouted, "can do things. But only [pointing] you, you, you can be things.

"This service is not important because thousands may be here. It is important only because you are here —you who may be the least, you who may be considered the last; each of us, without Christ, the lost."

What Things Are Important.

John Evans poured the thesis and theme of individuality over the silent throngs, saying:

"What you do may be important. But what you are is all-important.

"Who you are vanishes into pettiness beside the question of what you are.

"Jesus did not consult Who's Who or the social register when he chose his disciples.

"Even who Christ was does not so much matter. But what Christ is is all that matters.

"All the recorded words of his life may be read in thirty minutes, but what he is has power to make human history his story.

Mighty Questions Answered.

"What did Jesus do?"

The young preacher, tall, erect, drew himself to full height and answered thus:

"He put power into men's morals. He put a dynamo behind ethics. He set the light of hope behind work and duty and sorrow.

"Life has always proved to be too much for the unaided human spirit, but Jesus, if we will but listen, teaches us to feel—helps us to know—that naught will save us but that tide of spiritual power which carries us forward to do what in our hearts we know we ought to do."

"All hail," cried the rector of St. Luke's, "the power of Jesus' name," and he swept into the rest of the first stanza of the old processional—

Let angels prostrate fall.
Bring forth the royal diadem,
And crown Him Lord of all.

Bells Sing to the People.

The multitude joined the preacher in the hymn.

Then descended upon the scene a note of beauty—of celestial ceremonial, as it were—which austere Protestantism could not forbid even had it willed to.

For the carillon in the far tower of the Hall of Science on the Exposition grounds began to sound and the soft evening wind wafted its chiming into the Doric stadium and thereon the golden glory of the setting sun rested and blessed it.

One thought of the calm Kentish fields at eventide of a Sunday, and the green fields of Surrey, and of gray church towers in the old homeland, and one's heart was happy, and was humbly worshiping, I think, in the holiness of beauty and the beauty of holiness.

Old Judea's Benediction.

Pastor Jacob Pister raised his hands in blessing and the words of the ancient Aaronitic benediction floated out to the people standing with bowed heads:

"The Lord bless thee and keep thee. The Lord make His face to shine upon thee and be gracious unto thee. The Lord lift his countenance upon thee and grant thee peace. Amen! Amen!"

The simple service, which, strangely enough in an age of jazz, had drawn thousands of young people to the field, was over.

Commissioner McIntyre of the Salvation Army called out to the army's bandsmen—the men of the patient, kind, devoted faces—"That's all, boys! Good night. Good luck, and bless you!"

"That's a sweet benediction," thought I, and with a salute to the commissioner and his beautiful wife—fifty years in the army, both of them—I went my happy, thankful way.

And as I went some words of Mme. de Staël came back to mind. A century and a quarter ago she said, in "Corinne":

"To pray together, in whatever tongue or ritual, is the most tender brotherhood of hope and sympathy that men contract in this life."

ROOSEVELT FRIENDSHIP FOR CUBAN CHIEF MAY AID ISLAND'S REVIVAL

Washington, D. C., Aug. 13.—(AP)—A long standing personal friendship between President Roosevelt and Dr. Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, Cuba's provisional president, added strength today to high administration hopes of working out a reciprocal plan for rehabilitation of the island republic.

With Dr. de Cespedes formally installed as head of the island government, American officials pushed the intensive study already under way of methods for relieving Cuba of some of its economic troubles.

Friendship between the two presidents dates back to the time when Dr. de Cespedes was Cuban minister to Washington and Mr. Roosevelt was assistant secretary of the navy in the Wilson administration.

MERCHANT ENDS LIFE IN 11 STORY PLUNGE IN LOOP

Julius Myers, 62 years old, wealthy merchant of Springfield, leaped to his death yesterday from his room on the 16th floor of the Hotel Sherman. His body struck the fifth story roof of an extension of the hotel.

Mr. Myers registered at the hotel Saturday evening. In his room the police found a note which he had written to his wife, Mrs. Rita Myers, in which he said:

"I am at the end of existence. It is best for you and the kiddies. I don't want to be a wet blanket, as I can't enjoy life any more. You have all been wonderful to me. [Signed] Juddy."

Mr. Myers was president of the National Retail Clothiers and Furnishers' association in 1932, and came to Chicago to attend the convention of that organization. He was scheduled to speak today before its 3,000 merchant members. He was vice president of the Myers Brothers department store in Springfield, owned by himself and his brothers Albert and Louis.

HOSPITAL AIDS 7,395 DURING FIRST HALF OF THE FAIR

The Emergency hospital at A Century of Progress treated 7,395 persons during the first half of the exposition, which ended last night, according to Dr. Frank W. Baylor's report to the management.

Dr. Baylor said that 3,227, or nearly half of the patients, were given medical treatment for personal ailments not connected with their visit to the Fair and for which no charge was made, while 1,494 visitors were treated for injuries which may have been suffered on the grounds.

With the exception of about ten persons who suffered broken bones, most of the injuries were of very minor nature, such as slight cuts, bruises and foreign particles in the eyes. A total of 2,674 employés also were treated for minor injuries.

Dr. Baylor's staff numbers 28 persons, including doctors, nurses, clerks and ambulance drivers. The hospital's monthly pay roll is $2,200.

BABY SAFE; NOT GIVEN MEDICINE, AS POLICE FEAR

East Orange, N. J., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Word was received here tonight that the little Trudeau baby, whose mother had been sought by police to warn her against giving the infant a medicine she carried, had arrived at Lake George, N. Y., today safe and well.

Mrs. Linda B. Miller, grandmother of the child, said her son-in-law, Robert J. Trudeau, had talked with his wife by telephone.

It was disclosed, too, that the medicine had been prescribed by the family physician for Mrs. Trudeau and not the baby.

Knowing the baby had not been well, Trudeau feared a mistake might be made and a dose of the medicine might prove deadly for the infant. He notified the police and an alarm was sent out in an effort to intercept the automobile carrying mother and child.

At the drug store where the prescription was filled it was said an adult dose prescribed for Mrs. Trudeau might have made the baby sick but would not have been fatal.

In the telephone conversation tonight Trudeau learned that neither his wife nor the child had taken the medicine.

Youth in Stolen Auto Captured After Crash

Charles Franklin, 17 years old, no address, out on bond on an auto theft charge, was arrested in a stolen automobile by police last night following a chase in south side streets. Three companions escaped. Detectives William Gibbons and Matt Kaufman of the Englewood station fired several shots at the fugitives, causing them to crash their car into a house at 6240 South Bishop street. The car had been stolen from Emil Listick, 3438 Saginaw avenue.

Rescue of Dog Provides Drama for a Neighborhood

New York, Aug. 13.—[Special.]—A police dog puppy, playing with a group of young children in a vacant lot on the upper west side, tumbled into a deep hole beneath a pile of bowlders. He was imprisoned more than five hours and the work of rescue developed into a neighborhood drama. A gas crew, after police squads had moved four tons of rock, drilled through the bottommost bowlder, and a lanky youth, lowered by police and held by his ankles, grabbed the dog. [Cheers.]

J. W. DAVIS BACK; WONDERS ABOUT THE NEW DEAL

New York, Aug. 13.—[Special.]—John W. Davis, legal counsel for J. P. Morgan & Co. in the banking inquiry before the Pecora committee, returned today from a brief rest in England and Scotland.

Mr. Davis said he had not heard anything while abroad to support reports that President Roosevelt was disliked in Europe. However, he remarked:

"Rich neighbors always are unpopular."

On the Roosevelt recovery program, Mr. Davis said, his attitude was one of "old fashioned watchful waiting."

The general feeling in England, Mr. Davis reported, is intensely optimistic. People there believe they have definitely turned "the corner" and the foreign attitude toward the NRA program remains one of "wonder," he declared.

"What is your real opinion of the NRA question?" he was asked.

"I have always believed, and still do," he replied, "that no man should work less than eight hours a day."

"What are we going to do with all these extra hours?" he added. "How are we going to employ them? Honestly, how many men do you know who will use them for self improvement for reading a worth while book, or studying something they need? You know very, very few, and I know of very few."

FAIR PASSES ITS HALF WAY MARK; CROWDS GROWING

German Day Throngs Push Attendance Up.

Attendance figures for A Century of Progress Exposition and for corresponding periods at the 1893 Columbian Exposition follow:
Saturday, Aug. 12, 1933.....139,740
Saturday, Aug. 12, 1893.....154,071
Total, including Aug. 12, 1933 [78 days], 8,772,992.
Total including Aug. 12, 1893 [194 days], 7,609,120.
The Columbian Exposition opened May 9, A Century of Progress opened May 27.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Yesterday was the seventy-ninth day of A Century of Progress and marked the end of the first half of the five months' program.

Also it was German day at the Fair and the throngs, which began arriving early and continued throughout the day, pushed the total attendance up to a point which compared favorably with the record single day's admissions established on July 3, when more than 244,000 attended.

At 11:30 o'clock last night 206,588 had paid to enter the grounds.

One of the factors in the large attendance figure was the inclusion in the Fair grounds of Soldiers' field, where thousands of Germans gathered for their gala celebration. With the total attendance as of yesterday morning recorded at 8,772,992, yesterday's crowd of more than 200,000 made it certain that the 9,000,000 mark would be passed early today.

Expect 30,000,000 Visitors.

"With the Fair now half over we have one-third of our anticipated attendance," Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager said, "and the history of the past Expositions, showing that the greater part of the total attendance is recorded in the last half of the Fairs, indicates that we in all probability will reach 30,000,000 paid admissions."

At the half way mark in the Columbian Exposition of 1893, 6,346,954 paid admissions had been recorded, less than one-third of the final reading of 27,480,000 persons.

Saturday's attendance of 139,740 was the smallest since Aug. 3, but continued the unbroken string of over a hundred thousand paid admissions a day since Aug. 1. July 31 saw only 96,022 through the turnstiles, and with that exception the hundred thousand a day extend back to July 8.

Two feature programs shared honors at the Fair yesterday, the German day celebration and the opening of Farm week. Designated as Farm Youth day to honor the future leaders in the agricultural areas, a parade and a candle lighting ceremony held the spotlight in the farm program.

The German day celebration centered around a parade several blocks long, and a pageant and carnival in Soldiers' field, where Elsie Wolf was crowned queen of German day. More than 3,000 persons, including bands, athletic units, floats and nationals in costumes, participated in the parade.

The parade formed at Franklin and Randolph streets, marching to Michigan avenue and to the 12th street entrance and then through the grounds.

Germans for Repeal.

The singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" and "Deutschland Uber Alles" opened the festival. The thousands of Americans of German descent then unanimously passed the resolutions for 1933. Love of freedom and fairness was the keynote in the resolutions, with particular emphasis on two items, namely, objection to a league of nations or a world court and disapproval of the 18th amendment and the Jones law.

The festival address was given by George Seibel of Pittsburgh, president of the German-American gymnastic societies, and an address of welcome by Bernard Devry, president of the German day committee. Mayor Kelly expressed the greeting of Chicago.

"We are proud of our German descent," Mr. Devry said, "but we are also proud of our American citizenship because it includes, in the American constitution, the greatest and best ideals of the liberty of self-determination of mankind, which is not surpassed by any country and which only requires the honest confidence of the individual to lead to its perfection.

"We German-Americans, however, accepted with the rights offered us here the duties of citizenship. We want to help build up this great structure and not enjoy the benefits of this country while we practice allegiance to another."

WOMEN'S DAY OF FESTIVAL

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Festive Chicago's toast today is "To the Ladies." Today, the second day of Chicagoland Festival week, is dedicated to women, and a program in keeping with the rest of the week has been arranged. Festival week opened yesterday with outdoor vesper services in Soldiers' field and will close Saturday night with THE TRIBUNE'S annual Chicagoland Music festival., also in Soldiers' field.

The principal event of today's Women's day program will be a noon luncheon in the German-American building at the World's Fair. Advance reservations indicated that at least 1,000 women will attend. There are reasons for this expected record attendance.

One of the best is Margery Maxwell, Chicago opera star, whose beauty and voice always constitute a magnet for music lovers. Miss Maxwell will sing a group of songs. She will be accompanied at the piano by Alma Putnam. Then there is Pauline Frederick, long a star of both stage and screene, who has promised to speak.

Mrs. Henry W. Hardy, who, with the assistance of Mrs. Bertha Baur and Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey, has been in charge of arrangements for the event, will preside. The program, she said last night, includes short talks by several speakers, both men and women, on the Fair and Chicago's 100th birthday.

Bernard J. Mullaney, general chairman of Festival week, will welcome the luncheon guests. So will Robert I. Randolph, in behalf of Rufus Dawes, president of A Century of Progress. Miss Marie Becker will give the greetings of the German-American Hostess society. Jane Addams will speak for herself, Miss Margot Atkins for the Junior league. Mrs. Netta Paullyn Garner for the colored women, and Mrs. Frank R. Halas for the Women's Trade Union League of Chicago. Dr. Fay-Cooper Cole will devote his remarks to the exhibits in the Hall of Science.

Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, who was to have addressed the gathering by radio from Washington, has indicated that it will be impossible for her to leave the important conference which necessitated her presence today in the capital. That feature was consequently canceled.

Principal Guests of Occasion.

Specially invited guests for the occasion include Mrs. Carter Harrison, official hostess for the state of Illinois at the Exposition; Miss Harriet Vittum; Mrs. John Cornwall, representing the Gold Star Mothers; Mrs. Oto L. Schmidt; and Rajah Singh, prince of Nepal, India.

Tables have been reserved for large numbers of women in the names of organizations of which they are members, as well as for individual parties. Among those certain to be well represented will be the Chicago Woman's club, Big Sisters, Illinois Women's Athletic club, Federated Council of Business and Professional Women, Chicago Woman's Aid, Illinois Club for Catholic Women, Republican and Democratic Women's clubs, and the Women's auxiliary, German group.

Mrs. George Aste is secretary of the committee in charge, and Mrs. Edward O. Brooks is treasurer. Mrs. Walter Hermsdorf is chairman of reservations, Mrs. Samuel B. Shirk of the program, Mrs. F. D. Porter of decorations, and Mrs. Herbert Byfield of the reception that will precede the luncheon.

Fort Dearborn Day Tomorrow.

Tomorrow modern, metropolitan Chicago harks back to one of the most tragic chapters in its history—the Fort Dearborn massacre. It will be Fort Dearborn day of Chicagoland Festival week. Exercises will be held at the site of the old fort, near Wacker drive and Michigan avenue, and in the court of the Hall of Science at the Fair in memory of the 103 men and women slain by Indians on that August afternoon of 1812. The observance is sponsored by the Junior Association of Commerce.

Under these auspices, a regular army bugler will blow "assembly" at 9:15 o'clock in front of the London Guaranty building at the Michigan avenue bridge, as it was blown 121 years ago on that approximate spot before the evacuation of Fort Dearborn by its garrison. George Bray, president of the Junior Association of Commerce, will make the introductory remarks, and a proclamation by Mayor Kelly setting aside the day as Fort Dearborn day will be read.

Maj. Gen. Hugh Scott, U. S. A., retired, an authority on Indian history, will be the principal speaker in the court of the Hall of Science. He is a nephew of Maj. James Scott, who came to Fort Dearborn in 1828, after its rebuilding, and married the daughter of John Kinzie, first white settler and fur trader. He is scheduled to be introduced at the ceremonies by Mayor Kelly at 11:15 o'clock, following a concert by the Morgan Park band.

Gen. Scott will arrive in Chicago at 1 p. m. today by plane from Princeton, N. J. He will be welcomed by a group of city officials.

Wednesday is State street Hospitality day of Festival week, when the stores along State street will welcome the shopping throngs to a glittering avenue of merchandise displays. Special sales events have been arranged for the convenience of visitors, and numerous attractions are promised.

On Thursday, Lake Michigan day, the gayety will center in water parades and festivities in honor of the lake that protects the city from summer heat. Friday has been set aside as Automobile day, when the focus of interest will be on the huge outdoor automobile show in Grant park.

Saturday will close the week in a blaze of glory, when the Chicagoland Music Festival will climax the week Saturday night in an evening of song and pageantry.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

A special feature of Farm week will be daily market talks at 1:45 and 3 p. m. over the public address system at the Fair by Jim Poole, broadcaster for the Chicago Live Stock exchange, and an authority on live stock markets. He will speak from the plaza of the Sears-Roebuck building at 14th street in the Fair grounds.

Tomorrow will be a special Medical day at the Fair. The program, arranged by the Chicago Women's club, includes lectures in the Hall of Science by Dr. Sara Hobson, who represents medical women, and Edna Foley, representing the nurses. The medical, dental and allied science women's association for A Century of Progress will give a special luncheon in the trustees' lounge in honor of those two women.

Members of the Association des Mutiles at Anciens Combattants will visit the official World's Fair art exhibition in the Art institute today as the guests of A Century of Progress. The day has been designated French War Veterans day, and the French flag will fly from the front of the museum to welcome the veterans.

Capt. George Haldeman, trans-Atlantic flyer, was in Chicago yesterday with three commissioners to the Fair from West Virginia. The commissioners were James B. McLaughlin of Charleston, Luther B. Koontz, Glendennin, and Mrs. Douglas Brown of Huntington, W. Va. They came by plane from Charleston.

The speed and efficiency of the public address system at the Fair in reaching persons on the grounds with important messages was demonstrated yesterday when three notices of deaths were delivered within eight minutes of the time received. As each was received the program was interrupted and the name of the person to be notified was read, carrying the word to all parts of the grounds through 118 loudspeakers. A response was received in each case within a few minutes.

World war veterans from Kane, Will, Dupage, and McHenry counties participated in a special memorial program in honor of Villa Park war heroes yesterday at the Pantheon de la Guerre. The Villa Park drum and bugle corps and a quartet gave a musical program, and Harry Mahood, candidate for president of Villa Park, made the principal address. Frank Flynn gave a demonstration of baton twirling.

ECONOMY PLANS OF GOVERNMENT DON'T WORK OUT

Cuts Are Wiped Out by Emergency Spending.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 13.—[Special.]—Economy under the Roosevelt administration is in sorry straits, according to a survey made today.

Because of the double system of bookkeeping installed by the budget bureau on July 1, it is made to appear that the national budget is almost in balance. So-called "emergency" expenditures are bunched in a separate account, which is all outgo, while the regular, current expenses of the government are included in what is called the regular budget.

It has been represented by the budget bureau that a billion dollars has been slashed off the regular expenses of the government. But the survey reveals that the actual sum saved is a fraction of that amount. It is shown that the activities of the Washington bureaucracy which were lopped off of one budget in the name of economy have been continued, and even increased, in the name of "public works for employment" in the extraordinary budget.

Bookkeeping Defies Analysis.

The bookkeeping system of the government defies any attempt to segregate those items which have been lifted boldly by cabinet members from the regular budget and put into the emergency budget, but many examples have been exposed showing the extent to which it has been done.

The President's campaign against spending was aimed to pare down veterans' benefits, to curtail departmental spending, and to make further savings by reorganizing the bureaucracy endowed to Roosevelt by Hoover.

The first phase of this program has been only partially successful to date, the second has been wholly offset by the shifting of expenditures to public works accounts, and the third has been blocked in large measure for the time being under the excuse that time has not permitted the reorganization work to proceed as rapidly as was hoped.

Still grappling with the hydra-headed problem of government expenditures, which have maintained an almost unbroken record of annual increases for nearly a decade despite the politicians' promises, the bureau of the budget continues to believe that some of the economy program will survive.

Departments Survive Storm.

Of the three sections in the economy program, that calling for reduction of old line department costs has sprung the most serious leak.

Forced in the original economy drive to shave 793 million dollars off their budgets as compared with the previous year, departments as a whole have dodged the economy ax by subsequently obtaining 869 million dollars from the public works easy money fund.

Each expenditure which was lopped off in the original cut has not been restored through public works money, but the net effect to the taxpayers is the same, experts admit. Government departments in the aggregate now have 76 million dollars more to spend than they had before the economy move started. Here are the original reductions in ordinary expenditures and the subsequent additions out of the public works pork barrel:

Department.	Reductions.	Works funds.
Agriculture	$234,000,000	$457,883,504
Commerce	24,000,000	8,548,202
Interior	25,000,000	138,544,319
Justice	11,000,000	851,000
Labor	2,000,000	1,344,480
Navy	86,000,000	238,000,000
State	2,000,000	1,528,000
Treasury	150,000,000	7,081,686
War	261,000,000	13,555,000
Independent ofc.	38,000,000	1,800,000
Total	$793,000,000	$869,136,201

Everything from building of a treaty navy to running a national school for the deaf and dumb is being financed by the departments out of the public works pork barrel, now that funds cannot be obtained through the usual channels, records of the public works administration show.

Agricultural Expenses Boosted.

The department of agriculture, for instance, forced to reduce its ordinary expenditures for public roads and agricultural extension work by more than 110 million dollars in the first economy move, now has from the public works administration 458 million dollars to carry on these same and additional activities.

In the navy, where a 86 million dollar cut in expenditures was announced after elimination of construction, alteration and other navy yard items, there is now an additional 238 million dollars to spend for these same purposes.

In the same way the commerce department is restoring its coast survey, the war department is continuing its coast defenses, and the department of justice is building prisons in the face of a promised decline in prison population after prohibition repeal.

The other two phases of the economy program, although crippled, have fared somewhat better than the departmental reductions.

Through the veterans slash, 460 million dollars was to be lifted off the taxpayers' shoulders. After three successive defeats at the hands of congress, the program was hamstrung so that, to date, only 83 million dollars has been cut from the annual outlays.

The great block of savings is ineffective and uncertain pending reviews of veterans' cases.

Reorganization plans which President Roosevelt mapped out and rushed before congress in an eleventh hour message were originally to save 25 millions.

By executive orders President Roosevelt put off until Dec. 31 coordination of all purchasing and disbursing offices, abolition of the federal coördinating service, consolidation of the bureaus of internal revenue and industrial alcohol and consolidation of all national parks, cemeteries and monuments.

INVITE ECKENER TO FLY ZEPPELIN TO WORLD'S FAIR

An invitation was cabled last night to Dr. Hugo Eckener at Friedrichshafen, Germany, asking him to fly his Graf Zeppelin to A Century of Progress. The invitation was extended by Miss Marie Becker, president of the German-American Hostess society, and Leonard Hicks, managing director of the Morrison hotel. If Dr. Eckener accepts, the invitation states, a mooring mast for the Graf will be erected atop the Morrison.

"The German-American Hostess society invites you to fly the Graf Zeppelin to Chicago during A Century of Progress Exposition as a symbol of German-American good will," reads the invitation, "and as a symbol of the leadership of Germany in technical achievements in lighter than air construction and navigation."

GOV. OF KANSAS SEEKS TO OUST 2 IN BOND SCANDAL

Topeka, Kas., Aug. 13.—[Special.]—Gov. A. M. Landon today was writing a message for presentation to the legislative council which meets Tuesday recommending impeachment of two state officials provided they do not resign or are arrested before the special session of the regular legislature meets in two or three weeks.

The legislative council is a fact-finding group created by the legislature for just such emergencies as the bond forgery scandal has brought about. It is required to meet, investigate state departments and make recommendations to the legislature.

The governor will recommend the impeachment of State Treasurer Tom Boyd and Attorney General Boynton, his close advisers say. However, Gov. Landon said today that some of his closest friends will be involved in the scandal, but expressed determination to push the inquiry to the limit.

Meanwhile federal and state investigators continued their investigation of the bond scandal, which already has resulted in the arres tof Ronald Finney, Emporia speculator, and his aid, Leland Caldwell, on charges of wholesale forgery of Kansas municipal bonds.

WOMEN GUARD RECOVERY PLANS, JOHNSON SAYS

Warns 'Chiseling Fringe' of 'Public Scorn.'

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Straight speaking Hugh S. Johnson flew into the middlewest today with a plea for the President's reëmployment program. He explained that its success depended upon coöperation of the "people in each town" and, in the last analysis, upon the women.

"Already the ranks of the idle are thinning," he said. To the quoted assertion of skeptics that "there are Blue Eagles everywhere, but the employers that show them are cheating," Mr. Johnson assured a crowd of 15,000 persons that action against the unimportant chiseling fringe will come later.

Arrives by Army Plane.

Mr. Johnson flew here from Washington in an army plane, and soon after the close of his address, made at the open air municipal theater in Forest park, started the return trip east.

The speakers beside Mr. Johnson were Gov. Guy B. Park of Missouri and others. Frequently the national recovery administrator was interrupted by hand clapping.

"Woman in defense of the support of her home," he said, "is about as safe for trifiers as a lioness at the door of a denful of cubs. When every American housewife understands that the Blue Eagle on everything that she permits to come into her home is a symbol of its restoration to security, may God have mercy on the man or group of men to attempt to trifle with that bird.

Enlists Aid of Women.

"The job of any woman in this program is a very vital ,active and definite one. In the first place she should insist on a display of the Blue Eagle by every supplier of her home.

"But that is not enough—already, we have heard some boasting of manufacturers. 'We don't need the Blue Eagle. Our dealers' eagle will cover sales of the goods.'

"O ye of little sense. It makes no difference whether it is an automobile or a package of pins—women will ask for the manufacturer's eagle on radiator caps or maker's package and no $30,000,000 corporation will be permitted to cover its omissions behind the self-sacrifice of a $30,000 dealer."

Mr. Johnson asserted the President's reëmployment program is far ahead of schedule.

The speaker asserted that violation of the NRA code for any business man "is a sentence of economic death."

"Honor is a better guide for business conduct than Hoyle's book of tupenny rules written in a statute, and the scorn of trusting people a more potent force than threats of jail and fines and injunction, which any adroit advocate can avert," he declared.

Now Time to Buy.

"Buy, buy now!" he shouted at those persons with money or income. "Buy everything you need and have so long denied yourself. It is the key to the whole situation."

Mr. Johnson asserted that the pact that retailers, at present prices, must restock at increased costs of 40 to 60 per cent is "best reason in the world for buying now."

Gov. Park asserted it is "the patriotic duty of every citizen to obey his (Roosevelt's) commands. "We must not let up until every willing worker has a job," he said. "Missouri will do her part."

Representatives from nearby states attended the rally. Leaders from Oklahoma, Iowa, Mississippi, Kansas, and Kentucky were introduced by the chairman.

Before Mr. Johnson's appearance a telegram was read from President Roosevelt as follows:

"St. Louis today in its NRA organization celebration performs a great service, one of value to itself, the state of Missouri, and the nation. Gen. Johnson will extend to you my greetings, congratulations, and appreciation of St. Louis' 100 per cent support of the national recovery.

With best wishes,

"FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT."

IOWA RESIDENTS CROWD ROADS TO CHICAGO'S FAIR

80,000 Expected to Come Here This Week.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Davenport, Ia., Aug. 13.—[Special.]—In a stream of eastbound traffic over the Mississippi river here today is a heavy percentage of automobiles loaded with baggage for a visit to A Century of Progress, with a similar activity over the bridges at Dubuque, Davenport, and Burlington, Ia.

These laden passenger cars are the van of an army of farmers en route to the World's Fair week dedicated to agriculture, which opens tomorrow. Iowa alone is sending 80,000 to Chicago this week. Friday has been designated as Iowa Farmer day at A Century of Progress. Others, thousands of others, are coming from Nebraska and more distant states, judging from the license plates noted on a drive from Omaha, Neb.

Beer Laws Crowd Bridge.

The tourist and World's Fair visitors found the Davenport bridge unusually crowded on this pretty Sunday with Iowans going merely to Rock Island or Moline or for a holiday drive in Illinois. Under the recently effective beer laws the sale of the beverage on Sunday in Davenport is prohibited.

An allowance for this traffic of the thirsty was made by George Barton, engineer for the Chicago Motor club, in estimating Iowa's attendance at the World's Fair this week at 80,000.

Iowa, with an automobile for every 3.63 of its population, is less than five hours' drive from Chicago. The corn, with heavy drooping ears, is ripening. The live stock, with pastures green, are fattening, and as cheering to the farmer as the conditions on his property is his faith in the Washington administration. The agrarian is in a mood for a holiday at the World's Fair during Farmers' week.

Iowa Disregards Rumors.

THE TRIBUNE roadster, as A Century of Progress official car, has spent three days in Iowa, on its country-wide assignment to promote attendance to the Fair by combating false reports of adverse traffic and parking conditions in Chicago during the Exposition. Interest in the Exposition, as noted in conversations overheard in hotels, restaurants, movie lobbies, and on street corners, is keen in the small towns as well as the cities.

The press and radio of Iowa have been coöperative in correcting gossip that foreign license automobiles cannot get into Chicago during A Century of Progress, or that there is no parking within miles of the Exposition, or that hotels and restaurants are charging prohibitive prices. These adverse rumors in more distant states may reduce the number of visitors they will send to Chicago, as feared by A Century of Progress administration and by some of the city's leading business men, but Iowa will send its full quota.

Brother, Sister Meet After 53 Years

HITLER'S CRACK TROOPS PARADE; BERLIN THRILLED

BERLIN, Aug. 13.—(AP)—A spectacular march on the capital by 11,000 Schutzstaffel men, the elite troops of Chancellor Hitler, today thrilled parade loving Berlin residents.

A brigade from eastern Germany in black and tan uniforms camped yesterday at Doeberitz, the historical bivouac of imperial armies ten miles from the city. They marched today into the capital, where after a review by Capt. Ernst Roehm, storm troop leader, they proceeded through the Brandenburg gate, singing "Deutschland Ueber Alles," they moved on the lustgarten and then laid wreaths on the nearby cenotaph.

Fifty-four nazi couples were married in the Apostles' church in the center of the city by a German Christian pastor. Nazi storm troopers provided guards of honor.

Go Slow! Industrialists Urged.

COLOGNE, Germany, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Kurt Schmitt, minister of economics, today urged Rhenish industrialists and business men in an address here to go slowly but not to yield to uptopianism. He declared that, although Germany now had more persons employed than before the world war, the labor problem remained acute. Creating jobs artificially, he said, was no remedy, adding, "It is no use setting people to work when business cannot digest the labor offered."

THIEVES LOOT PARKED CAR.

Frank T. Godwin of Baraboo, Wis., a salesman, reported to the police last night that thieves broke into his parked car at Lake and La Salle streets, and stole three suitcases containing postal certificates and stocks worth $2,425, and all his personal effects.

Here to Visit Fair

Thomas O'Connor, 64 years old, of Washington, D. C., and his sister, Mrs. Ellen Craven, 70 years old, of Spring Valley, Ill., who had not seen each other since they left Ireland together 53 years ago, met again yesterday at the home of their cousin, Mrs. Mary Fortier, 208 South Sacramento boulevard. They had come to Chicago to attend the Fair.

Another brother and sister, who had been separated for 61 years, met again at the home of the brother, Fred Bartels, 80 years old, in Algonquin, Ill. His sister, Mrs. Ida Bartels Burney, 73 years old, of Long Beach, Cal., visited her brother when she came to Chicago to attend the Fair. They became separated in Germany in 1872 when Mr. Bartels left for America. His sister believed he was dead until she heard of him three years ago.

Protest at Persecution of Jews Led by Mrs. Catt

New York, Aug. 13.—[Special.]—Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, peace advocate and woman's suffrage leader, anounced today the formation of the Protest Committee of Non-Jewish Women against the persecution of Jews in Germany. She revealed that 9,000 signatures from women in all parts of the United States had been affixed to a letter of protest to be sent to the league of nations and to newspapers in countries bordering on Germany.

cuted for using the mails to defraud.

The President gave sign today also that he may enter personally into the arrangements for the state and city campaigns being organized to put over the Blue Eagle. He consulted at the White House this afternoon with W. Averill Harriman and Grover Whalen, in charge of the campaigns being waged in New York state and New York City.

Consults with Ickes.

Altogether the President's first day back at the White House after his fortnight's vacation was very busy. He consulted with Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, on the progress being made in pushing the $3,300,000,000 program for public works, and was reported to have commended the secretary highly for the orderly and nonpolitical way he was organizing the work.

Details of the code submitted by the rubber tire manufacturers were made public at Mr. Johnson's office today. The code proposes that Newton D. Baker, formerly secretary of war, be made the effective czar of the industry, as the fifth member of a committee to be put in charge of enforcing the agreement, and in cases where disputes arose to tie the action of the committee Mr. Baker would be empowered to settle it finally. Similarly, if a manufacturer is summoned before the committee for violation of the code, and is declared to be guilty, he may appeal his case to Mr. Baker.

A modification of the President's reemployment agreement was approved today for the canning industry under which no limit of working hours for employés was fixed.

Follows Nature of Business.

This unusual exemption, the first of that kind to be granted, was occasioned by the fact that the industry is seasonal and that in the rush of canning, employés must be obtained in small communities where there is not an abundance available. The perishable nature of the goods handled is a further cause for permitting the canners to work employés as long as possible, it was pointed out.

Minimum wages for the canners were fixed at 20 cents an hour in the south and 30 cents an hour in the north.

Representative Martin Jones [Dem., Tex.], chairman of the house committee on agriculture, today asked Gen. Johnson in a letter to take steps to require mortgage and loan companies, owning either farm or home mortgages, to form a code whereby they would agree not to foreclose on any properties for a period of three years, provided interest and taxes were paid.

LYNCH NEGROES NEW YORK GROUP TRIED TO DEFEND

Two Bodies Found; Third One Is Missing.

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 13.—[Special.]—Three Negroes, held under indictments charging them with murder of a 21 year old white girl, were taken from officers and two were found shot to death at Woodstock, 25 miles west of here, early this morning. The third was not located. The known victims were Dan Pippin Jr. and A. T. Harden.

Sheriff R. L. Shamblin, who, with several deputies, was escorting the Negroes from Tuscaloosa to Birmingham for safekeeping, said the party left Tuscaloosa about midnight in two cars.

The sheriff said his group decided to make the sixty mile trip to Birmingham after persistent rumors that an attempt on the Tuscaloosa jail was planned for early Sunday.

Select Little Used Road.

The sheriff, two deputies, and the three Negroes rode in the lead car, while a trailing car contained other deputies.

Selecting a little used road to Birmingham and proceeding for about twenty miles without indication of trouble, the trailing car turned back to Tuscaloosa. But at a point just inside Jefferson county, according to Sheriff Shamblin, two machines filled with armed men closed in on his car and demanded the prisoners.

The prisoners were delivered, and a report made at the Jefferson county jail here. An immediate search for the posse and Negroes was started, ending at daylight with the finding of the bullet riddled bodies of the two Negroes. The third Negro, Elmore Clark, had not been located late today.

A fourth Negro was shot to death six miles from Tuscaloosa this afternono, but it was a case that had nothing to do with the lynching. The man, Jim Worthington, was shot by two officers when he resisted arrest in another part of the county. He was wanted on a charge of stealing chickens.

Sheriff Shamblin said feeling had been at high pitch in Tuscaloosa ever since parents of the Pippin Negro declared on the witness stand that certain international labor defense lawyers, participating in the case, had not been authorized to participate. The lawyers displayed a contract to act in the defense of the Negroes, with a signature purported to have been that of the Pippin boy's mother.

New York Lawyers "Protected."

The three lawyers, Irving Schwab and Allan Taub of New York and Frank Irwin of Birmingham, subsequently were "given protection" by the Alabama National Guard and were escorted by those troops from Tuscaloosa to Birmingham.

Judge Henry L. Foster, who presided at the Pippin trial, and who ruled the I. L. D. lawyers out of the case on the testimony given by the Pippin boys' mother, said today that he did not authorize the removal of the three Negroes from Tuscaloosa to Birmingham.

The Negroes were indicted in the slaying of Miss Vaudine Maddox, 21, on July 10, two days after the body of the young woman was found in a ravine near her home in Tuscaloosa county.

Sheriff Shamblin said tonight that Tuscaloosa deputies would coöperate with those of Jefferson county in making every effort to apprehend the possemen.

KATHRYN CARVER PUSHES CHARGES AGAINST MENJOU

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 13.—[Special.]—Kathryn Carver, motion picture beauty, is scheduled for the fourth time to make her court appearance tomorrow and push divorce charges against Adolphe Menjou.

On the other three occasions the actress either was too sick to appear or was still conducting property settlement negotiations with Menjou, resulting from her demand, embodied in her divorce complaint, to have the local courts award her all the $600,000 of asserted community property which Menjou had accumulated from his movie earnings during the five year period of their marriage.

Menjou opposed only that part of his wife's divorce which included the name of Isabel Georgi, a New York actress, to whom Menjou was declared by his wife to have been too attentive.

HEADS OF CRIME DRIVE OPEN WAR ON COURT DELAYS

Call Judges Too Lenient in Granting Stays.

A method of eliminating the long delays on appeals in criminal cases is being sought by Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court and State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney it was announced yesterday.

The Chicago crime commission, through Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director, has made public statistics to show that at least one year usually elapses between the time the formal conviction order is entered in the Criminal court and an appeal ruling is given by a higher court. In many cases, the records show that gunmen, although under conviction, are allowed to roam the streets for a year or more on bond pending the final settlement of the cases in the Supreme court.

The delay, the officials said, is not in the Supreme court so much as it is in the criminal courts. The reviewing court usually renders a decision with reasonable promptness once an appeal is actually in the court.

Judges Too Lenient.

The biggest factor in the delay, it was admitted by the officials, is the leniency of the judges in the Criminal court in allowing a stay of mittimus or an extension of time to file the appeal.

"A defendant, who can afford an appeal to the Supreme court is usually able to supply bond," Col. Chamberlin pointed out. "If the case is allowed to drag for months in the courts it means that the defendant, if he is free on bond, is at liberty pending the appeal."

The police assert that it is not unusual for them to arrest a well known hoodlum, who is already under conviction for some charge, in the commission of another offense. An illustration is the case of Jack Sopkin, a west side hoodlum who was convicted as being one of the gang of robbers, who in 1930 raided the John Sexton & Co., wholesale grocers. After his conviction he was allowed his liberty on bond.

Two years later Sopkin was caught in the act of setting fire to 75 trucks and 40 automobiles in a west side garage. At that time he was charged with being a member of a labor terrorist gang.

Conviction Is Upheld.

About the time of his second arrest the Supreme court rendered its decision upholding the robbery conviction. Sopkin ultimately went to the penitentiary on both the robbery and arson charges.

Since the inception of the present crime war in the Criminal court efforts are being made to remedy the matter of appeals. Judge Prystalski said. Instead of allowing a new trial motion to drag for weeks and sometimes months, judges are either ruling on the motions immediately following the verdict by a jury or within one week. No motion has been allowed to be continued more than one week.

"I am instructing my assistants to oppose bond in all cases where a defendant has had a previous record," said Prosecutor Courtney. "We intend to ask the Supreme court to allow us to be heard in cases where an old offender seeks bond pending an appeal."

Nine Murder Cases Scheduled.

Nine murder cases are scheduled for trial this week in the courts' war on crime. Some of them will probably be continued and the others will be forced to trial, if necessary.

One of the cases which Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty hopes to force to trial is that of three youth and a girl, due to appear today before Judge Benjamin Epstein. The four, Joseph Borowy, Charles Kubala, Matthew Novak and Mildred Rundle, are accused of murdering Dr. B. F. Garnitz when he answered a fake sick call. Another girl, Blanche Chwetal, has turned state's witness. Dr. Garnitz was slain Feb. 24 last.

This case is being watched closely by the Chicago Medical society. In a letter to its members urging them to attend the court proceedings the society warned that what happened to Dr. Garnitz might happen to any other doctor. Prosecutor Dougherty has promised the society that he will ask the death penalty for the youths. The case, previously continued several times, will not be continued again, he said.

In addition to the nine murder cases there are many robbery trials scheduled this week. Judges Daniel P. Trude and Walter La Buy will hear only robbery cases. Chief Justice Prystalski yesterday issued another call for volunteer judges to sit in the Criminal courts. Few are responding.

CREWS TO BEGIN CLEARING CITY OF WEEDS TODAY

Relief Fund Recipients to Get Jobs.

An army of 4,000 men who are on the idle relief lists will begin a campaign today to rid the city of rag weeds, pig weeds, marsh elders, and all other weeds which produce pollen. The weeds will be destroyed wherever found in vacant lots, alleys, and grass plots in an effort to reduce the amount of pollen which will be cast into the air.

Weeds will begin casting pollen in the air this week, opening the hay fever season. It has been estimated that pollen brings hay fever to about 70,000 Chicagoans.

Indorsed by Medical Men.

Elimination of weeds by the employment of heads of families on the relief lists is the plan of Dr. M. H. Bickham, director of the Cook county work relief committee of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, and Commissioner of Public Works Oscar Hewitt. The program is indorsed by Dr. Bernard Fantus of the University of Illinois. Dr. Siegfried Maurer of the University of Chicago, and Dr. W. A. Evans, health editor of THE TRIBUNE.

The program also has the indorsement of the Women's Club of Chicago. Mrs. Charles E. Caldwell is chairman of the club's committee on the prevention of hay fever.

The men who are to pull the weeds will work under the direction of the bureau of streets and alleys of the department of public works, but they will be paid from relief funds. Vacant lots, alleys, and grass plots of every ward in the city have been charted. The men have been assigned to companies in each ward and will report to ward officers where they will be reassigned to ward districts.

Rate of Pay for Workers.

In accordance with the commission's policy on work relief, the men will receive as pay for their labor an amount equaling that which their families would otherwise receive as direct relief. They will be paid at the rate paid to the city's workers for similar tasks. The number of hours each man works will be determined by his family's relief budget. The men will continue the work for about two weeks.

LINDBERGHS' HOP TO ICELAND HELD UP BY WEATHER

ANGMAGSALIK, Greenland, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was understood today to be eager to make a flight to Iceland, but he may delay his departure at least 24 hours on account of unfavorable weather. Weather here is excellent, but reports from Iceland are unsatisfactory.

Two motor boats belonging to the Danish explorer, Knud Rasmussen, were fetching oil and gasoline today for Col. Lindbergh from the supply ship Jelling. The ship is anchored some distance from Angmagsalik as it is not equipped in a manner to enable it to force the coastal ice.

Charles Finds That Not All Girls Want a Ride

Charles Moore, 29 years old, 1416 South Michigan avenue, noticed three girls standing at Archer avenue and Clark street early yesterday. Stopping his car he offered to give them a ride. "O, we don't want to go anywhere," one of the girls told him as she reached in her purse and produced a pistol. "All we wanted was for you to stop. This is a stickup." Moore surrendered $4 and the girls drove off in his auto. It was recovered an hour later at Lafiin and Madison streets.

"Today planes, transporting men, bombs, gas, can spread death and destruction after crossing immense bodies of water and great overland distances.

"To place the world on a new foundation of collaboration instead of economic aggression, we must disarm, and create a new and better understanding between the peoples of the world."

Aerial Freight Trains.

The count also said Balbo's flight demonstrated it is possible to transport pay loads over long distances.

"We shall see," he said, "in the not distant future, aerial freight trains carrying cargo at so much per pound, instead of men and gasoline—for glory.

"Solo flights have proved it is possible to conquer distance with a heavier than air machine. The mass flight has proved that freight trains of the skies are also possible."

Count Casagrande, intimate friend of Balbo, disclosed that two of the flight officers who piloted ships from Orbetello to Chicago's A Century of Progress and return, were nearly "fired" from the crew for infractions of discipline.

Although he would not divulge their names, the count said the two officers arrived late for the start from Chicago and were on the point of being sent home by steamship when the general relented on their promise to behave themselves on their arrival in New York.

DREWRYS ALE

Canada's Pride
SINCE 1877

At All of Your Good Beer Parlors, Hotels and Stores

First Canadian Ale Made in the U.S.A.

Drewrys has been in its ageing tanks for many months, until now it is fully matured and mellowed and a very good product, indeed.

Instructions to Dispensers

Please do not wash your glasses or tankards in soapy water nor dry them on starched towels. The starches and fats will destroy the more delicate aromas of the Ale. Better to wash your vessels in salt water, rinse them in clear water and dry them with a soft towel.
Do not chill to too low a temperature or again you will lose some of your flavors. This type of Ale should be served at about 45 degrees.

Suggestions to Users

It is well to pour this Ale into your steins or tankards as high as possible without getting too deep a collar. This is the sparkling India type Ale and the high pouring tends to stir the aromas and flavors to a richer blending. Where possible use tankards. And drink full mouthed, holding the mouthful a moment on the tongue.

—The Price—

Due to our brewing on this side of the border you should be able to buy your Drewrys anywhere for very, very little more than the price of your better beers.

Alcoholic Content

Drewrys Ale is 8 per cent proof spirits or 4 per cent by volume American standard. In Canada we make this Ale 9 per cent proof spirits or approximately 4.9 per cent by volume Canadian standard. There is a fraction of difference between Canadian and American standards in measuring proof spirit against volume, but there is very little difference in the actual proof spirits of the two Ales. And in this India type of sparkling Ale, when the product is fully matured and aged and brought up to its full alcoholic content as allowed by your laws, no apology is necessary.

Only 2 Carloads for Chicago—Sorry

In trying to be fair to the various distributors throughout the States who have waited so patiently, the initial shipment to each city, of necessity, has had to be exceedingly small. And unfortunately, at least for some time to come, it must continue to be limited. But of this you may be assured—that no shipment of Drewrys Ale will ever come into this market at any time until it has been fully matured. We shall hold rigidly to the Canadian standards in this and all other respects.

CHICAGO TRADE GROUPS RALLY TO BACK RECOVERY

71 Organizations Already in New Council.

Chicago's trade and civic organizations have begun their response to the appeal of Gen. Hugh Johnson, industrial recovery administrator, for community support of the national industrial recovery program. Seventy-one organizations have joined the Chicago Recovery council and more than 100 others have pledged support pending membership agreements, which must be passed upon by directors and members.

The enrollment of the first recruits in the council was made public yesterday by George W. Rossetter, general chairman. The council was created at the suggestion of Gen. Johnson, who asked that the Chicago Association of Commerce head the commercial and consumer groups from every section and class of the city.

Many Answer the Call.

"The gratifying number of organizations that have definitely pledged their support in answer to our first call is only typical of what we may expect in Chicago," said Mr. Rossetter. "More than a hundred other powerful bodies have indicated their wholehearted interest and will undoubtedly make definite pledges to back the Chicago Recovery council as soon as they have been able to get the official indorsement of their officers and members.

"It is practically safe to say that the council, when it reaches its full strength, will include better than 400 recognized Chicago organizations.

"The Chicago Recovery council is one of several community efforts being made by business and civic leaders throughout the country. In Detroit, Omaha, Cleveland, Buffalo, and several other large cities units like our own are doing far reaching work in crystallizing popular support back of President Roosevelt's commendable effort.

"This is no single handed effort by one group or class. Already we have listed in our local membership the women's clubs, the service clubs, and several efficient neighborhood organizations.

ROOSEVELT PUTS WHITE HOUSE IN BLUE EAGLE NEST

Washington, D. C., Aug. 13.—[Special.]—On the doors of the White House tonight were pasted stickers denoting that as "consumers" its occupants are pledged to purchase supplies only from those conforming with the NRA requirements.

These stickers, circular in size, about six inches in diameter and bearing the familiar blue eagle emblem, have printed across their faces in prominent letters the word "Consumer." They are to be issued to households and other consuming units pledged to purchase only from stores or dealers that have been awarded the blue eagle.

Mrs. Roosevelt has pasted one of the stickers on the windshield of her blue roadster.

IRISH GUARDSMEN BEATEN; POLICE CLUB ATTACKERS

Patriots' Day Goes Without Official Fete.

BY HUGH CURRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Aug. 13.—Aside from a great display of police in the streets leading to the cenotaph erected for Arthur Griffith, Michael Collins and Kevin O'Higgins on Leinster lawn and the readiness of the military in the various barracks, there was no sign today of serious trouble. The police interfered in only two minor affairs.

Formal functions at the cenotaph were abandoned for the first time since the memorial to the Irish patriots was erected. The government late Friday night banned the national guard's scheduled demonstration, and to avoid a conflict Gen. Owen O'Duffy called off the scheduled parade of the Blue Shirts and the gathering at Glasnevin cemetery.

The number of persons entering the grounds of the cenotaph was limited to ten, and the only brush occurred when a woman clad in mourning placed three cornflowers on the monument. The cornflower is the floral emblem of the national guard.

Two Blue Shirts Assaulted.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon two Blue Shirts who were walking in O'Connell street were frequently molested. Finally they were assaulted. Police promptly clubbed the assailants, and the Blue Shirts, after receiving first aid, returned to their headquarters.

As night fell there were numerous outbursts of street fighting, chiefly in the district of O'Connell street, near the headquarters of the national guard. A street car on which a Blue Shirt attempted to escape was boarded by a mob and police cracked the heads of his assailants. The injured man was treated at a nearby first aid station.

Gen. O'Duffy presided at a prolonged meeting of the national guard executive committee today. He reiterated his plan to hold local celebrations for the martyred patriots in every county next Sunday.

May Suppress Guard.

It is not certain whether the government will attempt to prevent the demonstrations. The difficulty of policing such a wide area would be considerable, perhaps impossible. It is stated the government is contemplating suppression of the national guard—which is the successor to the Army Comrades association—but it is considered doubtful that it comes within the definition of associations which may be banned under the safety act. Only in 1932 the De Valera party condemned President Cosgrave for invoking the safety act.

SAVE CATHOLIC OFFICIALS FROM STEAMER ON REEF

CARIBOU ISLAND, Que., Aug. 13.—(AP)—The small coastwise passenger steamer North Shore was pounding itself to pieces on a reef near here tonight, while a party of Roman Catholic dignitaries, headed by Msgr. Andrea Cassulo, papal delegate to Canada and Newfoundland, were safe at Rimouski, Que. They were rescued from the damaged vessel by boats manned by fishermen and the ship's crew.

The North Shore, owned by the Clarke Steamship company, struck a reef at 5 p. m. Saturday. The exact cause of the accident was not determined.

Capt. Ovington and his crew of 21 remained aboard the stricken vessel overnight. The salvage ship Lord Strathcona was on her way here tonight from Quebec.

Conservation Corps Worker Killed Fighting Forest Fire

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Trapped with two companions in a steep banked canyon while fighting a forest fire near Newhall yesterday, Jene Arnette, 20, of East Liverpool, O., fell nearly 100 feet and was burned to death. Arnette and his companions were members of the civilian conservation corps battling fires started by electrical storms in the Angelus national forest.

HOWE DECLARES DRY LAW WILL BE ENFORCED

Washington, D. C., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Louis McHenry Howe, secretary to President Roosevelt, said tonight that despite the abolition of the old prohibition bureau "liquor control is neither dead nor forgotten."

Howe said the prohibition bureau had merely been absorbed by the division of investigation of the department of justice, adding that "if any racketeers or bootleggers are holding celebrations over the supposed demise of the bureau they are due for an awful shock."

"When the eighteenth amendment is repealed," Howe added, "the bootlegger will find himself if anything in closer quarters than now. Uncle Sam is counting on several hundreds of millions of dollars from revenue taxes, which will lighten the taxpayers' burdens—and if you are laboring under any illusion that he doesn't intend to collect every red cent of it you are making the mistake of your life."

Howe said merging the prohibition bureau with the bureau of investigation "is the beginning of the first successful attempt to make a truly businesslike and common sense division of governmental activities."

That if congress continues to support Roosevelt in his plans for reorganization "before these four years are over we will have as near a model government as it is possible for a government to be."

The millionaire Clark was killed May 15, 1932, in an Arizona plane crash.

SING SING CHIEF URGES FEDERAL CRIME LAWS

Ossining, N. Y., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Warden Lewis E. Lawes of Sing Sing prison, expressing doubt that making death the penalty of kidnaping would accomplish its purpose, suggested today that all major crimes be made federal offenses.

On the eve of his scheduled appearance before the United States senate committee investigating racketeering, Warden Lawes declared that the crime problem is the most important issue before the American people today, outweighing even the problem of economic reconstruction.

Declaring the kidnaper "deserves no mercy" and that shooting is "too good for him," Warden Lawes said that imprisonment for 50 years is "certainly a more drastic penalty than death."

"Criminal jurisprudence has become national in scope," he continued. "All major crimes should be made federal offenses."

IRISH NAB YANK AS RED AGITATOR AND DEPORT HIM

COBH, Irish Free State, Aug. 13.—(AP)—James Gralton, an Irishman who became an American citizen a few years ago, was deported today on a charge of communist agitation and left for America aboard the Britannic. Gralton was captured yesterday in a lonely mountain pass in County Leitrim, ending several months of dodging the police.

Much sympathy has been aroused for the man since he took active part in the Irish republican army's conflict with British forces twelve years ago before going to America and becoming a naturalized citizen there.

Two years ago Gralton returned to his old home at Carrick-on-Shannon and built an assembly hall which became the center of fierce controversy over accusations of communistic preaching. The hall was bombed last December.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES TO BE A NEWSREEL CAMERAMAN!

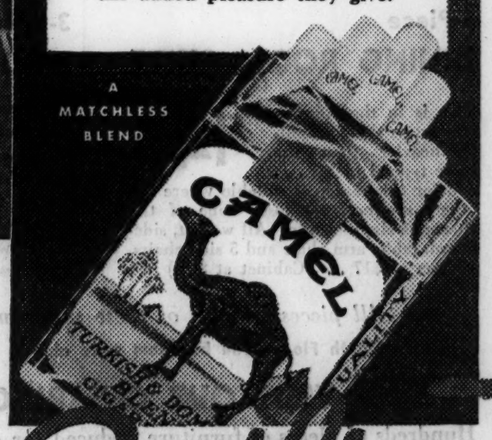
● WHILE FIRE GONGS CLANG and the excited crowd swings in closer to see the fire, it's natural to smoke a lot. It's when you are excited and under a strain that you will appreciate especially the mildness of Camels. Camel's costlier tobaccos do not tire your taste or harrass your nerves.

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW

Since it's the tobacco that counts, Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand. Learn to know Camels' rich mildness, their better flavor... the added pleasure they give.



STEADY SMOKERS TURN TO CAMELS

HUGO JOHNSON says: "A news cameraman doesn't keep office hours! I have to be where the news is—when it breaks. It's a tremendous strain on the nervous system. No wonder I am a heavy smoker! I find that with Camels I can smoke all I want, yet keep my nerves healthy."

If you are a steady smoker, Camels are made for you! They are so mild that they will never tire your taste ... or fray your nerves. Get a pack and prove it for yourself. It is more fun to know!

Camel's Costlier Tobaccos

NEVER GET ON YOUR NERVES
NEVER TIRE YOUR TASTE

A Souvenir of good Judgment

NUMBERED are the days when one can step into a store and stumble on "below cost" bargains.

Some morning you will wake up to find that the prices of the early '30s are dim memories of a distant past. Manufacturing costs are climbing. Opportunity beckons nervously. Time is slipping by. Unless you tackle opportunity like a sophomore set on making the first team, you may have nothing more tangible than conversation to remember those days of "lowest prices in history."

There is still time to give your family a souvenir that will testify to your shrewd buying judgment for the rest of your natural life . . . a General Electric Refrigerator.

Even at advanced prices General Electric will be a good buy. But why wait for prices to go up? Why pay for the delay with a lingering regret? General Electric Refrigerators are now at lowest prices ever. But they pause there momentarily. Give your family this lifetime souvenir of good judgment while there still is time.

You can't go wrong with a General Electric. Two hundred thousand General Electric owners in Chicago alone will tell you so. These people have thanked their lucky stars time and again for getting a refrigerator so ingeniously built as to need no fans, no belts, no pulleys, no exposed moving parts . . . no place for dust or dirt to filter in and steal life from the machine.

Concentrate as you read this admonition . . . "Buy now before prices go up." That sentence may look like only so many words strung together now. But in a month . . . 6 months . . . a year, if you fail to heed its urgency it will become just another neglected opportunity. Come in or phone today for representative. You can have a General Electric delivered for as little as $7 down.

SPEARHEAD CLEW TO MEN IN U. S. 15,000 YEARS AGO

Weapon Is Unearthed in New Mexico.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 13.—(AP)—The latest discovery that big game hunters lived in North America fully 15,000 years ago was described today in a report from Edgar B. Howard, Philadelphia archeologist who is excavating in New Mexico.

The find is a stone spear head of skilled craftsmanship. It is an exceedingly slender lethal weapon, its type unusual.

This instrument was found near Clovis, N. M., in geological formations which indicate its approximate "date." Similar formations yielded bones of elephants and camels, long extinct in the southwest. They revealed also campfire ashes of men.

Ashes 20,000 Years Old.

The profusion of animals is taken to mean that either the southwest was then a more rainy country, or that at the time the spear man lived it was still in sufficiently early stages of drying up to support the big game which he hunted.

Dr. Howard's report is a preliminary comunication, made public by Charles M. B. Cadwalader, managing director of the Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia, and Horace H. F. Jayne, director of the University of Pennsylvania museum. The archeologist heads a joint expedition of the two institutions.

The report outlines the previously found "impressive indications that man lived in North America perhaps 15,000 years ago." It starts with the finding of a human pelvic bone among extinct animals near Natchez, Miss., in 1846. It ends with Gypsum Cave, Nev., where camp fire ashes estimated at nearly 20,000 years old were found about three years ago.

Pictures Ancient America.

The discoveries this summer in New Mexico, he says, fit quite perfectly into this picture of an ancient past for America.

"It would seem that it is about time for us to recognize a culture in this country older than the basket maker, more than likely a hunting culture following large herds of animals, frequenting the open country of the west and the southwest, and perhaps extending to other parts of the country.

"It should not stretch our imagination too much to picture a people living at a time when the mammoth and other animals, now extinct, lived. We know that man lived with the mammoth in Europe and why should he not have lived here under somewhat different conditions?"

Number of Idle in Italy Drops 60,805 in Month

ROME, Aug. 13.—(AP)—The number of unemployed in Italy has decreased 60,805 on Aug. 1, as compared with July 1, according to statistics released today.

"River of Sorrow" Seeks Old Channel

Map shows present course of China's Yellow river and arrow points to channel it followed before 1852. Excessive rains and melting snow in Tibet have caused floods in Shantung and the central provinces. Dikes have broken east of Kaifeng and the river is beginning to flow into its old channel toward an outlet 300 miles south of the present mouth.

PIONEER PILOTS TO OPEN FAST AIR SERVICE TO TEXAS

Edmund Matucha, who inaugurated the first air mail service between Chicago and Texas seven years ago, will pilot the first plane on that route tomorrow morning under the United Air Lines' new high speed schedules. On May 12, 1926, Matucha took off on the pioneering flight to Kansas City, which required about five hours. Tomorrow he will fly the same distance with ten passengers and a cargo of mail and express in half that time.

EDMUND MATUCHA.

Matucha's pioneering flight was made in a Curtiss Carrier Pigeon open biplane. The plane carried mail, but no passengers or express. It had a cruising speed of about 100 miles an hour. At 10 a. m. tomorrow Matucha will fly a new Boeing metal monoplane which cruises at 171 miles an hour over the same route, that has been spaced with light beacons for night flying and is marked by the radio beacon as well.

When Matucha lands at Kansas City Richard Doble, also a member of the team that pioneered the air mail route seven years ago, will take the passengers, mail and express on to Dallas, Tex. A third member of the team of pioneers, Paul Johnson, will fly the first northbound plane from Dallas.

The new planes will cover the entire distance in eight hours, compared with 16 hours for the original flight. There will be one day and one night plane in each direction.

VERNON, Tex., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Eugene Knox, 58, was killed today by the propellor of an airplane as he alighted after a ride at an air circus here. Ray Shiflett of Mangum, Okla., was pilot of the plane.

BRITISH LABOR GROUPS TO URGE ROOSEVELT 'DEAL'

BRIGHTON, England, Aug. 13.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's method of dealing with unemployment will be held up as an example to Great Britain at the trade union congress here Sept. 4.

The Boilermakers and Iron and Steel Shipbuilders' society will urge the congress to demand action from the British government to deal with unemployment on broad and comprehensive lines similar to those laid down by the American President to congress.

The resolution urged by these organizations demands withdrawal from the labor market of children under 16 years and adults over 65 years and the reduction of working hours in productive industry to provide for the absorption into industry of all workers between the ages of 16 and 65.

China's Yellow River Seeks New Outlet 300 Miles Away

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 14 [Monday]. — China's Yellow river, popularly known as "the river of sorrows," has broken its banks. A series of dikes in northeastern Honan province has gone out.

Flood waters a mile wide and many feet deep are flowing southeastward, apparently scouring a new channel to the sea through northern Kiangsu province, to the south of Shantung peninsula and more than 300 miles to the south of the present outlet in the Gulf of Chihli.

For a similar situation one might imagine the Mississippi suddenly changing its channel and seeking a new outlet in the Gulf of Mexico 300 miles east or west of New Orleans.

Seeks Old Bed.

According to Chinese records, the Yellow river previously emptied into the Yellow sea about 300 miles north of Shanghai, near Antungfu. Eighty years ago during a flood it changed its course within a period of two months, and found an outlet near Tientsin, causing tremendous losses to property and people. Engineers now forecast a similar cataclysm.

The flood waters apparently are leaving the old channel near Kaifeng and seeking an outlet in the Yellow sea, causing untold devastation in the densely populated areas of northern Honan, Anhwei, and Kiangsu provinces as well as southern Shantung.

Some engineers even forecast that the river may enter the grand canal, flow southward and empty into the Yangtze river east of Nanking.

The Nationalist government has ordered flood relief bodies into action. One thousand laborers are building new dikes ahead of the flood along the Kiangsu-Honan border, hoping to force the river back into its old channel.

Several Counties Flooded.

Several counties of Shantung already are flooded. The water is beginning to enter Weishan lake. In southern Shantung hundreds of villages and thousands of acres of farm lands are inundated.

The Wei river, tributary of the Yellow river in Shensi province, also is flooded in the vicinity of the capital, Sian, causing a heavy loss of life and property damage. Five thousand acres and 200 villages also are inundated in the Tientsin area. This, as well as the Yellow flood, is due to excessive rainfall and melting snows in the mountains of eastern Tibet, Kansu, and Suiyuan provinces.

The Yellow river has altered its outlet five times in 4,300 years and last emptied into the Yellow sea in 1852. The river picks up particles blown from the Gobi desert and in flood times the water contains as much as 18 per cent silt. Silt deposits and the volcanic strata of Shantung peninsula have combined to block the present mouth, raising the level of the river inland.

FLOOD, WIND AND HOT SAND DOOM TOWN IN CHINA

HANKOW, China, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Further news of conditions in the flood area of north Honan province, arriving from Chengchow tonight, disclosed details of hardships facing the seemingly doomed town of Szeshui, about 50 miles west of Chengchow.

Dispatches stated that provincial and Chengchow authorities have undertaken a relief expedition, carrying foodstuffs and medicines by boats. The advices said that the already serious conditions have been made worse by a high wind carrying hot sand and that this, coupled with the blazing heat of the sun, hindered relief efforts and increased fears for the fate of the populace in the isolated town. The dangers of dysentery, cholera and sunstroke were considered greatly increased.

The flooding waters of the Yellow river destroyed the nationally known watermelon fields about Szeshui, robbing the people of a principal food and also labor of its expected incomes. One report stated flood waters outside of Szeshui were dotted with huge floating watermelons, to which peasant children were clinging, unable to reach land.

PUPILS TO FIND REVISED SCHOOL SYSTEM SEPT. 18

Economy Reorganization Being Carried Out.

When Chicago's half million school children troop back to their classrooms on Sept. 18 they will find the school system reorganized from top to bottom. President James B. McCahey and other school board members maintain that the reorganization program, adopted to reduce the school deficit, means the elimination of "soft jobs" and does not in any way hurt the fundamental education of the city's boys and girls.

An examination of the board program discloses that the only courses eliminated are manual training and household arts in the seventh and eighth grades. These courses, however, will continue to be available for high school students.

More Rooms for Classes.

By eliminating the two courses in the grade schools additional rooms are made available for regular classes. This will take thousands of pupils out of unhealthy, makeshift portables as well as provide a full day of instruction for each child instead of the half day and extended period schooling that existed under the old system.

The kindergartens will be continued as in the past. The board members discovered that children 3 years old were being taken into the kindergartens in order to keep up the number of pupils and retain teachers' jobs. The economy program therefore eliminates 300 assistant kindergarten teachers, leaving the work entirely in the hands of the regular teachers. Kindergarten attendance is limited to one year, with no child being allowed to enter under 5 years of age.

Physical Education Goes On.

Physical education has not been eliminated in the economy program. In this connection Supt. William J. Bogan reported to the board at its last meeting that physical education in the grade schools will be conducted by regular classroom teachers. In addition activities will be carried on as usual by the playground instructors.

Physical education, with a reduced force, will be carried on as before in the high schools.

Music will be taught by the regular music teachers while the positions of band and orchestra leaders will be eliminated.

The board has already started to convert eleven junior high schools into senior high school plants to save money and also to provide more comfortable quarters for thousands of Chicago children. The junior high school system of instruction.

It is estimated that Chicago tax payers would have had to pay $27,000,000 to construct new school buildings in order to place the junior high school system in operation throughout the entire city.

'BLONDE TIGRESS' BREAKS DOWN IN POLICE SHOWUP

Mrs. Eleanor Jarman, the 29 year old "blonde tigress," broke down yesterday under the strain of repeated identifications by holdup victims. An identification at the detective bureau showup was her 38th since she was arrested on Aug. 9 and charged, with George Kennedy and Leo Minneci, with killing Gustav Hoeh 10 days ago in the holdup of his haberdashery shop at 5843 Division street.

At previous showups Mrs. Jarman had shown the same hard boiled attitude which she exhibited in various robberies, in which she directed the activities of her two male confederates and frequently cursed and struck her victims, both men and women. As identifications piled up she shrugged her shoulders and snarled: "A few more won't make any difference."

Yesterday, however, her spirit appeared broken. A police matron had to support her and she was half lifted to the showup platform. Her eyes were red from crying and she broke into sobs when she was identified.

The 38th identification was made by Mrs. Anna Sawl, owner, with her husband, of a dry goods shop at 3714 West Chicago avenue. On June 13 Mrs. Jarman, Minneci, and Kennedy held up Mrs. Sawl in her shop, tied her up, placed a dress over her head, and robbed her of $25.

CATHOLIC HAVEN FOR BOYS TAKES UP NEW PROGRAM

Open house yesterday at the Mission of Our Lady of Mercy, 1140 Jackson boulevard, heralded the new régime of an institution that for nearly 50 years has been a Chicago haven for wandering boys. Runaways from Canada, waifs from Mexico, all have knocked at its doors in the 46 years of its service, and have found rest and food and shelter there until they could be returned to their homes or placed in jobs.

A carnival that will open tomorrow and last through Saturday night on the grounds will inaugurate the reopening of the remodeled mission as a home for boys over 16 as they are turned out of orphanages to make their own way.

The group known in the immediate past as "Father Quille's boys," inmates of the mission under the long supervision of Msgr. Charles J. Quille, are being distributed among other clubs for young men in the city at the direction of Cardinal Mundelein. The cardinal proposes to give the new protégés of the home a secondary or college education and to prepare them for real service in life rather than unskilled labor.

Yesterday was "hostess day," with a committee of women receiving friends of the institution who inspected the new quarters. The capacity has been increased from 150 to 200 boys.

RACKET GUNMAN IS ARRESTED AS KIDNAP SUSPECT

Abe Schaffner, 39 years old, an ex-convict, bank robber and labor racketeer, was captured in his bed early yesterday and taken to the detective bureau as a suspect in several kidnaping cases.

Sergt. Thomas Curtin led two squads of detectives who raided Schaffner's home at 1050 North Springfield avenue and hauled him from bed. Chief of Detectives Schoemaker, who ordered the arrest, refused to divulge the kidnaping cases in which Schaffner is suspected. They are believed, however, to have been abductions of bookmakers and underworld characters who made no reports to the police.

Schaffner's criminal record started in 1910, when, at the age of 16, he was sent to the Bridewell for burglary.

In December, 1917, Schaffner drove the car for the bandits who robbed the Stockmen's Trust and Savings bank of $10,975. He was convicted of robbery, but carried up various appeals and did not enter the penitentiary until 1923. He was paroled in 1927. His later appearances on police records were in connection with labor racketeering. He was arrested repetedly on charges of assault and intimidation.

BURGLARS RAID DORMITORY.

The rooms of several students in the dormitory of Garrett Biblical Institute, Evanston, were looted Saturday night by burglars. Most of the loot consisted of clothing.

NEW YORKERS ASK 83 MILLION SAVING BY CITY

New York, Aug. 13.—[Special.]—There could be savings of approximately $83,000,000 in New York City government next year, according to the citizens' budget commission memoranda to be filed with the state legislature tomorrow. But the city's Tammany administration plans increases of about $40,000,000, a large part from new taxes.

The budget commission's plan urges restoring the credit of the city by economical administration and not solely by the imposition of new taxes, while at least a 10 per cent tax reduction below 1933 would appeal to the citizens.

The budget commission urges elimination of purely political jobs and a central purchasing department for all city units; immediate survey all departments to list essential positions; suspension of mandatory salary increases; reorganization and severe cuts in county government, and the leaving of vacated positions unfilled. Tammany legislators are urging that funds raised by taxes in the state at large be diverted to help New York City. Gov. Lehman has refused to sanction that idea.

FIRE ON CAR OF FAIR VISITORS; TWO WOUNDED

Three bandits opened fire with a shotgun on two couples from Granada, Miss., early yesterday as they were starting home after visiting the World's Fair, and wounded two of them. Mrs. Ruby Vance, 22 years old, and Charles Hovis, 24 years old, were struck by shot in the face and chest, but will recover. Hovis was driving an automobile, in which his wife, Lottie, and Mrs. Vance's husband, Gilbert, were also riding. The robbers fired at them when Hovis speeded up as the bandit car tried to force him to the curb at Ashland and Elburn avenues.

360 Homes Razed by Fire in Piraeus, Port of Athens

ATHENS, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Fire swept today through 360 dwellings in Piraeus, port of Athens, and some 250 families were left without shelter. Government officials spurred relief activities. Fears were expressed for a number of mothers who rushed into their burning home to rescue children, but no loss of life has been reported.

SENATOR PITTMAN ABANDONS THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

If Senator Key Pittman were not chairman of the senate foreign relations committee his remarks, on his return from Europe, regarding the Monroe Doctrine could be taken as the remarks of just another congressman. In spite of his important chairmanship they probably are. Senator Pittman says the United States should announce that the Monroe Doctrine is an outworn policy and so reassure the rest of the Americas that it will not interfere in their affairs. An inquirer might arise to ask what has worn the doctrine out—its success?

The Monroe Doctrine does not interfere in the affairs of American nations. It interferes with other interference with them. It says in effect that any one of them threatened by an aggressor from overseas has an ally. The dangers now are not what they were a hundred years ago. One reason for that is the Monroe Doctrine. It has been tested time and again. It has stopped aggression and it has turned invaders out. It has kept this hemisphere from providing such fields of conquest and dominance as Europe has found in Africa and Asia.

Europe's ambitions for new lands have not been exhausted. Colonial programs advance and do not recede. Colonies are still spoils of war and profits of conquest, as Germany now complains to the makers of the treaty of Versailles. The predatory instinct is not dormant. Mr. Pittman's snap judgment seems to have been called forth by Cuba. The Monroe Doctrine will not send American warships to Havana again. It was back of the demand that Spain cease tormenting the island, but there it stopped. Other agreements cover the particular relations of Cuba to the United States. Without the Monroe Doctrine the interference of other nations in Cuban affairs would not be an improbability. The procedure is familiar.

Internal disorders result in injury to aliens. Their governments protest. The disorders continue and the injuries mount up. The protests are backed by warships and landing parties. The customs are seized to provide collection of damages. Compromises with the offender are made for concessions and zones of influence. After that the proconsul and the domiciled legion. Europe has too much land in the Americas now, but these domains are not being increased. The deterrent is the Monroe Doctrine.

If Europe has a war, Africa almost necessarily has one. The African colonies are tied to the fate of another continent, unable to prevent an event and bound to share it. The Monroe Doctrine is a declaration of independence for two continents.

A JUDGE AND THE POLICE.

An incident took place last week in the stockyards branch of the Municipal court which seems to us to deserve very serious consideration not only by public authority but by the people of the city. As reported and verified responsibly, the pertinent facts are as follows: An individual known to the police as Stanley Nowicki, alias Stock, was brought before Municipal Judge Michael G. Kasper on a charge of disorderly conduct. He had been arrested by two policemen while sitting in an automobile standing at the curb. The policemen testified that they knew of Nowicki or Stock as a minor hoodlum who was or had been a chauffeur for Joe Saitis, the so-called beer baron or gangster. Upon this belief they were interested to know why Nowicki was sitting in the automobile and asked him why. The police witness testified that Nowicki answered with abusive language so vile that we cannot print it, whereupon they arrested him and he was booked for disorderly conduct.

To this testimony the judge is reported to have reacted with violent indignation, pounding the bench with his fist and leaping to his feet. He is reported to have declared that if he had been there he would have said the same thing to the police officers. The witness said he knew of his own knowledge that Nowicki was a police character and an associate of bootleggers and cited orders from the commissioner of police to pick up known hoodlums whether caught in the act of lawbreaking or not. The judge thereupon is reported to have said: "I don't care whether the commissioner gave you orders or not. Get out and get out quick. Case dismissed and defendant cleared."

This incident, if reported correctly, raises some very interesting questions. One is, does this Municipal judge or any other judge sworn to enforce the law hold that it is improper or unlawful for a peace officer to interrogate any individual whose presence or conduct in a public place seems to him deserving of inquiry? Does this judge or any other judge consider it the duty of our police officers when they are acquainted with the repute and associations of an individual to allow this knowledge to direct their observation of his doings? Is this judge or any other judge in duty bound to take cognizance of the notorious conditions of hoodlumism in this community and that it is the duty of the police to maintain surveillance over these conditions, to know who are hoodlums or individuals of suspicious associations, to note their comings and goings, and to interrogate them if circumstances seem to justify inquiry?

There is also the definition of disorderly conduct. The report, if correct, discloses that Judge Kasper does not hold violent and obscene language addressed to a police officer to be disorderly conduct, and even declared that he would have used it if he had been Nowicki. This is a most interesting judicial pronouncement, apart from its bearing upon the personal standards of this jurist. It seems to us deserving of attention from the chief justice of the Municipal court, of the Bar association and of the public. Also the community will be interested to know whether Judge Kasper's judgment and reactions in this matter represent anything more general than his own peculiar attitude.

THE JAPANESE STATE OF MIND.

In May last year Premier Inukai of Japan was killed by a band of naval officers. The assassins were led by Lieut. Yamagishi. The murder was the climax of various terrorist acts. The naval officers are now on trial at one of the naval bases. Lieut. Yamagishi, the first defendant to take the witness stand, began his testimony in a public hearing, but as soon as he had made his preliminary statements the courtroom was cleared and the trial continued in secret.

Yamagishi's statement was as strange as it was interesting and apparently truthful. He and the other naval officers killed the prime minister because of the Washington and London naval treaties limiting Japan to a subordinate position in the 5-5-3 ratio. He said that the officers, of whom he was the leader, were convinced that the government had betrayed the nation and feared that if there were no change in spirit and policy before the revision of the treaties in 1936 the United States would be able to impose further humiliating and dangerous restrictions on Japan and use them as the means of extending its domination over Asia. Therefore they struck a blow which they hoped would force a revision of Japanese doctrines and a reconstruction of government serving Japanese national security and dignity.

To many Americans this story will be incredible, yet they must believe it. They know that the United States proposed the Washington conference and in it sacrificed the superiority of the American fleet, in being or in building, to allay world suspicion of its intentions, and particularly to remove Japanese and British fear of American sea power. Americans know also, if they know anything about the navy, that their representatives in international naval negotiations have generally yielded points of national interest to what was set up as the requirement of world tranquillity and security. Furthermore, it is known that although the United States had a paper equality with Great Britain and an adjustment with Japan calculated to give each country an adequate defense in its own waters, the United States has never built up to all its various quotas. Americans have been slow to realize that arrangements intended to demonstrate the inoffensive character of American naval defense have been construed in Japan as obvious and deliberate attempts against Japanese interest, dignity, and security.

When the United States agreed not to carry its fortified naval bases, fortified in the modern meaning of the word, farther than Hawaii, the purpose was to give Japan proof of the nonaggressive purposes of the American republic. Apparently all these fair intentions have failed. The purposes of the naval limitations and of America's pacific policy have been misinterpreted and misconstrued. To Americans who believe that it would be a crime to allow Asiatic policies to produce a war these developments are disconcerting.

Americans cannot say that their government in times past has been wholly free from responsibility in creating a Japanese state of mind, but they see no reason why facts cannot be made better proof of purposes. In view of what is unquestionably taking place in Japanese military thought, the worth of the naval agreements due to be considered again three years from now must be studied and without any conviction that the plan of limitation by treaty is necessarily good, but with the inquiry if it might not be the saner thing to have Japan and Great Britain understand at once that the United States does not desire to put any limitation upon their naval strength, that it is thought unwise to renew the treaties, and that Japanese and British warship building does not concern it. It should not be understood that the United States is alarmed or that it proposes to build the greatest navy in the world. It merely regrets that the means by which it undertook to demonstrate its good purposes had the effect opposite from that intended. It will not in the future fail to consider its own security, nor has it any fear of its ability to do so. It will continue to be nonprovocative, but its conclusion after study may be that international agreements so generally fail their purpose, even when sincere, that a return to older and simpler methods of honest diplomacy is to be desired.

COTTON.

[The Texas Weekly, Dallas.]

Cotton consumption showed enormous improvement during the last cotton year. The estimate of the New York Cotton exchange service places world consumption of American cotton for the year at 14,132,000 bales, the highest since the year ending July 31, 1929, when the consumption was 15,226,000 bales. World consumption for the year ending July 31, 1932, was 12,506,000 bales. The increase during the last year over the previous year, therefore, was 1,626,000 bales. The estimated carryover this year is 11,975,000 bales as compared with 13,228,000 bales last year. It is the first year since 1929 that the carryover has been reduced from the previous year's total. The years 1930, 1931, and 1932 witnessed a steady increase of the carryover. That this was due chiefly to decreased consumption, rather than to overproduction, is indicated by the consumption figures for those years. For the year ending July 31, 1930, world consumption of American cotton amounted to 13,021,000 bales; for 1931 it was 11,113,000 bales, and for 1932 it was 12,506,000 bales. The total for the three years was 36,640,000 bales. Had consumption during those three years been at the same level as consumption for the fiscal year of 1928-'29 the total would have been 45,678,000 bales, or 9,038,000 bales more than was actually consumed. In other words, had consumption kept up on the level of the year ending July 31, 1929, there would have been a carryover last year of less than 3,000,000 bales, and today it would be less than 2,000,000 bales. Of course, consumption of American cotton during the year 1928-'29 was above the average. But the fact remains that more than 15,000,000 bales of American cotton was consumed that year, and the world's population is increasing all the time. The point here is that it is not true that overproduction has been what is chiefly the matter with cotton. What has been the matter has been reduced consumption. And by the same token the cure for the cotton situation, the permanent cure, is sustained and increased consumption and not reduced production.

MARKET LETTER.

CREEPING MARKETS PREVAILED ON THE bourse and in the pits last week. The trouble was the hot babies crept both ways, advancing with infantile courage only to crawfish at the first sign of unpleasant rumors. Such action conforms to the general uncertainty which we have previously mentioned. It was significant, perhaps, that the decline was arrested. Rumors said holdings were passing from weak to strong hands in quiet accumulation.

Our clients frequently have been informed what passing from strong to weak hands means. When your margin is exhausted you become weak hands, while the bird with available capital takes your holdings at a bargain. Then it's in strong hands. That's why we always have advised those who will play the market to hold strong hands.

If the too widely advertised September rise is to take place, this is the kind of market upon which to build it, a market of indecision on the part of the public. Prices either go up or go down. They do not hold steady for any long period. The new deal is too strongly committed to higher prices for the movement to fail at this time. Therefore one must think the trend is mildly upward, even if delayed. If the Washington program ever does fail it will be a market cataclysm.

On the New York bourse Auburn tried some hill climbing, but eventually skidded on a softer surface. American Tobacco smoked up and held some of its fire. Baldwin, on the strength of increased orders, was an apple, contrary to the week-end weakness. Chicago and Great Western was as consistent as Dick O'Hara. Burroughs added a little. Chrysler responded to expanding production. Wrigley adhered to previous levels and to park benches. Westinghouse was hardly electric. Lima Locomotive got up a mild burst of steam. United Biscuit loafed.

In the local list Eddy Paper was cut severely. Mickelberry remained a sausage. Swift issues were not so fast. Grigsby-Grunow was static. Yellow Cab moved slowly with the general traffic. J. R. Thompson gave food for thought. Over on the curb brewery issues were on an even keel, but apparently have not aged enough for consumer demand. After the foam is skimmed off some of them should be bottled up for future use.

Market action as a whole was not unsatisfactory. As we advised a week ago, first establish a profit and then sit on it. By all means avoid primary loss. Conservative adherence to this policy will prove remunerative even in times of relative inactivity.

SCOTT'S INFANTILE PARALYSIS.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT is not the only great man who has not permitted a physical infirmity to thwart his career.

Sir Walter Scott had an attack of epidemic poliomyelitis in his infancy. The result was crippling, which of coure persisted throughout his life. This physical disorder affecting his legs was complicated by another, which struck even nearer the bull's-eye. A man does not need legs to be a successful president of a nation or a great novelist, but he does need brains. Epidemic poliomyelitis—infantile paralysis—affects nerve centers in the spinal cord quite removed in space and considerably removed in function from the brain.

In addition to the trouble in his spinal cord Sir Walter Scott had a disorder which affected the size and shape of that part of his head in which lies the brain. He was the tenth in a family of twelve children, the first six of which died in early infancy. Before the end of the first year of life the fact that his head was of a peculiar shape became noticeable. This was evident before he had the infection with infantile paralysis.

As he matured his cranial peculiarity became more and more marked. He developed a cranial deformity which commonly is known as dome head, and which physicians know as oxycephaly and pseudo-oxycephaly. This deformity is caused by an unduly early and rapid ossification of certain sutures in the bones of the head. Since the brain must grow in size as well as improve in quality as the years go by, the sutures in the cranial bones are left ununited to permit of expansion within.

The combined result of brain growth and head bone growth is the well known shape of the civilized man's head. When certain sutures set too early the growing brain pushes upward and somewhat forward, causing a certain mountain ridge appearance that is called "dome head." In many cases dome heads are feeble-minded and rarely are they as intelligent as their high heads cause some to think them.

In pseudo-oxycephaly, which was Scott's condition, the brain power may average a little below normal, but the defect is not marked. In his case his skull defect was a handicap, so far as his personal appearance and presentability was concerned. It may have been in part responsible for some of his mental and personality peculiarities, but beyond that it did him no harm. Starting a career that lay in other lines, he switched to literature and became a world figure. He appears to have worked as hard in training his mind and in storing information as he did in overcoming the limitations due to his crippling, and in both fields he achieved success.

DO NOT CHANGE MUCH.

I am 86 years of age; in bed the last 5 years, caused by fractured hip. I do not use glasses except for reading; keep up with current events.

For breakfast, I have a cereal with light cream, sliced banana, a sprinkle of sugar; weak coffee every day in the year. No lunch, only a drink of cereal coffee with milk.

At 6 p. m., always baked potato, small portion; fish, chop, or chicken; tomato, or spinach, boiled onion, celery; baked apple. Very little sweets of any kind.

At times from knee to ankle I have severe itching. If rubbed or scratched little red specks appear under skin, then disappear, relieved. On the back of hands at times there is a terrible itching. Doing the same to relieve it, little white spots appear in groups raised a bit, then disappear. At times I am distracted also with my head, on which I use an advertised mild antiseptic for shampoo. I never have a pimple on any part of body. I never take a teaspoon of any kind of medicine or pills. Bowels move about 9 a. m. every day.

May I ask you if my trouble is from diet?

REPLY.

Most people of your age have itchy skins. Dryness of the skin is a factor. Washing and greasing is of service in that form of itching. Yours seems to go somewhat beyond that. It is quite possible it may be somewhat allergic in type, and food is a factor. You might try eliminating the cereal, since that usually wholesome food sometimes causes allergic rashes. Has your physician considered trying histamine on you, or calcium gluconate?

You are too old to be troubled by pimples. Pimples is a prerogative of youth.

Don't change anything much. You are doing too well and acting too wisely to hazard much change.

POISON OAK.

C. G. T. writes: What is a remedy for poison oak?

REPLY.

Wash the affected area with gasoline. Do not use the kind that contains lead. The sooner this is done the better. It can be used several times daily. There are other good remedies.

OBNOXIOUS ODORS.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—[Friend of the People.]—I take the liberty of appealing to you to help rectify a nuisance being imposed on us, residents of the south side adjacent to Calumet lake. They are dumping all garbage from the south side, filling in the western end of the lake. The rancid smell of some of the stockyards garbage leaves a pall of stench all over this community, and in addition to this they have set fire to a portion of it and the smoke from same is so dense at times that a person has to keep the windows closed when the wind is in the right direction. F. W. H.

Due to a former complaint the following notices were served on the owner: "Discontinus dumping animal skins at above location." "Abate public nuisance of smoke emanating from dump." This matter will be followed up until the foregoing orders have been complied with.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 14, 1917.

LONDON.—A day of great political excitement in London concluded last night with the announcement that George Nicoll Barnes, minister of pensions, had been appointed to replace Arthur Henderson as Labor member of the war cabinet. The appointment, according to a semi-official statement, has the approval of all the other Labor members of the government. Thus the crisis which seemed to threaten the existence of the government was solved, at least temporarily, and unless unexpected developments occur there will be no appeal to the country.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The entire 687,000 men composing the first increment of the army draft forces will be under training early in October. Under orders issued yesterday the first 30 per cent of the quota of each district will begin entrainment for cantonments Sept. 5; the next 30 per cent Sept. 15, and another 30 per cent Sept. 30. The remaining 10 per cent will be mobilized as soon after that date as possible.

WAR SUMMARY.—Five Americans were lost when the British steamer City of Athens struck a mine. Two Chicagoans were saved. Berlin reports the capture, after terrific fighting, of Panciu, an important railroad junction in Rumania. Paris reports the repulse of German attacks south of Ailles and progress of the French east of that position.

PARIS.—The first delegation of American women to visit the camps of the United States expeditionary forces in France arrived here after several days' motor touring under the auspices of the American Red Cross. Mrs. Isabel Lathrop, president of the fund for French wounded soldiers; Mrs. Helen Crean, daughter of Col. W. J. Nicholson and niece of Rear Admiral Nicholson; Miss Caroline Stephens, an English girl chauffeuse, and Miss Frances Jolliffe of San Francisco made up the party.

CHICAGO.—There will be at least 800 "slacker" cases presented to the next federal grand jury which convenes next month. Included are those who, it is expected, will be arrested for failure to respond to exemption boards for examination. Two hundred and fifty already have been arrested.

BEACH TICKETS IN WILMETTE.

Wilmette, Ill., Aug. 9.—It may interest you to know how the Wilmette Beach association is acting about the free tickets it is giving away to any Wilmette resident who desires one for use of the beach. I will give you my experience. For twenty years we have lived here, and up till this very last year have paid our taxes and special assessments. This year we felt it an extreme hardship to pay even the reduced price of four dollars for the privilege of going down to the beach and dipping into the water. So, seeing a little slip in a local paper that "no one should be deprived of the use of the lake for lack of funds," we applied. We were told this: That some one in the welfare department should be seen. This person would inquire into our status, financial and moral, and after a due period pass on whether we should be allowed this free service or not. After that, if the decision were favorable, the "beach master" should still further interrogate us, and if he thought we were poor enough and not taking any undue advantage we would be allowed a ticket. We were to tell how many in the family would be apt to use the lake, and, of course, as far as friends went we should be reduced to bringing very few if any.

Now, having some pride as American citizens, both my children and myself refused to go through this rigamarole. The whole matter of this Wilmette beach smacks of a dictatorship that is not very savory. Judge Dunne was within the absolute truth when he wrote of the arbitrary ways shown toward him and his grandchildren when he visited here.

And so, because I refuse to subject myself to impertinent questions, both my children and myself have been denied the privilege of swimming in the waters of Lake Michigan, even though, as I say, we have lived here for twenty years in our own home. Wilmette Resident.

THE BLUE PENCIL.

Elmhurst, Ill., Aug. 7.—The article regarding the trouble in the Illinois and Pennsylvania coal fields printed in this column last week over my signature was not the article submitted by me. The very essence of my argument was deleted by The Tribune for some reason other than want of space, for my letter was only of normal length.

Having had a similar experience before this with The Tribune, the natural conclusion is that its policy is to let the "Voice of the People" be heard only when the people voice the sentiments of The Tribune. E. J. Kennedy.

RACIAL PURITY.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—I have just listened to a broadcast from A Century of Progress in which Lieut. Gov. Dennis Murphy of Mississippi points with pride to racial purity in that state. I have just returned from that state and I found the crop of mulattos just as numerous as when I visited the state first, 45 years ago. Maybe the lieutenant governor does not know his own state.

SCORE ONE FOR THE DIRECTORY.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—Apparently your correspondent, Mr. Ostfeld, didn't examine the city directory thoroughly, as he is listed in the 1928 Chicago city directory, which is the last directory published for our city, as a clerk, residing at 2716 North California avenue, at the time the directory was published.
R. L. Polk & Co.

SALLIES WITHOUT FANS.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—How the folks down in the heart of Hoosierdom must be laughing at reports about Sally Rand and her fans. Sally and her press agent can thank their lucky stars that they are not trying to make a living down in Indianapolis. Miss Rand would attract about as much attention as the sound of a pin dropping in a busy boiler factory. A show girl holding a fan in front of her would be no treat for the young bloods of the Indiana capital. One who would dress up with two fans plus a coating of curve-concealing stage whitewash would soon join the ranks of the unemployed. One handkerchief held in place by hand and dropped during the finale is the costume of burlesque queens in the city which might well be called "America's Paris." H.

A WORLD OF LONDON BUSMEN.

Noblesville, Ind., Aug. 9.—The reason the police have had to make so few arrests at A Century of Progress is that the kind of people that go to a world's fair are orderly people.

One would think by reading stories about the Fair that all they have to exhibit up there is naked women. Just keep that up and Fair attendance will be hurt more than false stories of the persecution of motorists. It isn't necessary to spend a lot of money traveling to Chicago to see women in the nude. Anybody can go to a burlesque house most any night and see them in profusion.

If Chicago wants to sell the Fair out over the country, talk about the unusual. You've heard the old "nifty" about the girl trying to sell tickets to the reproduction of Lady Godiva's ride. The prospective buyer said: "I'll take a ticket. I haven't seen a horse for a long time." Secor W. Thomas.

THE FINER THINGS.

Chicago, Aug. 9.—Why is so much said about certain questionable features at our Fair? Why do we hear and read so little of the worthy things, which are far in the majority? For example, in the Hall of Religion stands the most marvelous carving I have ever seen, made from mother-of-pearl and depicting the Last Supper. All day long little groups of reverential men and women stand before it, absorbing the details, almost worshipfully studying a great art object almost 200 years old. Let others have their crude and vulgar exhibitions of this and that. To hundreds of thousands of others the Fair means such better, finer things as this.
Amos S. Fisher.

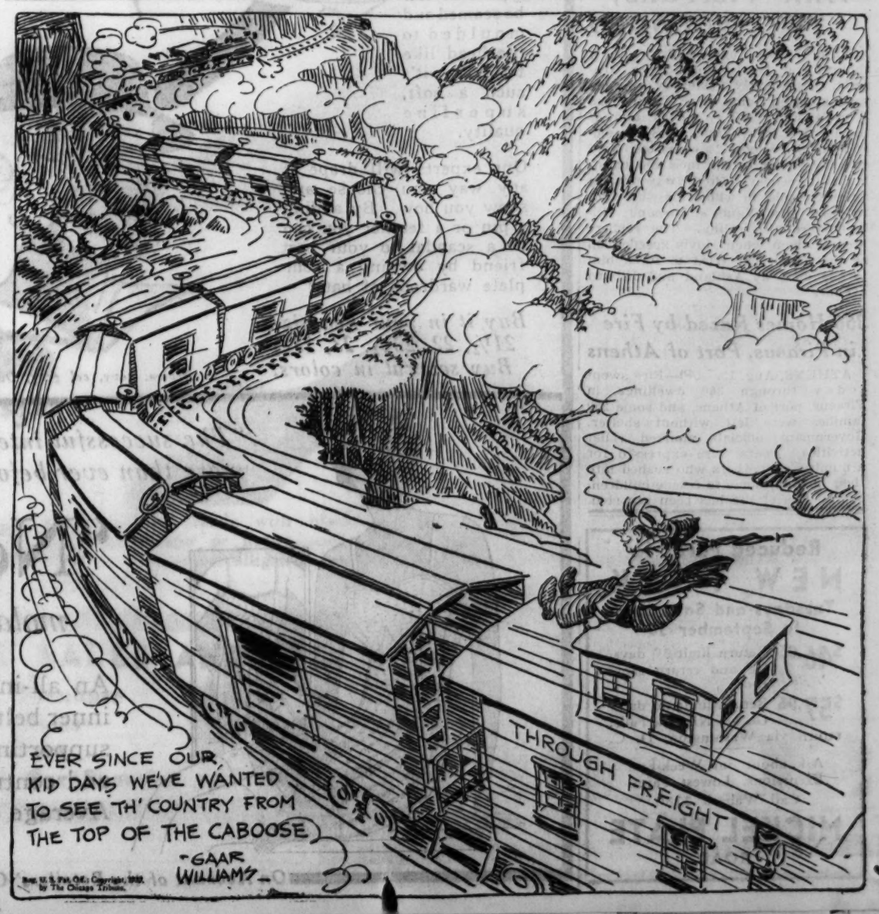
NRA IN THE LIGHTHOUSE SERVICE.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—I read an article in your column about the postoffice employés working the same number of hours and their pay cut not restored to them. But how about the government lighthouse tenders and other government boats that are working their men 84 hours per week? Also there are about 500 boats that are working most of their men 84 hours per week, or 12 hours a day, sailing the great lakes. E. H. S.

AFTER THE FAIR.

Oak Park, Ill., Aug. 10.—What will become of the invalid chairs now in use at the World's Fair? I believe it would be a good idea at the Fair's close to donate them to those of our citizens who are really invalids, but whose circumstances will not permit them this luxury.
F. O. Dunham.

OUR SECRET AMBITION



GIRL, 13, ROUTS FOUR ROBBERS WITH A BROOM

Resists When Struck by Crossed Youth.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 13.—[Special.]—Rose Goemer, 13, meekly obeyed today the commands of four young men, each about 16 years old, when they accosted her while she was seated on the front porch of her home at 406 North 6th street and ordered her into the house, according to a report made to the police.

She was informed that if she remained quiet, she would not be harmed. One of the young men was placed on guard over her, and the others ransacked the rooms. She described her guard as "cross eyed, pigeon toed, and knock kneed," and as the homeliest of the quartet.

Blows Make Her Fight Back.

When he turned his back for a few seconds, Rose tried to run from the house, at the same time screaming for help. The crosseyed young man caught her, struck her in the face, and made her nose bleed.

The blow also made Rose fight back. Grabbing up a broom in the kitchen, she struck her assailant on the head, putting him to flight. The other three were in the front room. The thoroughly aroused girl ran up to them and belayed them with the broom handle. The other three intruders also ran from the house.

The girl is the daughter of Roland Goemer, a shoe worker. The police were furnished with a description of the youths and are searching for them. All of them are believed to have bruises on the head.

Family Goes to Show.

Rose had been left home alone today while the remainder of the family went to a moving picture show. She said the four youths passed the house while she was seated on the porch. They went into a nearby yard, and stole some apples from a tree. The neighbor family was away at the time.

Then they started to repass the house, she said. When they were opposite the porch, the four of them ran up to Rose and ordered her into the house.

"OLD IRONSIDES" COMMANDER'S KIN INSPECTS SHIP

Portland, Ore., Aug. 13.—(AP)—For most of her 82 years Mrs. Alice Hull Welch of Medford, Ore., had hoped one day she might visit the old frigate that, under the command of her great-grandfather, made early American naval history.

Today the hope was realized. Mrs. Welch was a guest of honor aboard the Constitution. Commander Louis J. Gulliver escorted her about and showed her his private cabin, they very quarters from which her great-grandfather, Commodore Isaac Hull, directed the maneuvers of "Old Ironsides" when it defeated the British frigate Guerriere in the war of 1812.

"She's a fine looking vessel," Mrs. Welch said proudly. "I've always wished since I studied about her in school to see her some time, but never thought the opportunity would come to me."

Mrs. Welch, born in Lafayette, Ind., and a resident of southern Oregon since 1877, was induced by Medford citizens to make the trip to Portland, where the Constitution has been on exhibition several days. She was entertained by patriotic societies and the Portland chamber of commerce.

URUGUAY TO SEND ENVOY TO RUSSIA; TRADE INCREASES

MOSCOW, Aug. 13.—(AP)—The soviet foreign office announced today the receipt of the Uruguayan government's notice of intention to establish permanent diplomatic representation in soviet Russia, and the dispatch of a notice in return saying that Moscow also was sending a representative to Montevideo.

Although mutual de jure recognition existed between the two countries since 1926, neither has been officially represented in the capital of the other.

Uruguay's notice said that the proposed action was inspired by "the increased volume of trade" between the two countries. It proposed at the same time negotiations for a trade agreement, and to this the soviet government agreed.

BEGIN TASK OF CUTTING WHEAT CROP TODAY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 13.—(AP)—The bulk of an army of 30,000 workers will go into action in the wheat producing areas tomorrow in an effort to trim the nation's average annual harvests.

Specificially, the newest farm drive is aimed at balancing the country's requirements for bread, breakfast foods and pretzels more nearly with the annual grain supply.

By the end of the week farm administrators disclosed today, they intend to have the formation of county control organizations well underway over a large share of the four principal wheat producing regions.

The campaign to obtain contracts from farmers agreeing to reduce their acreage in return for government cash benefits will be rushed particularly in the winter wheat producing region of the southwest where planting of the crop for harvest next year already has started.

BURNS TO DEATH IN BLAZING BARN AT NOTRE DAME

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 13. — [Special.]—Fire which destroyed the dairy barn of the St. Mary's academy at Notre Dame early this morning caused the death of one man and property loss estimated at more than $10,000.

Frank Bruen, 51, died this afternoon in St. Joseph's hospital of burns received in the blaze. He told Chief Roy Knoblock of the South Bend fire department that he had gone to sleep in the barn after taking refuge there when caught in a rainstorm while fishing along the St. Joseph river. He denied that he had been smoking and said that he had no matches which might have caused the fire.

He said he ran and jumped into the river when his clothing caught on fire and then made his way back to the highway leading into South Bend. Here, he said, passing motorists picked him up and took him to the hospital. He had made his home at a community house for workmen in South Bend.

SUBWAY POLICE TRAP ROBBERS ON PLATFORMS

New York, Aug. 13.—(AP)—New York police employ a hide and seek method of spying on pickpockets in subway stations.

Four detectives told a police magistrate today they hide under the aprons of subway platform and when trains pull out they peek over the edge watching for pickpockets to go to work on sleepers on the platform benches. Three arrests were made today.

One prisoner said he tried to rob a sleeping man because he didn't know how else to get money. He got a ten day sentence.

China Issue Warrants for Arrests of Japanese Plotters

HONGKONG, Aug. 13. — (AP) — The Kwantung provincial government has issued a warrant for the arrest of several alleged Japanese agents including Chen Chiung-ming, who revolted against President Sun Yat Sen 13 years ago in Canton. Chen is accused of conspiracy to foment trouble in the Fukien ports. At present he is living in the French concession at Shanghai.

PLAN ANTI-SMOKE UNIT FOR ALL OF CHICAGOLAND

Board's Proposal Sent to Suburban Communities.

A movement to set up a smoke prevention unit that would have jurisdiction over the entire Chicago metropolitan area has been begun by a group of engineers who constitute an advisory board to Frank A. Chambers, head of Chicago's department of smoke inspection and abatement.

Much of the smoke that blows across Chicago originates, the board believes, outside the city limits and, conversely, sometimes the suburbs are affected by smoke coming from Chicago stacks. In view of the fact that smoke is not restricted by governmental boundaries, the advisory board believes that the successful work of Mr. Chambers' department should be extended to cover the entire metropolitan area.

The reasons for the creation of the new unit are set forth in a letter sent to suburban communities and civic and improvement clubs by Joseph Harrington, chairman of the advisory board's committee on clean air.

The proposed smoke abatement area would include many cities and towns, several counties and parts of two states — Illinois and Indiana. The board points out that because of the extent of the area the smoke unit would have to be a voluntary association motivated by a desire to improve the living conditions of four million people.

BICYCLE RIDER KNOCKS DOWN HEAD OF FRANCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 13.—Albert Lebrun, president of France, was knocked down and cut on the head in the streets of Metz yesterday by a careless bicycle rider. The accident was witnessed by several French newspaper men, but the news failed to appear in the Paris morning, noon or evening papers today until the Paris Soir ignored tradition and the tremendous dignity surrounding the president enough to print the bare fact.

Lebrun, vacationing at the village of his birth, Mercy le Haut, motored to Metz to do some shopping. The trading accomplished, he parked his car in the square before the city hall and proceeded with what French newspaper men characterized as an extraordinary democratic spirit on foot across town to call on the local prefect. He stepped off the curb behind a parked truck and before his companion, Andre Magre, the president's chief secretary, could save him, the bicycler knocked him down.

The president rose unaided and dabbed at the cut on his head with a handkerchief. This morning he started out on a planned tour of the Metz region.

STATE TROOPERS RAID GAMBLING DEN; SEIZE 34

Yarmouth, Mass., Aug. 13.—(AP)—A gay throng of 350, including many persons prominent in the social, civic and political life of the state, was rudely disbanded early today as Assistant Attorney General George B. Lourie led 35 state troopers in a raid on the Casa Madrid, a resort operated by the Yarmouth Beach club.

Raiding officers made 34 arrests of employés and seized, they said, gambling equipment and furnishings valued at $25,000 and a large quantity of assorted liquors. Three bars, one 75 feet long, were among the furnishings confiscated.

Those arrested included eight special officers of the town of Yarmouth, all in full uniform.

The guests, all in evening clothes, were permitted to leave after they had signed waivers.

The Casa Madrid, built at a cost of $125,000, was opened two months ago. Among the listed incorporators of the beach club are Paul M. Swift, associate justice and son of the presiding justice, Frederick M. Swift, of the Barnstable District court, before which the 34 arrested will be arraigned tomorrow. Other listed incorporators include Clinton R. Dean, clerk of the court and Edward T. Chase, Yarmouth selectman.

MILK STRIKERS DIVIDED OVER TRUCE? PEACE?

Newport, N. Y., Aug. 13.—(AP)—An open break developed tonight between leaders in the New York state milk strike. Albert Woodhead, leader of western New York farmers, called off the strike in his territory. Felix Piseck, a central New York leader, announced, however, that he would not agree to end the strike but had agreed to a truce of one week starting tomorrow. Gov. Lehman had turned down the truce and demanded the end of the strike. He said he acted because he thought Gov. Lehman is "willing to head the farmers' side of the story."

Piseck, at his Newport farm in Herkimer county, refused to recognize Woodhead's authority to end the strike.

"We're not taking orders from Woodhead, and we're not giving him orders," he said. "Hundreds of farmers who have been calling on us all day have agreed to begin a one week's truce tomorrow to give the governor, the legislature, and the milk board a chance to show what they are willing to do. But the strike is not off."

ROBBER MEETS WAR BABY AND LOSES HIS LIFE

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 13.—(AP)—A pretty 18 year old girl, born amid the roar of a British barrage near the world war battle lines in Belgium, was not to be daunted today when three holdup men confronted her.

Another shot her in an arm. A short time later in the office of Dr. John Hermanies she helped capture the man she had shot. The wounded robber, John Phillips, 23, of Cincinnati, died in the General hospital. He and two companions took $50 from the restaurant.

Rose's father and mother were married near Antwerp in 1914. She resides with them in Cincinnati.

Lake Forest Entertains at Polo Match

Brilliant Throng Watches Thrilling Contest.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

MEADOWBROOK in its Long Island setting was never host to a more brilliant throng of polo fans than the blithe little town of Lake Forest yesterday when the east met the west on Onwentsia's well combed field.

It was a thrilling afternoon of lightning plays, clean cut goals, and lights and shadows pleasantly cast across the far landscape. In the grandstand on the western side of the field the fashionable eastern sporting world, and the families and friends of the western players, most of them with Chicagoans for their hosts and hostesses, formed a colorful fringe on the greensward.

These visitors will stay for the second match of the three game series on Wednesday afternoon when the east hopes to chalk up for itself as spectacular a victory [a 15-11 score] as the west achieved yesterday. This will mean a third afternoon of intersectional polo next Sunday.

The "first lady" of the east-west tournament, Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin, by virtue of Maj. McLaughlin's organization and management of the series, was hostess in the center box to the "grande dame" of polo, Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, the mother of "Tommy" Hitchcock, who selected and is leading the eastern team. Mrs. Hitchcock followed every play through her binoculars with all of the enthusiasm of a debutante. Her costume, fashionably conservative, combined blue and white. At 68 years Mrs. Hitchcock is generally conceded to be the finest woman polo player in the country. Every spring she is master of the hounds in Aiken.

Mrs. McLaughlin's costume yesterday combined a trimly tailored navy blue suit with a wide red leather belt and a matching red straw sailor. Others in her party were Mrs. Carleton F. Burke, whose husband is the manager of the western team; Mrs. Cornelius F. Rathburne and her daughter, Miss Patsy Rathburne, members of another eastern polo playing family; Mrs. Louis E. Stoddard and Mrs. Neil McCarthy. Mr. Stoddard, who is chairman of the U. S. Polo association, paid frequent visits to the box during the afternoon, just as did Maj. McLaughlin.

Because an ambulance is to a Texas cow puncher what a powder puff is to a cave man [quoting from Herbert Lorber], Mr. McCarthy, the substitute on the western team, did not enter yesterday's game. When the flashing Cecil Smith suffered injury the sight of an ambulance sent him flying back to his pony.

Nearby Mrs. McLaughlin's party sat Mrs. Elmer Boeseke Jr., the wife of another member of the western team. With apologies to the members of her immediate group she chose gum as the only means to curtail her excitement and enthusiasm. Watching the game with her were the junior Robert E. Strawbridges, whose home is on Long Island, also the Seymour Knoxes of New York. Mr. Strawbridge is a

Yacht Racing Favorite Sport at Charlevoix

BY JUDITH CASS.

YACHTING, whether it's a race or a picnic, is the favorite interest of the scores of Chicagoans vacationing this month in the cottages and more pretentious homes that radiate from the Chicago club at Charlevoix. Last week the number of townsfolk and suburbanites enjoying the resort reached a 1933 peak.

Mrs. John P. Wilson climaxed the first week of the annual August regatta of the Chicago club with a sailors' tea that is still the talk of the colony. After an afternoon of thrilling sailing races in which Oscar W. Johnson's Meteor nosed out the Wilsons' fleet Comet, the club yachtsmen and their families met at the Wilson cottage to sail the day's events over again.

And not to disappoint the sailors as far as their "grog" was concerned, Mrs. Wilson served it in the form of "three point two," augmenting the usual fare of tea and sandwiches.

Cynthia Wilson Another Victor.

Mr. Johnson's race victory was his second in two races in the six meter class. Miss Cynthia Wilson, the attractive daughter of the John P. Wilsons, adroitly piloted her boat, the Binx, to win in the Manchester class. In the season's first race Miss Barbara Douglas of Cedar Rapids, Ia., won over the other Manchesters in Alice Babst's craft, Kumalong. In the Manchester class still another day

Sally's Guests to See Sox in Double Header

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Any little boys and girls around here hankering to see an extrasize baseball game? If so, just let me know about it by Wednesday, and maybe I can do something for you! You see, on Aug. 24, I'm going to take 50 boys and 50 girls out to Comiskey park to watch the Sox play Boston in a double header.

If you can convince me that seeing this game would be a real treat for you, there's a very good chance that you can win an invitation. Simply write a letter telling me why you think you'd enjoy this party, and include your name, address and age. Judging from all the letters I've read in the past, there are a very large number of children in Chicago who don't know how old they are. At least they don't include such information in their notes, in spite of all my warning.

All you baseball fans will be awfully excited about this party, I know, but when you write your letters don't let your enthusiasm run away with you to such an extent that you forget the rules, because such mistakes naturally ruin your chance to be a winner.

So run along, boys and girls, and start to work if you want to come out to the big ball park with me on Thursday, Aug. 24. You never can tell but what a little letter to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago, might obtain for you one of our choice tickets for the Sox-Boston game, that is, of course, if your note is mailed in time to reach me on Wednesday!

A DAPPER young man visited Princess Rostislav at the dress shop she manages in a loop store and displayed a large and handsome bottle of perfume. He had been sent to her by her sister-in-law, Princess Vasili, in Cincinnati, he said. She had bought some of the perfume which he was selling for only $3.00 a bottle, and had suggested that Princess Rostislav might like to buy it to sell in her shop. There were two kinds, Schiaparelli and Paquin. The low price was possible because it was smuggled in by way of Cuba. Princess Rostislav declined to buy any, and was pleased later that she had not been tempted, despite the delightful fragrance of the sample bottle he brought with him to show her. Two other socially prominent women, who operate a gown shop on the boulevard, laid in a supply and discovered that the bottles contained, not French perfume, but tea.

Racket—Queer Artis Sound.

A CROWD in one of the aisles of the Japanese pavilion at the Fair turned out to be caused by Fukuo Kunai, youthful artist who paints your portrait on a Japanese fan. A good likeness—and the fan thrown in, for 35 cents. A visitor engaged the artist in conversation. Yes, he had studied in Japan. Yes, he had studied here. Finally, the visitor learned that he had been graduated from the Chicago Art institute. That was all he could elicit, and it was only later, from some one else, that he learned that Fukuo Kunai was the artist who did the murals in the dining room at the Art institute.

SEVERAL young ladies were dining in the restaurant of the German-American building at the Fair the same evening members of the Schlaraffia, a quiet German society that has been meeting for years, were there eating dinner and quaffing beer. They kept looking around the room to see if Einstein really were there. The reason for this was that the German waiter appeared at their table and at adjacent tables from time to time apparently paging the German scientist. Anyway, he kept saying inquiringly:

"Ein stein?"

PERHAPS in a recent radio program you heard a sound that presumably was the fluttering of doves over the Ark. It sounded for all the world like the fluttering of doves' wings, too. We beg to report that it was done by flapping a pair of kid gloves. . . . What pleased us most to learn about, however, was how the sound of thousands of rats squeaking, running on cobble stones and jumping into the river was represented during a children's program presenting the Pied Piper of Hamlin. The squeak was reproduced by rubbing resined corks on plate glass; the hurry of little rat feet over the cobble stones was produced by the slapping of a handful of old electric wires, the insulated part producing the pat of the foot and the wires the scratch of the nails. And the jumping in the water effect was done by means of a plopper in a washtub of water. . . . Cellophane is a great gift to radio stations. Most of the sounds you heard representing fire or foliage—the crackling of flames, or breaking through brush is done by the rustle of cellophane. Sand dropped on cellophane gives a perfect imitation of rain dropping on a thatched roof, too.

PERHAPS you remember the tale of the radio sound man who wanted to reproduce the sound of water running on a board in one of the programs. He tried a number of elaborate experiments, without success, and then somebody suggested he try water running on a board. He did, and the result was perfect. Well—it doesn't always work out like that. For instance, in a program that required a series of pistol shots, a phonograph record of actual pistol shots was used, and the shots sounded like champagne corks popping. Whereas a wooden paddle struck violently and repeatedly on a leather pad gave a perfect imitation of machine gun fire.

WIEBOLDT'S IS FRIGIDAIRE HEADQUARTERS IN CHICAGO

BLOOD MONEY

By IRVIN S. COBB.

SYNOPSIS.

Uncas Cresap and his Chinese servant are found dead in the upper room of Cresap's boathouse on Kettle pond, near the eastern end of Long Island. Gilbert Jonathan Redd, Cresap's step-brother, keeps a written private account of developments in the case. A blow on the forehead from a slender, sharp edged implement killed Cresap. The cause of the Chinaman's death is not apparent. Capt. Bray, a special investigator, and an old friend of Redd's, helps the men from the district attorney's office in solving the crime. Redd is a former police reporter. Florence Dane, Cresap's niece and an orphan, lived with him. Redd was fond of Florence's mother. He bought a home near Cresap's in order to protect Florence. Cresap made his fortune in the far east. Redd freely admits to Bray his hatred of Cresap, who was a drunkard and a débauché.

INSTALLMENT VII.

THE MURDER TOOL.

"Not such a pretty photograph of a man," commented Bray dryly, when I had finished describing my late step-brother. "He was the kind that would be likely to have many a bitter enemy."

"I wouldn't go so far as to say that," I said. "Certainly he didn't have any close friends—unless you'd call the Chinaman and the midget his friends. They were supposed to be his servants. But sometimes he treated them more like intimate cronies."

"Tell us about these here parties, if you don't mind. No, just a minute first: When was the last you saw of him alive?"

"I saw him yesterday afternoon between five and six o'clock in the room where he was killed. I rode over in my car and found him alone there. I stayed about half an hour, possibly forty minutes."

"And whatever was it brought you over to call on a man that you despised the way you did him?"

"We discussed personal matters—private affairs."

"And between you did you get the said personal affairs settled up before you left?"

"We did not."

If the harkening Motley hoped Bray would question me touching on the nature of this business, whatever it might be, he was disappointed. Because at once the captain, speaking as though to himself, fell into a sort of professional lamentation.

"Already this case has got a gummed up look to me," said Bray.

"Already this case has got a gummed up look to me. 'Tis too bad all this mob of people broke in and smeared up the whole face of the earth with their clumsy feet and their dam' automobile tires. If there's been any tracks left on the ground or even on that gravel, they got wiped out entirely before ever we got here. And if there are any fingerprints on anything upstairs there, Shapiro hasn't found 'em yet, though he will if they're there. And for why was it done? For a new grudge or an old feud? That's as maybe. For to steal something? Seemingly there's no place for keeping valuables and from the looks of the place nothing was taken—nothing disturbed, even. . . . This young bike cop of yours—Clabber, Clabbery—what's the lad's name?"

"Clabby," I said.

"Sure, that's the boy—Clabby," He indulged in a mild chuckle. "He's the boy for swell ideas. I guess he reads these here cheap crime magazines. F'rinstance, he's got the swell idea that maybe 'twas the Chink did it. And then flopped over dead before he could make his get away, or else maybe croaked himself then and there with a dose of strange quick acting poison, the same as Chinamen and the likes of them always carry around with them—in story books! Revenge and remorse—the bright boy spoke the both of those romantical words."

"There might be something worthy of consideration in such a supposition," speculated Motley. "We must leave no stone unturned."

"Right you are," agreed Bray, with a falsified heartiness. "That's why I want the coroner to pay special attention to that Chinaman's insides when he autopsies him."

"Ah!" Mr. Motley was being very sage about it. "You think then the vital organs show poison?"

"No, but if they should show a concealed deadly weapon in the nature of a sharpened something—maybe a lather's hatchet, maybe a misses and children's size adz, maybe even a Boy Scout's ax—I'll be that pleased! Because if the Chink died on the spot immediately he bashed his boss' head in, how else would he get rid of the said article without he swallowed it whole?"

And Capt. Bray gave vent to quite a hearty laugh.

Having enjoyed his joke, Bray switched back again to serious issues.

"That tool, whatever it was, that the killing was done with," he mused, "if it's stuck away anywhere, we'll dig it up. Because I'm telling you when it comes to searching out odd corners and dark nooks, rat terriers have nothing at all on that Shapiro boy. It's not in the boathouse or near it on the shore side—we're pretty sure of that much already. But if 'twas chucked overboard well out from the bank, say, well, that'll be a horse of altogether a different color. This bit of water flanking us now: It has not the look about it of fresh water to me."

"Neither is it," I told him. "Strictly speaking, this pond isn't a pond—it's a miniature bay. And the creek isn't a true creek. It's a sort of small indent with an opening between two dunes out there on the beach——" pointing south—"at low tide it shallows up some and sometimes at very low tide its bed shows in places. At high tide, though, there's a good strong flow through the bottle neck and a craft drawing as much as four feet or so can get in and out over the bar at the mouth."

"So you couldn't dam this cove off altogether and get it dry that way, barring you went in for a regular engineering proposition?"

"No, because while you might pump it, you couldn't drain it."

"And that's not so good." His manner was perturbed. "And the bottom of it—is it hard or soft?"

"Sand in some places, but an awful lot of thick black mud, especially up at this end where it widens out."

"Worse and worse then for the chances of dragging. We could scratch about with grapple irons, but it's a hundred to one that we'd not scrape up anything except slime and old rubbish." He brooded chiefly over this complication before he plumped his next query at me:

"About the people working here on the place? Leave us go back and tally up on that?"

"Let's see? I'll put it this way: In a month's travel in any country you'd be hard put to it, captain, to find a more mixed up outfit, racially and otherwise. I've mentioned Miss Dane. Then there's an oldish chap named Hawley Verity—'Haw' for short. He's a typical homegrown product—with barnacles on his stern and seaweed in his hair instead of bayseed. He's a sort of general outdoor overseer and handy man. He looks after the boats, superintends the gardening, keeps the lawns and the landscaping in shape In the summer he has two laborers under him. This past summer he had an Italian and a Hungarian. They probably wouldn't count in your checkup because they were paid off six weeks or so ago when the work slackened. Miss Dane could provide you with their names—I think they both live in the village.

BY MARY MEADE.

Of course, you've heard of flying fish. Well, any day now you may find yourself eating them, as well. For fish and other water dwellers which never in their finniest dreams imagined they could fly are now getting much up in the air about the plane transportation inaugurated this summer for their special benefit—and the gratification of A Century of Progress guests.

And what it's all about is this. The lowly lobster, crawling on the cold bottom of the Atlantic, comes to the surface, is caught, flown by express planes especially equipped to carry seafood, arrives at the World's Fair, and is oven baked and served, all within the period of half a day. Similarly, lobsters and other fish from the Atlantic coast are now air-sailing to cities all over the midwest, while the other half of the new two-way service lures fresh fish from the great lakes and hustles them to the cities of the east. This two-way service snips off considerable cost to the consumer, as compared with the expense of a one way arrangement.

Nor is that all. Very soon, if they haven't already started, rainbow trout from the hatcheries near Denver, Colo., will likewise be taking air trips to Chicago and the eastern seaboard. And if you've ever eaten them fresh from the mountain streams, as I did this summer, you'll await them with that lovelight in your eye. For they'll be just as good by the magic of this new and speedy transportation when they arrive at your table as they were when they still cavorted on your fly.

But back to lobsters. While they may be baked, as many chefs are now doing, boiling is still one of the most popular ways to bring them to the table. Here is our simplest method:

BOILED LOBSTER—HOME STYLE.

(Serves Six.)

3 lobsters (2½ pounds each)
12 peppercorns
1 teaspoon salt
Boiling water

Clean their deep sea highnesses by scrubbing them with a brush. To perform this safely, take hold of the back with the left hand and wield the brush with the right. Have the water with the salt and peppercorns in it boiling briskly and, when ready, put the lobsters in, head first. This kills them instantly. Boil five minutes, then set aside to simmer for forty-five minutes. Large lobsters may take an hour. Now take out the lobsters, dry them, and break off the claws and tail. Split the body in halves from head to tail and place the halves on a hot platter. Garnish with parsley and lettuce leaves. Tuck in the tails, the legs, and the cracked claws. Serve boiled lobster with mayonnaise dressing and butter balls or melted paprika butter.

But a boiled lobster to many a cook is only a temptation to work further wonders. For instance, bring the oven into the game. When the lobster is boiled and split, ladle hot butter over the halves and bake in a moderate oven for ten to fifteen minutes.

Catholic Temperance Groups Will Open Convention Today

Temperance as opposed to prohibition is to be the keynote of the three day joint convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence union and the Ladies Auxiliary of the Knights of Father Mathew, which opens today at the Stevens hotel. Approximately 200 delegates are expected to attend.

"We have always kept away from prohibition, regarding it as a political question," said Mrs. Mary B. Finan, convention chairwoman. "The Catholic church recognizes temperance as a leading virtue and believes it should be attained through religion rather than law."

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

CALLING "SQUAD CAR 1B."

The kidnapings and stickups during the last month having got Inspector Kelley's goat, he asked Fordney to ride a squad car with him. As the professor himself was aroused by the recent crime wave, he assented.

With Sergt. Reynolds driving, the three set out from headquarters at 11 p. m., with rain swirling from every direction by the shifting wind. Lightning flashed and thunder boomed.

The first call to their car, repeated three times, was: "Car 1B investigate a robbery first floor apartment at 2086 Leopold boulevard. WPPJ."

Reynolds stepped on it and with siren shrieking the car speeded through the stormy night.

Arriving at the scene two excited young women, one blonde, the other brunette, were found. While Fordney questioned the blonde, Kelley interrogated the brunette. The blonde stated she was a collector for an ice cream company and that she had visited a number of stores and had collected for ice cream delivered during the day. They both said that as they drew up in front of the apartment, where the blonde lived and where the brunette was her guest and who had been riding with her that night, that two men jumped on either running board of the sedan and jammed guns in their ribs, demanding the collected money. The brunette handed it over.

Fordney learned that the last collection, and their last stop, was made about a mile away.

He noticed the two large diamonds on the left hand of the blonde and said, "I'm afraid, girls, we'll have to take you to headquarters."

WHY DID FORDNEY THINK THE ALLEGED ROBBERY WAS FAKED?

[See solution on page 27.]

The races are sailed each Wednesday and Saturday during August.

And when there isn't racing, yacht picnics are the most popular diversion at the club. Packing their boats with lunch baskets the vacationers sail from the club pier out into Lake Charlevoix, heading toward some of the shacks in the woods for the day or perhaps two or three days.

Mrs. King and her son recently took a party on such an expedition into the wilds. Miss Barbara Douglas, daughter of Mrs. George B. Douglas, also of Cedar Rapids, was hostess at another of these popular outings.

Tell Engagement of Nancy Hutton.

Of interest to Chicago society is the announcement of an engagement being made in the east today. It is that of Miss Nancy Butler Hutton, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Norman Hutton of Wellesley and Duxburg, Mass., to Edward Hyde Earle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Earle of Cambridge, Mass. Dr. Hutton was the pastor of St. Chrysostom's for twenty years. He retired because of ill health in November, 1928, and since that time has traveled abroad and lived in the east.

Miss Hutton spent a year of travel and study at Villa Gazzola in Verona and was graduated from Smith college in the class of 1931. Mr. Earle is a graduate of the Country Day school of Newton, Harvard university, and Harvard law school.

Society is responding enthusiastically to the recital Sonia Sharnova is to give next Sunday afternoon at the Studebaker theater for the benefit of THE TRIBUNE'S free ice fund.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eager Mason have invited several of their friends to come to their Highland Park home this evening to meet the Rev. Charles L. Street, head of the St. Albans school in Sycamore, Ill., and Mrs. Street. The St. Albans school is patterned after the well known Kent school in the east, where the boys do their own work in the way of making beds, waiting on tables, and cleaning.

The Masons' niece, Miss Frances Armstrong, who has been visiting them, has just returned to her home in Washington.

Tea Today for Prince Singhi.

Miss Barbara Fortune, Miss Lucy Harrison, Miss Jane Cotton, Miss Betty Alexander, and Miss Eleanor Kirkland are to pour te.. tomorrow afternoon at the oriental party Hebert Smolen is having in the bungalow atop the Morrison hotel for Prince Singhi, here from Nepal. Miss Phyllis Walsh, the petite brunette daughter of the John W. Walshes, left Saturday night for California to spend the next few weeks visiting friends. Her sister, Miss Ann Elizabeth Walsh, returns today from Harbor Point, where she has been for the week-end.

Hobart P. Young has gone west to Colorado to join his son, who, with three other boys, drove out in an aged "steamer" automobile a few weeks ago. Jack Leslie and Ronny Webster have since returned to town, and Cheves Walling, the Willoughby Wallings' younger son and the last of this adventurous foursome, is in Santa Fé with his brother, Willoughby Jr., who has a forestry job there. Mr. Young and Hobart Jr. are staying at Mrs. Chester Woodley's ranch, the L X Bar, 150 miles from Denver. They will be at home in two weeks.

Mrs. Alfred Edwards Returns to East.

Mrs. Alfred Edwards, who has been in Winnetka visiting her sister and brother-in-law, the Godfrey H. Atkins, left last night with her two children, Gertrude and Alfred, to return to the Edwards' home in Summit, N. J. Mr. and Mrs. Atkin are planning a little trip this week, though they have not decided their destination.

The William A. Yagers' two charming house guests have gone up to Emerson, Wis., for the rest of the month. They are Miss Elizabeth Howry and Miss Mary Howry of Washington. Since Emerson is so near Fish Creek, Wis., where there is quite a Chicago colony, the Misses Howry will be able to renew several of their Chicago friendships.

Mrs. Walter R. Kirk is eagerly waiting for Wednesday or Thursday, when her son, Radcliffe, will be at home from California.

Paul Van Wolfes Make Home Here.

Recently arrived in Chicago are Capt. Paul Van Wolfe and his bride, the former Countess Theo Morner, who were married on July 15 in New Canaan, Conn., at the home of William Gallatley. Mrs. Van Wolfe is a member of the Nelson family in New York, being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred F. Nelson of that city, and she is sure to be a welcome addition to Chicago society. Capt. Van Wolfe, who comes from The Hague, is a member of the Royal Dutch guards, and has been a popular bachelor in Chicago. They spent their honeymoon in the east and are making their home at 900 North Michigan.

French Consul General René Weiller, Mme. Weiller, and their attractive daughter, Odile, who is over here from France for a short visit, are delighted with the news that there is a new grandson in their family. M. and Mme. Edouard Nouveau, the son-in-law and daughter of the Weillers, are the parents of a son named Gerard. M. Nouveau is "un avocat" in Besanson, and already the baby's grandparents are hoping that he will want to follow in his father's legal tracks.

Dr. Otho Fisher Ball is receiving the congratulations of his friends on a new grandson born in England to his daughter and son-in-law, the Gerald Valerian Wellesleys. Mrs. Wellesley is the former Betty Ball. Mrs. Ball is in England with her daughter and will be home the middle of February.

Choice of Two Attractive Necklines Offered in Dress for the Junior Girl

JUNIOR GIRL'S DRESS.

This pretty dress may be collarless or it may have a bow tied neckline. The original dress was made of a berry-red mixture in a worsted crêpe, and was simply adorable. Wool jersey in chartreuse or chestnut brown is smart.

The pattern, No. 2784, comes in sizes 10, 12, 14, and 16 years.

Right Perfume Important for New Fashions

BY RHEA SEEGER.

You can't struggle along without a bit of romance these days . . . what with seductive silk slips of taffeta that proclaim your presence long before you actually arrive, with longer clinging gowns and lavishly fur trimmed suits, and glamorous evening gowns made with ruffles and yet more ruffles, perfumes are going to be tremendously important.

So you sniff and buy romance in a bottle, sniff until you find just what you need to dramatize the sort of clothes you wear and the sort of a person you are . . . you can buy scents with romantic names, and twice as romantic and haunting fragrance, or you can spend your money for clear, spicy flavor odors or the trifle heavier and more insidious exotic perfumes. All are in town awaiting the shoppers.

Some knowing person has mixed and captured a real English violet perfume and toilet water that will make you dream of dewy English gardens with an obliging nightingale singing under the moon, a haunting last forever perfume that charms you always, especially if you have a predilection for violet. And, incidentally, some of the most fascinating women use it exclusively.

The same magician has presented a red rose perfume, that is just as intriguing as the violet and lasts for hours after you use it.

If you must have something spicy try a bottle of carnation . . . it seems to have been made for slim, trim street dresses; snappy, sharp shouldered street suits, and the crisp taffeta frocks that you will wear for tea and bridge.

And if you are the mysterious type that yearns for exotic scents, do try the five rhapsodies, numbered one to five, each with a different fragrance, just the will-o'-the-wisp concoctions to fit the tempermental person who revels in moods and whimsies.

member of the executive committee of the U. S. Polo association.

Then there were the charming Mrs. Frank S. O'Reilly, smartly dressed in a brown and white ensemble, sitting in a front row box with her son, Frank Jr. Mr. O'Reilly as secretary and treasurer of the polo association spent most of his time attending to the business of the game. Also in the O'Reilly box were Mr. and Mrs. Solomon B. Smith, Solomon A. Smith, Walter Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. George S. Chappell Jr.

Mrs. Howard Linn, more attractive than ever in a mustard yellow dress, a wrap of tomato colored woolen and a Leghorn hat that had for its trimming a bunch of field flowers, couldn't avoid Miss Libby Chase's camera, so she finally consented to pose. Miss Chase, equal to most any newspaper cameraman, divided her attention between photography (she will add the pictures to her already famous collection) and her two young companions, "Kay" Goodman and "Sissy" Minotto, who didn't miss a play.

With Mrs. Linn were the Austin Niblacks, just returned from a fortnight of Saratoga racing; Mrs. Dorothy Linn, the sister-in-law of Mrs. Howard Linn; Scott Linn, Stephen Jennings, Prince Cantacuzene, and the John Andrew Kings.

It was James Minotto, the Arizona senator, who disclosed the identity of the distinguished visitor wearing a red and blue hatband. He was William Thaw, come for a week of Onwentsia polo with his daughter.

Mrs. F. Skiddy von Stade, who is no ordinary polo player herself, and whose sister is Mrs. Devereux Milburn, sat for the game with Mrs. J. Watson Webb, strikingly costumed in a deep petunia colored dress and hat, and Mr. Webb. The Webbs live in New York City.

Another party vitally concerned with the game from the eastern point of view included Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Post of Long Island, their daughter, Miss Frances Post, and their son, William Post II., who is one of the two substitutes on the eastern team. Also with the Posts were Mrs. Jess C. Andrew, Jess C. Andrew Jr., Miss Katharine Andrew, and Miss Betty Andrew, all of West Point, Ind.

The arrival of Miss Francise Clow in the middle of the game was a signal to a whole battery of camera men. Miss Clow was wearing a lace knit white dress with a picture hat of mulberry straw and a trailing chiffon scarf of the same hue.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. McCutcheon were members of a party that included Mr. and Mrs. John A. Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gillette, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, and Arthur Meeker. The Cudahys had returned to town from a midsummer holiday just in time for the match and so had the Charles F. Glores, who decided they would rather see yesterday's game than stay on for another week of western ranching.

The Arthur Dixons were in the grand stand with the Hermon Dunlap Smiths, Mrs. Wirth Dunham, the Charles Garlands, the Donald Welleses, and Edward K. Welles who was receiving the congratulations of his friends on a new arrival in his family.

Albert Blake Dick Jr., who with Mrs. Dick were host and hostess to a large group of friends, was repeating the stories his father tells of the first polo games played on the north shore 30-odd years ago on Ferry field, midway between Lake Forest and Lake Bluff. With the Dicks yesterday were the junior Thomas C. Dennehys, the Richard Stevensons, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence C. Smith, James Forgan Jr., and William Pullman.

Miss Beatrice Kirk, stunning in a black and white ensemble, was there with her mother, Mrs. Walter Kirk. And then there were the Charles H. Morses, the Scott Durands, Miss Doris Bokum, escorted by Newton King; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Stanton Jr., Miss Narcisse Swift, and John E. Hughes with his three sons, John Jr., Milton, and Marshall.

Praise Brings Reforms Where Nagging Fails

Scolding Often Sets Up Stubborn Resistance.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"Every one used to be at me all the time to stand up straight," a tall young friend said to me the other day. "And I got so tired of their nagging that I just wouldn't. I'm sorry now, for I am round shouldered, but there was something in the way they acted that made me want not to do it."

There is a young boy I know who is growing so fast that the almost inevitable droop of the early teens is already quite accented. His mother says to him constantly, "Stand up straight, Jim, stand up straight; don't stoop so, stand up straight." But it is an almost meaningless phrase now—it is a "blind spot."

And then I know a wise mother. She says to her young daughter, "You have such a fine carriage when you stand straight. Aunt Jane remarked on how much your posture had improved."

Here is a child who is not confronted with an unpleasant and repeated admonition. Here is a child who gets an attractive picture of herself—a tall, straight person, with an admired carriage. She gets the feeling of a tangible and pleasant result from an effort to do something that is not easy.

Instead of an admonition, this mother uses an incentive. It is the affirmative way to get at a situation instead of a negative way. Many other physical troubles—nail biting and so forth—have been handled successfully in this way—by admiring the effect to be achieved by reform—not by condemning the bad practice.

Creamy Lilies Delightful on Quilts, Pillows

Prairie Lilies.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Such a pattern made up in the glowing yellows and creamy whites of the lily will add charm and gayety to any interior. The lilies may be springing gracefully from a dark green bowl against a background of beige. This same "Prairie Lilies" design is sometimes used in making pillow tops.

For a quilt pattern of this design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

French Couturier Fashions Plaid Taffeta Into Stunning Summer Suit

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The crisp summer ensembles of organdy and linen have set Paris casting an acquisitive eye about for something similar in more elegant materials. Ribbed silks and taffetas are being rushed in to satisfy this demand for crispness. Plaid and flowered taffetas, made into ensembles of dress and jacket, are coming out for a brief heyday before fall, with a promise of a place later on, if they make good.

Molyneux has a way of treating the taffeta ensemble as if it were made of georgette or some such spineless material. He makes it into simple, nonchalant, soft dresses with loose and easy jackets, and it is in this form that taffeta is going over in fashionable society here.

The dress and jacket shown in our sketch today are done in plaid taffeta, in black and old red on a soft gray ground. They are cut just as Molyneux cuts his clothes that come in soft fabrics. The jacket is straight and hip length, with wide three-quarters length sleeves ending in big cuffs. The plaid pattern is worked on the bias throughout the jacket and the dress, too.

The latter has a simple blouse, shown in the background, and a skirt that is narrow, with a front seam into which Molyneux sets a small godet halfway down, to widen the hem a bit. The collar is like that of a turtle necked sweater, done with a wide bias fold, which on the left side of the neck is caught into a double frill.

Beauty Tales About Bandit Found False

Expert Says Photographs Are Misleading.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

They call her a Fagin in intimate police circles.

They haven't a tear for the Jarman woman—nor a kindly intonation in the voice.

Surface hard-boiled these policemen are, but they're pretty sentimental putty if there's anything about a woman prisoner to recommend her. The sob sister is a joyrider compared to them.

The Jarman woman has the "pint-size" stature we've been led to believe has a direct attack on the stalwart male. But, plainly, it sways no emotion in favor of this one accused in thirty-seven robberies, one murder, and suspected "bashing in of skulls," as the station attendants mercilessly describe it.

You're surprised at the size of the woman. Somehow one expects an Amazon to better fit the accused's picture than the slight woman of five feet two or three or thereabout. Except for those steely arms and eyes and thin lipped mouth.

The photographs of the woman are misleading. Pictures of her demureness—simply cockeyed! She is as demure looking as one of the implements she is accused of handling expertly, suddenly faced on a dark night. Her flaming pink-orange hennaed hair is about as demure as a can of red paint in the hands of a child. Those long, wiry arms coming out of big plaid sleeves and tense, muscular hands exhibit none of the traits of a baby-patting woman.

Perhaps she could stir up a good meal, as Meneci, the punch-drunk fighter at her side during our interview, blithely attested. Perhaps, as she claims, a nice home means more to her than anything else in the world. But we've seen women who fit the domestic claim far more impressively—and countless numbers of them!

In the collection of personal belongings on exhibit at the police station the tawdry cheapness of everything was appalling. The sewing basket, the towels, the toilet set, the shoe bag with its Cinderella sized but cheap content, the jewel box with its five and ten pearl earrings and beads. One article in the group was arresting. A character clew, perhaps. A toy pistol converted into a cigaret case. There were bottles and cans of gin and alcohol, one bottle of the latter described with gruesome facetiousness as rubbing alcohol to keep the arm in shape for action.

Just the old curiosity to know what the other half of the world is doing. In this case, how it actually looks.

Well, police cells and waiting rooms are no background for a choosy woman. Not one shred of glamour have they to offer. Here we meet ugliness in the raw, if ever we meet it. Add to this a flaming haired, flaming lipped and thin mouthed, steel muscled, flamboyantly dressed woman of 29, who under kindlier lights might pass for 23 or 24—and you reach the nadir of female pulchritude. But for a chance remark from an attendant bystander, male of course, we might have withdrawn more sadly. Said he:

"The whole trouble with women is that they want to be the equals of men!" He was referring resentfully to the crime record of the accused.

We just went away thinking how far greater are the rewards of a normal life—and how much more personal beauty there is in it for a woman.

If He Evades Marriage Find Another Swain

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"What is your opinion of a man who swears that he loves a girl, but claims that marriage is not in his power? At the same time he does not want the girl to have anything to do with other men." KATHERINE.

We'd have to know the reason why marriage is not in his power. Maybe he has a better one than we can think up. There are men who seek out the company of a girl, enjoy being seen out with her, tell the girl how crazy they are about her—and still have no intention of marrying her.

Maybe they honestly believe that home financial responsibility prevents ideas of marriage or that they're not born for matrimony. But if love were there and the man wasn't already married, or had some terrible impediment, he would talk marriage. It's the way of a man in love. He will endeavor to overcome any barrier in favor of matrimony.

So that any young woman who goes on believing the protested affections of a constant suitor who avoids the topic of marriage can well believe that she is being strung along. No reliance need be placed on the ardor of a marriage-mute boy friend.

When in love one believes that he [or she] will not want any other companionship, or any form of living that denies the companionship of the loved one.

Don't we see persons who talk against marriage as an institution, when overtaken by love, lining up in conventional style at marriage license windows?

So there comes a time when the girl who is being courted by a man who says marriage is out of his power had better come to her own aid by refusing to be simply a diversion. If she can't wake marriage responsibility in him, then she'd better be looking about in other directions.

Chorus Sings and Passersby Stop in Street

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Deep and strong and easy, the chorus of "Roll, Jordan, Roll" echoed up and down Wabash avenue yesterday in the vicinity of 24th street. Nobody had to ask where that great volume of melody issued from—with the open doors of the Quinn chapel drawing in the passersby to linger and listen as the Chicagoland Music Festival Negro chorus went through its vocal paces, 300 strong—all singing.

White folks, ever marveling at the timbre of those voices, slipped into rear pews and sat there entranced through spiritual after spiritual, while the sunlight faded through the stained glass windows and twilight shadows gathered. The indefatigable James A. Mundy, veteran director of three previous festivals, white linen suit distinct against the dark mahogany of the big pipe organ in the chapel, molded the pattern of song with an energetic baton. The arc in which he stood, like a band shell sounding board, wafted back the music upon the singers under the vaulted roof of the auditorium.

They sang that staccato, typical spiritual "In the Great Gettin' Up Mornin'" in which Director Mundy will lead them Saturday night in Soldiers' field. Then the slow cadences of "Roll, Jordan, Roll." And the old familiar "Joshua Fit the Battle of Jericho," which the big audience will hear as well, as the Mundy choristers and Quinn chapel choir take up its theme, on the festival program proper.

A chorus of 1,000 voices will be heard in the spiritual anthem "Oh, Southland," as directed by J. Wesley Jones, also prominent in previous festivals. He will lead the Metropolitan choir of 150 voices, too, in the prime favorite, "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," with Miss Willie Jones as soloist.

Marion Kay, tenor featured in the cast of "Rhapsody in Black" and "Shuffle Along," will be the soloist with the Mundy and Quinn chapel singers. It marks his first appearance on the annual festival programs.

Twenty minutes of the Saturday evening program in Soldiers' field will be devoted to the singing of spirituals by this and other sections of the big Negro chorus.

Five male choruses will compete tonight at 7 o'clock in the grand ballroom of the Drake hotel for the honor of representing Chicago in the Chicagoland Music Festival male chorus finals to be held Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the same hotel. The winner of the finals will be heard on the festival program.

The largest chorus in the competition tonight will be the Bohemian Workingmen's Singing Society Lyra, directed by Frank Kubina. There are 67 in the organization. Other choruses and their directors are:

Our Lady of Mercy Male choir, Emily S. Fitzsimmons.

The American Boy's Commonwealth, Max Seigel.

The Ukrainian Cossack chorus, Samuel R. Czubay.

The judges will be D. A. Clippinger, Marx Oberndorfer and Edgar S. Nelson. The public is cordially invited to attend all festival contests. Tonight's competition will be broadcast over W-G-N from 8 to 8:15 o'clock.

Three more ballroom rehearsals will be held by the group of girls from the three sides of the city who will dance at the festival. The north and west side dancers will practice this morning, tomorrow and Thursday at the Aragon and Guyon's Paradise ballrooms, respectively, and the south side tomorrow morning, Wednesday and Thursday. The final rehearsal will be held Friday night at 8 o'clock in Soldiers' field. All girls and their parents are asked to enter gate No. 47, north end of the field, at 7:45 o'clock.

WEST DEFEATS EAST IN ALL-STAR POLO OPENER, 15-11

SMITH KNOCKED OUT 20 MINUTES, BUT BATTLES ON

12,500 See Hitchcock Team Stopped.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Four rough riding westerners yesterday dealt a telling blow at the long cherished prestige of eastern polo. In the first game of the intersectional series at Onwentsia, the west galloped to a brilliant 15 to 11 victory amid the wild applause of 12,500 spectators.

Throughout an afternoon of reckless riding and spectacular hitting, the western quartet led by Cecil Smith stopped the widely heralded onslaught of Tommy Hitchcock's eastern squad. So tight was their defense that Michael Phipps, who is accustomed to score almost at will, was seldom able to get possession of the ball. Repeatedly the eastern attack was broken up in the making by Smith or Elmer Boeseke, and when Hitchcock's men were able to storm in toward the western goal they encountered the implacable Rube Williams.

Western Offense Powerful.

The westerners did more than stop that famous eastern attack. They launched a powerful one of their own which repeatedly penetrated their foes' defense. Three times in succession, when points were needed badly, Boeseke came down the center of the field at a thundering gallop to take bullet like passes from Roark or Smith and score from directly in front of the goal.

The western ponies proved fully equal to the eastern mounts, many of which boasted the most celebrated blood lines in the world. Repeatedly the westerners beat the easterners to the ball, and once on the spot they hit with clean cut accuracy.

Smith Out for 20 Minutes.

Near the end of the fifth chukker the west was leading, 11 to 6, when Smith, riding Texas Beauty at a swift pace, shot a superb pass to Boeseke in front of the goal. Boeseke scored but Smith's horse went down and rolled over the rider.

For 20 minutes Smith was unconscious, and it seemed certain that the flawless combination would be broken up on the threshold of victory. After he revived an ambulance was driven out onto the field but he refused to get into it. Instead he climbed up on his horse.

Up to the time of his accident Smith has been always in just the right place at the right time. He would be riding off Hitchcock, stealing the ball from Winston Guest, setting it into position for Roark, or slamming free shots between the posts. Of his first six free shots, he made five.

Refuses to Slow Down.

The crowd thought that his fall would slow Smith down, but it didn't. Scarcely had play been resumed when he mad a spectacular dash toward the goal, his shot missing by inches. Then throughout the sixth chukker he filled his position to perfection during 7½ minutes of what experts called the fastest polo ever played. No score was made during that chukker, but both the crowd and the critics pronounced it the most thrilling period of the game.

By the last chukker Smith seemed thoroughly himself again, making one of the most spectacular shots of the day shortly before the end. Riding across in front of the goal, he leaned to the near side of his horse and scored at a full gallop with an under the belly shot.

Ride 'Im Cowboy!

Rube Williams lived up to his reputation of being a hard riding cowboy who stops for nothing. Taking the ball near his own goal in the third period, he galloped the entire length of the field, weaving in and out among his opponents. Then without slackening pace, he leaned far out of the saddle for a perfect scoring shot.

Roark played a masterful game at No. 1. When a scoring opportunity offered, he always was in a position to attack, and he either hammered in the ball himself or set it up for one of his teammates.

Hitchcock's celebrated scoring sallies were stopped almost completely. Only

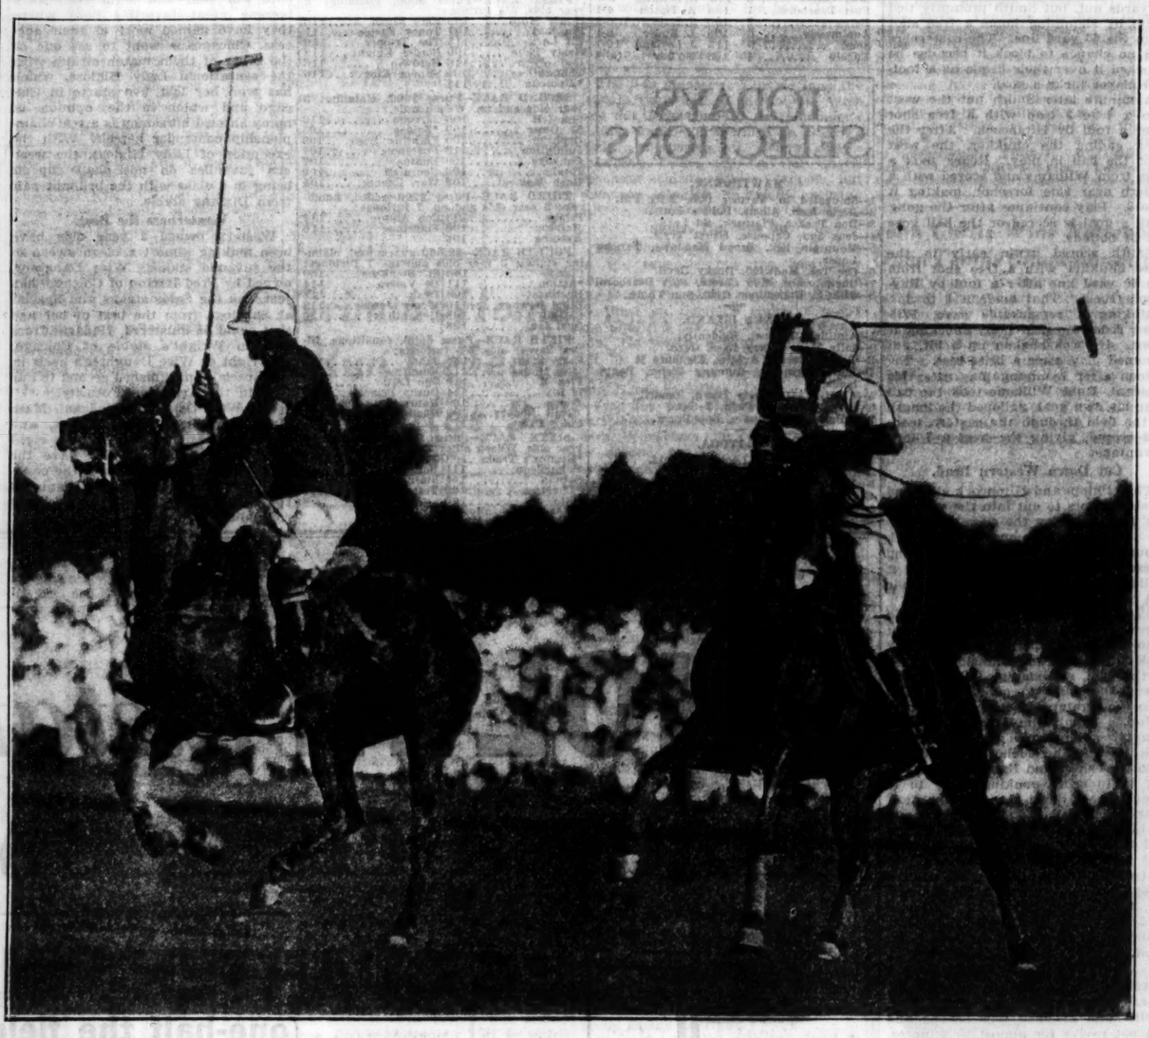
WHEN WEST OVERTHREW EAST IN FIRST BATTLE OF POLO'S WORLD'S SERIES



Rube Williams (left) and Michael Phipps prepare to wheel their ponies and start in pursuit of the ball. Phipps is one of the most powerful factors in the eastern attack, yet he was able to score only once yesterday. Time and again Williams rode him off or beat him to the ball. Hurt twice during the game, Williams gave one of the most aggressive performances ever seen on a polo field.

Tommy Hitchcock, America's premier polo player, whose scoring thrusts were stopped by the alert defensive play of the westerners in yesterday's intersectional game at Onwentsia. Three of his five goals were made on free shots.

Sarazen Beats Goggin in Pro Golf, 5 and 4

BY CHARLES NEVADA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 13.—Gene Sarazen is the 1933 champion of the Professional Golfers' association.

The stocky 32 year old Italian, former United States and British open champion, entered from the Miami-Biltmore Country club of Miami, Fla., won the title for the third time since 1922 by defeating Willie Goggin of Salada Beach, Cal., who is five years his junior, in the final round of the 15th annual meet over the Blue Mound Country club course here today.

The score was 5 and 4. Sarazen received a $1,000 check for his victory as well as possession of a traveling trophy. He succeeds Olin Dutra of Brentwood Heights, Cal., defending title holder, who was put out of the running three days ago.

Goggin received $600 for second place.

Sarazen Beats Par by Four.

Sarazen's next objective will be the Canadian open, which begins at Toronto Thursday.

Today Gene shot his best golf of the tournament. He used 111 strokes for 32 holes, four under par for the 6,330 yard Blue Mound course. He led his opponent 1 up at the end of the first 18 holes and stretched his advantage to 4 up at the three-quarters mark. Gene had a 34—35—69 this morning, a 34 for he third nine, and was two under par for the last five holes.

Three putt greens beat Goggin. He experienced trouble with his putter throughout. He never was in front, although he finished his first P. G. A. competition with a record of having played 160 holes in six strokes under par. He had eliminated Jimmy Hines, Paul Runyan, Leo Diegel, and Al Espinosa to reach the final. Goggin's match play record was the best of the tournament, not even excepting Sarazen's.

Sarazen whipped several outstanding contenders in order to reach the title round. His match play victims

TIGERS CONQUER SOX, 6-5, AFTER 17 INNING FIGHT

BY EDWARD BURNS

The White Sox were winning 5 to 4 with two out and no one on base in the ninth inning of yesterday's game with the Detroit Tigers. But that third putout was a bit slow in coming—the Tigers tied the score on a single by Jonathan Stone and Hank Greenberg's third vital double. Then followed a lot of swell baseball, but a 6 to 5 beating for the White Sox in the 17th inning.

Vic Sorrell, the only Tiger pitcher who has beaten the Sox in the seven games the teams have played this month, went all the way and deserved to win on his showing after the eighth inning. He allowed 14 hits in the first eight innings and three in the last nine innings. Ted Lyons, who pitched such a handsome game in the opener, was the losing pitcher. Ted did some nice work, too, but the score was tied off his pitching in his first inning of work, that ninth, and there was nothing phoney about the way the Tigers batted him for the winning run in the 17th.

Simmons Saves Game.

Lyons would have lost in the 11th but for some miracle defensive work by Al Simmons. Al did nothing less than throw out two men at the plate in succession, both of whom sought to score from second on singles.

It was the second game the Tigers have won in the last seven played, and not only was Sorrell the victor in both and Lyons the loser, but Hank Greenberg for the second time showed up as the devil man of the Sox scenario.

On Aug. 4 Sorrell beat Lyons, 3 to 2, on three runs driven in by Greenberg. Yesterday he was rampant against Miller, the starting pitcher, as well as Lyons.

Doljack Smashes Triple.

With one out in the 17th Greenberg singled for his fourth hit and scored the winning run on Doljack's triple to center. Doljack was out at the plate

GRIMM'S HOMER GIVES WARNEKE VICTORY NO. 13

Champs Gain Game on Giants.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Charley Grimm's home run in the seventh inning of yesterday's game at Wrigley field enabled the Cubs to end their season's play against the Pittsburgh Pirates with a 3 to 2 victory. The triumph afforded double satisfaction to the Cubs, for it gave them an advantage of 12 games to 10 over the Pirates for the year, in addition to providing balm for Saturday's double defeat at Pittsburgh.

But no other Cub was as pleased with the day's success as was Lon Warneke, the Arkansas rifle expert, who previously had made four futile attempts to achieve his 13th victory of the season. Warneke got away to a poor start yesterday, aggravating a distressing situation caused by an error by Bill Jurges in the first inning with his own unsteadiness, and finished the inning one run in arrears.

Grace's Homer Ties Score.

Thereafter Lon settled down to his customary efficiency and pitched the kind of baseball for which he is famous, although he did see his 2 to 1 lead erased in the seventh inning when Earl Grace, the Pittsburgh catcher, hit a home run into the right field stands with no one on base.

Manager Grimm promptly altered the count in the Cubs' half of the inning by dropping one of Bill Swift's slants into the bleachers in left center field.

Warneke limited the Pirates to eight hits, only two of which came in one inning, the ninth. One of these was a double by Piet to lead off the inning, but the Pirate infielder became careless and on Warneke's first pitch to Grace, Hartnett picked Piet off second with a perfect throw to Jurges.

Paul Waner doubled in the third inning and Suhr did likewise in the fourth, but both hits came after two were out and caused Warneke no particular uneasiness.

Swift meantime was keeping the Cubs' total down to seven hits, but the Chicagoans bunched three of them, a double and two singles, for a run in the second, and two, a single and a double, abetted by a sacrifice, for another score in the fifth.

Jurges' Error Causes Trouble.

Grimm was Swift's chief annoyer, assuming personal charge of the Cubs' attack after the second inning. He had a perfect day at bat with three hits in three attempts, driving in Stephenson with a single for the Cubs' first run, scoring the second on English's double after opening the fifth with his second single, and then deciding the game in the seventh.

The victory left the Cubs half a game back of the Pirates, who are in second place, and four games behind the first place Giants.

Warneke walked from the dugout into embarrassment in the first inning. L. Waner hit the first pitch to Jurges who bobbled it. P. Waner rifled a single into right center, and Lloyd stopped at second. Lindstrom laid down a perfect sacrifice, moving the Waners up a station. By this time Warneke had the Pittsburgh batsmen ducking, but Vaughan stayed upright long enough to fly deep to Stephenson, permitting L. Waner to score after the catch. Traynor grounded to Jurges to retire the side.

The Cubs' offensive in the first inning amounted to a scratch single, which Cuyler beat out to Piet with two out. Cuyler was caught stealing, Grace to Vaughan.

Warneke Turns On Power.

In the second inning, however, after Warneke had disposed of the Pirates in order, the Cubs got three hits to tie the score. Stephenson lined a double off Suhr's glove with one out and went to third on Hartnett's single to right. Grimm hit a high bounder toward shortstop and Swift, making a leaping try for the ball, tipped it towards third, permitting Stephenson to score and Grimm to reach first. It was ruled a single. Hartnett went to third on the play and languished there while Jurges was forcing Grimm and Warneke rolled out to Swift.

Warneke held the Pirates in check in the third, fourth and fifth innings with the aid of some remarkable fielding by Cuyler and W. Herman. Despite a double by Paul Waner in the third, another by Suhr in the fourth and a single by Lloyd Waner in the included Johnny Farrell, former United States open champion; Ed Dudley, a fellow member of the American Ryder cup team; Harry Cooper and Vincent Eldred.

Miami, Fla., Veteran Wins Title Third Time.

The biggest gallery of the tournament — 5,000 persons — followed the finalists, with a majority pulling for Goggin, the unknown who wasn't given a chance when the tournament opened here Tuesday.

Sarazen Wins Second Hole.

Although Goggin was on the green with his second shot on the first hole and in a position to score a birdie, he missed by inches. Both took par fours. Sarazen went 1 up on the second when Goggin's putt from 15 feet was wide of the mark. Gene won the hole with a par four. Each registered a five on the 440 yard third after their drives had found the rough some 200 yards short of the green. Each needed two putts to get down.

The 190 yard fourth was easy, each taking a par three. Goggin's drive just missed being a hole in one, rolling eight feet past the flag. It took Willie two putts from that distance. Sarazen, in the meantime, got out from a trap and sank a short putt. Each was trapped on his drive at the fifth and required three more strokes for par four.

Goggin Squares the Match.

Goggin squared the match on the next hole, sinking a 50 foot putt for a birdie three, while Gene was content with a conventional four. They divided the seventh in par fours, although each had a chance for a birdie. Sarazen went one up again on the eighth with a 160 yard drive and a putt from 15 feet. Goggin found the trap with his drive on this short hole, but exploded nicely and sank his putt for a three.

Despite a perfect drive, Goggin could only halve the ninth when Sarazen recovered beautifully and sank a short putt for a four.

Goggin's sensational approach shot on the tenth landed within a foot of the cup and he holed out for a birdie three, squaring the match again. Sarazen's second shot barely made the edge of the green. He used two putts to get down.

Although each missed an easy putt after a fine drive, they scored par fours on the 11th. The tricky 12th was decided in the same way after each had caught the rough with tee shots. The 13th was unlucky for Goggin, Sarazen going 1 up when Goggin conceded the hole after his first putt for a birdie overran the cup and his second rimmed it. It was the first three-putt green in the match.

Sarazen Goes Two Up.

Sarazen was afflicted with putter trouble on the 14th and Goggin won it with a birdie four. Gene registered a five. Both were on the fairway with their drives, but Sarazen's third shot was too strong. Sarazen, however, won the next hole, which is 320 yards long, getting a birdie three with a 300 yard drive, a pitch and a ten foot putt.

Gene went 2 up on the 130 yard 16th, where Goggin again lost control of his putter. Sarazen's drive dropped within four feet of the flag. He overrun his first putt, but scored on the next, while Goggin needed three putts.

Both got away fine drives on the 17th and tallied par fours. Because Sarazen's second shot turned out poorly, while Goggin's was dead to the pin, the Californian captured the 18th and cut Gene's lead to 1 up as they went to lunch.

Par—Out	444	344	435	—35
Par—In	443	454	344	—35—70
Sarazen—Out	445	344	424	—34
Goggin—Out	455	343	434	—35
Sarazen—In	444	453	344	—35—69
Goggin—In	344	544	443	—35—70

Gene went 2 up again on the 19th when he dropped in a short putt for a par four. Goggin experienced difficulty with his second shot, which failed to make the green, and took two putts for a five. They halved the 325 yard 20th in par fours, Goggin missing a five-footer for a birdie three. Sarazen added another hole on the 21st, Goggin taking three putts again. The 22d was halved in par threes, after each made the green with his drives.

Sarazen bagged a birdie on the 23d and went 4 up. Goggin missed an easy putt after his second stopped ten feet from the hole. They divided the 24th in even fours, although Gene just missed for a birdie on his try for a putt from 40 feet.

Goggin Cuts Gene's Advantage.

Goggin won his first hole of the afternoon when he took the 25th with a birdie three, running down a 25 foot putt after Gene was short with one from six feet. Goggin's approach gave him the advantage on this hole. It left Gene 3 up. The 26th was halved in fours, one stroke over par. Both hit their tee shots into the trap on this 165 yard hole. Goggin might have had a deuce had his 25 foot bid for a putt traveled ten inches farther.

Goggin took another three putt green on the 27th and it cost him the hole, his adversary getting down with a birdie four on two shots to the edge of the green and two putts, the last from a distance of four feet.

Sarazen Wins on 32d Green.

Both Sarazen and Goggin halved the twenty-eighth, each using two putts to get down. It was the same on the twenty-ninth, where each took a par 4, although Goggin out drove Gene. Sarazen tried for a birdie with a putt from 45 feet, but missed by 20 inches. The thirtieth also was halved, despite the fact that Gene's second stopped 25 feet from the cup.

Gene went 5 up on the thirty-first, winning the hole with a birdie 3. Sarazen got out of the rough on this 370 yard hole with a shot to within 12 inches of the cup. Goggin missed his 6 footer for a birdie.

Gene won the match by halving the thirty-second, matching Goggin's 4 by sinking a 6 foot putt. Goggin had a chance to prolong the match, but his first putt, a 6 footer, was short by 6 inches.

Readers Will Have to Wait; Helens Must Play Tennis

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 13.—Among the important literary events of the coming week will be the competitive meeting at Forest Hills, L. I., of two celebrated lady authors, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Miss Helen Jacobs, both of Berkeley, Cal. The ladies will use tennis rackets for weapons instead of the traditional typewriter or fountain pen usually employed by authors and naturally there is some confusion in the New York newspaper offices as to the best procedure in covering the contest.

It would seem, of course, that any clash between ladies who are able to turn out literature in paying quantities should fall within the province of the book reviewers. On the other hand, tournament tennis always has been rather loosely regarded as a sport and there are those who insist that the tennis experts should be given the assignment.

They Had a Plan to Make It Interesting for Customers.

It is impossible to decide whether the ladies are more celebrated as writers than as athletes or vice versa. Probably the best solution would be to concede that they have each two distinct careers, letters and sport, and to treat of their writing in the literary section and of their tennis in the sport department. In fact, I may be violating some section of the literary code in mentioning their writing in connection with their tennis. I know that the tennis people are extremely careful to prevent any mention of an author's tennis in connection with his or her, literary work. The authors' league may be touchy, too.

Only last week Miss Jacobs was cited by the tennis authorities and threatened with serious punishment because it had been advertised that the current national champion would appear between certain hours at a department store and autograph copies of her book for the customers. Miss Jacobs was acquitted on her explanation that she had explicitly warned her publisher that he was not to mention the fact that she was a tennis champion in connection with this personal appearance in the department store. The customers were supposed to guess.

The fact that the book dealt with the subject of tennis might have served as a clue, but then book lovers are not all necessarily up on matters of sport. Some of them might have said to themselves: "Jacobs, Jacobs; that must be the writer who does the stories beginning 'Women,' said the night watchman as he tamped the 'baccy into the bowl of his ruddy briar with a stubby forefinger, 'have always been a great puzzle to me.'"

Tennis Doesn't Seem to Help One's Writing.

Similarly, if Babe Ruth were to appear in a department store to autograph a collection of his interesting reflections on life, love, and the lively baseball, the strictly literary element, immured in their own interests, might never suspect that the author also enjoyed another sort of existence and fame.

The tennis authorities, with discriminating justice, accepted Miss Jacobs' explanation and exonerated her of any intent to make a dollar out of the athletic celebrity which she enjoys.

This decision not only tended to establish Miss Jacobs' other identity as an author and to ballyhoo her book and thus to help her make a dollar independently of her athletic reputation, but, also, by happy chance, maintained the eligibility of one of the two profitable drawing cards of this week's national women's championship. It would have been very unfortunate for the tennis business if it had been necessary to rule out Miss Jacobs, as her customer appeal at the turnstiles of Forest Hills is second only to that of Mrs. Moody herself.

It is a pretty well established fact that tennis is conducive to literature, for famous players of both sexes become more and more prolific of books, magazine articles, and newspaper essays as they ascend in the national ranking. On the other hand, however, literature does not seem to produce great tennis players. I have never seen any mention of Miss Katherine Brush, Mrs. Pearl Buck, or Miss Isobel Ross, to mention three rather successful lady writers of the time, in any of the tournament lists and I cannot, offhand, think of any well known writers of either persuasion who has ever been summoned before the authors' league and warned against exploiting a literary reputation at the box office of Forest Hills.

Authors' Tennis Should Equal Players' Writings.

Perhaps the author-authors, as distinguished from the player-authors, ought to take up tennis as a professional stimulant because literature apparently comes very easy to those who have won important championships in the game. The author-authors might not write any better, but possibly they would write faster and the young ones toiling up to literary recognition might save themselves a great deal of time and bother.

Quite aside from their prominence as tennis players, which no tactful person would be so unkind to mention in connection with the literary careers of Mrs. Moody and Miss Jacobs, they became distinguished authors in much less time and with apparently much less effort than is usually involved in the rise of an author-author.

But even among the field of author-authors who are no longer young girls and boys it might be possible to select a tournament lineup which would play tennis almost as well as some of the celebrated player-authors write. As drawing cards at the turnstiles of Forest Hills they would be, on the whole, inferior to the great players who make a vocation of amateur tennis, although I think I could name a couple of teams which would bring out a pay load of customers. For this contest of author-players I would suggest one match between Mr. Sinclair Lewis and Mr. Theodore Dreiser and another between Miss Edna Ferber and Miss Fanny Hurst—to a finish.

Swim Teams! Get Entries in Early for Tribune Events

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's ten swimming champions will be crowned Aug. 27. All boys and girls, if they are amateurs and have not won titles in other years in the meets sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, are eligible. Entries must be made, however, by midnight Aug. 22.

The meet, fourth of the series, will be staged in the Lincoln park lagoon over a 100 yard course. All competitors who report for their swimming numbers and are assigned places in the qualifying races will receive a souvenir button. The champions will be awarded gold medals and there are silver and bronze medals for those boys and girls who finish second and third in each race. Two team trophies, one for boys and the other for girls, also are among the prizes.

Enter Teams Now!

Several hundred individual entries have been received already. This list will be increased by the team entries. It is urged that these be submitted as soon as possible to facilitate the work of the clerks.

An entry blank is printed daily for the benefit of those who wish to submit individual entries. Team entries may be sent in a group, but the ages of the contestants must be attested by the team manager, instructor, or captain. Boys and girls 16 years of age and over also must be registered with the central association of the A. A. U. This registration, which costs 25 cents and is good for one year, may be obtained in advance from Capt. Roy E. Davis, 538 South Clark street, or it may be obtained on the day of the meet at the Lincoln Park Boat club, which will be the headquarters for the A. A. U. clerks and the clerks of the course.

Definite announcement of the hours when racing numbers may be obtained will be made in the columns of THE TRIBUNE. However, it is probable that the numbers will be available from 10 o'clock in the morning until an hour before the first qualifying heat in class A for boys 11 and 12 years of age.

Here Are Age Groups.

The age classifications for both boys and girls are:

Class A—11 and 12 years of age.
Class B—13 and 14 years of age.
Class C—15 and 16 years of age.
Class D—17 and 18 years of age.
Class E—19 years of age and over.

J. Frank Lyman, general superintendent of Lincoln park, has arranged for the use of the lagoon for the races. The starting barge will be anchored opposite the boat club as in former years. Ample facilities for checking clothes will be provided. Fourteen five foot lanes will be prepared between the barges. This will probably take care of the lists of competitors in most of the ten classes so that one preliminary and the final will be all any one swimmer will be required to perform. Only the winners of the preliminaries will qualify for the finals.

WESTERN STARS BEAT EAST 15-11 IN POLO OPENER

12,500 See First Match of Series.

twice did he tally from the field, his other three goals being made on free shots following fouls. Time and again his free shots were stopped by the alert defense of the westerners.

The second game of the series will be played Wednesday. If the east wins a third and deciding contest will take place Sunday.

The western team took the lead shortly after the opening gong when Smith scored on a free shot after a foul by Hitchcock. A few minutes later Boeseke dribbled the ball toward the easterners' goal, with Roark racing ahead of him. Raymond Guest dashed over to cover Roark, giving Boeseke an opportunity to take the ball in and score from a sharp angle, giving the westerners a 2 to 0 lead.

Shortly afterward Williams and Phipps raced for the ball, which was rolling toward the westerners' goal. Williams got there first and knocked it back, but Winston Guest came up at a gallop to slam the ball between the posts for the first eastern tally. Then Hitchcock took the ball deep in his own territory, maneuvered between several of his opponents, and nursed the ball three-quarters of the length of the field in masterful fashion to tie the score at 2-2.

Smith Scores Aerial Shot.

Raymond Guest took the east into the lead early in the second chukker with a spectacular shot from an angle 50 yards out, but Smith promptly tied it up by slamming home a free shot from the 60 yard line. The easterners had no chance to block it because he knocked it over their heads as a football player kicks a goal.

A minute later Smith put the west into a 4 to 3 lead with a free shot after a foul by Hitchcock. After the gong ending the chukker, the west kept the ball in play. Roark took a pass from Williams and scored with a superb near side foreshot, making it 5 to 3. Play continues after the gong until a goal is scored or the ball goes out of bounds.

Smith scored again early in the third chukker with a free shot from the 60 yard line after a foul by Raymond Guest. That made it 6 to 3.

Making a remarkable save, Williams rode into goal post, knocking it down. He was shaken up a bit, but resumed play after a brief rest.

Cut Down Western Lead.

Then Phipps and Hitchcock slammed in short shots to cut into the westerners' lead, bringing the score to 7 to 6. As the chukker ended Hitchcock brought the ball down the field, and passed to Winston Guest, who sent it rolling between the posts. That made the count 7 to 6.

Early in the fourth chukker Smith scored again on a free shot, making it 8 to 6. As the period ended, Roark took the ball near midfield, dribbled to the goal, and slammed the ball between the posts to give the west a 9 to 6 advantage at half time.

Smith, riding Jim Hannah's Texas Beauty, galloped to the ball as it rolled toward the sideboards. He drove it to the center and Boeseke came riding in to score, making it 10 to 6. Roark swept down the side line at a thundering gallop, following up one of his long shots. Just short of the end zone he caught up with the ball and sent it spinning to Boeseke just in front of the goal. Boeseke scored.

Again Boeseke raced down the center, took a pass from Smith directly in front of the goal, and slammed it home, making the score West, 12; East, 6.

Smith Knocked Out.

As Smith made the pass to Boeseke Texas Beauty fell, rolling on the rider. Smith was knocked unconscious and did not revive for almost 20 minutes. After walking around the field for another 20 minutes to recover from dizziness, he resumed play, his shot missing the posts by inches.

Every second of the 7½ minutes of the sixth chukker was packed with action. Roark made the most spectacular save of the day when he came up to the goal at a full gallop and backed an eastern shot one foot from his own posts.

A series of charges up and down the field during the seventh chukker was climaxed as Raymond Guest tallied. Then Hitchcock scored on a free shot from the 60 yard mark, bringing the count to West, 12; East, 8.

Makes 100 Yard Drive.

As the last period began, Rube Williams made a drive of nearly 100 yards and followed up to poke it through the posts for another tally. Hitchcock retaliated with a free shot, making it 13 to 9.

The West came right back. Roark took the ball in midfield, dribbled in and tallied. A minute later Roark made a fast pass to Smith, who scored with an under the belly shot at full speed. That made the score 15 to 9.

Raymond Guest then added a point for the easterners, bringing the count to 15 to 10. Just before the gong Hitchcock drove in a free shot, making the final score: West, 15; East, 11. Lineup:

BLUENOSE GREETS THEBAUD, RIVAL IN ATLANTIC RACE

The American champion fishing schooner Gertrude L. Thebaud, Capt. Ben Pine, out of Gloucester, Mass., sailed into Chicago yesterday afternoon and was met by a fleet of yachts off the Lake View crib. Among these craft and standing up to weather was the Canadian and international champion fishing schooner Bluenose, Capt. Angus Walters, of Halifax.

These two boats have fought several duels for the championship of the Atlantic.

After the meeting of the two famous boats and their skippers, a committee of Chicago yachtsmen was formed composed of Commodore W. G. D. Orr of the Lake Michigan Yachting association, Dr. Hollis Potter in command of A Century of Progress yachting activities, and Henry Heinrichs, representing the two schooners, to work out a plan for a series of races between the two vessels for the great lakes championship.

DIXIANA FILLIES MAY GET CHANCE AT LADY HIGLOSS

Hawthorne Stake Likely to Bring Out Stars.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Dixiana stable, owned by Charles Fisher of Detroit and presided over by Trainer Clyde Van Dusen of Kentucky, will come back into the Chicago racing spotlight with the running of the Hawthorne Juvenile stakes Saturday afternoon.

Should Trainer Van Dusen decide to start either of the Dixiana stars—Far Star or Mati Hari—the race will command attention from all parts of the country. If neither of these flyers go to the post it will be just another 2 year old race and may possibly have little bearing on the ultimate outcome of the division title chase.

The Hawthorne Juvenile this year is worth $5,000, quite a sum for any man's horse to race for. Yet it is just a drop in the bucket as far as Mata Hari and Far Star are concerned. Mata Hari won the Arlington Lassie stakes, which grossed around $30,000. Far Star won the Arlington Futurity, which had a total value of more than $40,000.

How About Lady Higloss?

Both of them are eyeing the Belmont Futurity, to be run early next month. It is always worth around $30,000. So it will be quite unusual if Trainer Van Dusen does send either of his standout fillies after the Hawthorne prize, yet he has both of them at the west side course and has indicated to some of his friends that one of them will start in the Hawthorne race and win it.

Chicagoans hope Trainer Van Dusen is in earnest about such plans, for both Far Star and Mata Hari have become great favorites here where they have gained most of their success. Chicagoans want to see one or the other of them match strides with the sensational Lady Higloss, which has won her last five starts in Chicago and which in the opinion of many shrewd horsemen is a real championship contender herself. With the exception of Lady Higloss, the western juveniles do not shape up as being in a class with the brilliant pair from Dixiana stable.

Westerners the Best.

Western owned 2 year olds have been making almost a clean sweep of the juvenile stakes. Wise Daughter, owned by Fred Barton of Chicago, has just won the Sales stakes and Special at Saratoga from the best of her age that could be mustered. Hadagal, from Warren Wright's stable of Chicago, was right at Wise Daughter's heels in the Special, and finished second to Far Star in the Arlington Futurity.

Put Wise Daughter, Hadagal, Mata Hari, Far Star, Lady Higloss, and the other westerners into a race right at this time and it would have the turf followers in all parts of the country agog awaiting for the name of the winner. A $20,000 prize probably could have brought them together.

New York, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Five hit pitching by Phil Collins, coupled with a pair of home runs by Don Hurst, gave the Phillies a 2 to 1 decision over the Giants in the series final today. The victory broke a four game string of defeats which included a pair of shutouts by the Giants.

Hurst hit his homers in the second and seventh innings. The lone run off Collins came in the eighth when he passed Paul Richards and Blondy Ryan and Hughey Critz singled to bring home Byrne James, who ran for Richards. Score:

BRAVES, DODGERS SPLIT.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 13.—(AP)—The Boston Braves came from behind to beat Ray Benge and the Dodgers, 6 to 2, in the first game of a double header today, but the Brooklyn club rose up to exact revenge in the second game by slamming out an 11 to 0 victory.

Fred Frankhouse was hammered from the mound before he retired a man. Bob Smith inherited the pitching job and the Dodgers continued to pound him until they had scored seven runs in the first inning. They knocked Smith out in the fifth with a four run rally, featured by a homer by Al Lopez. Walter Beck blanked the Braves with five runs.

Grimm's Home Run Defeats Pirates, 3-2

fifth, all of which came after two were out, the Pirates failed to score. L. Waner stole second in the fifth when Hartnett threw poorly to Billy Herman, but Warneke, after walking P. Waner, knocked down Lindstrom's hard drive and threw him out to retire the side.

Meantime the Cubs were going out one-two-three in the third and fourth, preparatory to a tie breaking foray in the fifth. Grimm led off the assault in this inning with a sharp single over second. Jurges sacrificed, Swift to Suhr to advance Grimm. Warneke hit one squarely, but it lined straight into Lindstrom's hands in deep left. Grimm holding second. English then hit one equally as hard between Lindstrom and L. Waner in left center for a double, scoring Grimm and putting the Cubs ahead for the first time. English died on second when Billy Herman lined to Paul Waner in deep right.

Grimm Wins Game With Homer.

Billy Herman gave Pittsburgh an opening in the sixth. Traynor walked with one out. Suhr lined to Herman, who threw to the grandstand trying to double Traynor off first. Traynor took second. The threat was stifled when Jurges threw out Piet to retire the side.

It was here that the heavy artillery took charge of the game. Grace put the Pirates back into a tie with his home run into the right field bleachers in the first half of the seventh. Grimm then restored the Cubs' advantage with a drive into the left field bleachers in the last half of the inning.

Lindstrom singled to start the eighth. He advanced on Vaughan's sacrifice, but Warneke slipped a third strike past Traynor and Billy Herman threw out Suhr. Piet doubled to open the Pirates' ninth, but on the first pitch to Grace, Hartnett picked Piet off second with a perfect throw to Jurges. Jensen, pinch hitting for Swift, singled after this, then L. Waner grounded out to Grimm for the last out, leaving the tying run stranded.

Tigers Beat Sox in 17th, 6-5; Simmons Pegs 2 Out at Plate

on Owen's bouncer and Hayworth filed to Swanson.

Sorrell didn't let Appling and Dykes get the ball out of the infield in the Sox seventeenth and ended the game by fanning Rhyne.

Greenberg's part in yesterday's affair was a double which drove in the first run of the game in the fourth, a double, after which he scored in the eighth, a third double which drove in the tying run from first with two out in the ninth, and the aforesaid single after which he scored that winning run in the seventeenth.

Tigers Score in Fourth.

The Tigers' first hit blossomed into the first run of the game. With one down in the fourth Gehringer doubled to right. Stone grounded to Kress and was safe when Miller took the toss with his foot off the bag. Gehringer went to third on the error. Greenberg doubled over Swanson's head, Gehringer scoring and Stone stopping at third.

The Sox made two runs to take the lead in their half of the fourth. With one out Dykes landed on Gehringer's fumble and went to third on Rhyne's eighth successive hit. Barry singles to right, Dykes scoring and Rhyne reaching third. Miller fanned but Swanson singled to right, scoring Rhyne. Haas rolled out to Greenberg.

Seven Up, One In.

The Tigers got seven men to bat in the seventh, but the best they could do was make one run to tie the score. Hayworth walked and went to third on Sorrell's single through the pitcher's box. Rogell filed to Swanson, Hayworth scoring. White was hit by a pitched ball and Gehringer walked, filling the bases. Stone was out, Kress to Miller.

The Sox took the lead in the seventh before a double play caught up with them. Haas singled to right, went to second on Kress' sacrifice, and scored on Simmons' single to right. Appling then hit into a double play.

In the first of the eighth the Tigers acquired a 4 to 3 advantage. Greenberg opened with a double to left and stopped at third while Doljack was beating out a tap in front of the plate. Owen grounded out to Rhyne, Greenberg scoring and Doljack stopping at second. Hayworth singled to right, scoring Doljack.

For the second successive inning the Sox tied the Tiger scoring. Dykes banged a single off Owen's shins. Rhyne bunted and the ball rapidly was spinning out of bounds. Owen, however, made the mistake of slapping down the ball before it cleared the foul line. So Dykes was safe at second and Rhyne was credited with his third hit of the game and his ninth in ten times at bat. Berry bunted and forced Dykes at third, Greenberg to Owen. Jones ran for Berry and Webb batted for Miller. Webb grounded out to Gehringer. Swanson singled to center, scoring Rhyne and Jones.

Greenberg's Hit Ties Score.

Lyons went in to pitch the ninth. He fanned White and made Gehringer tap to Appling. Stone then singled to center and scored the tying run when Greenberg came through with his third double of the game, an enormous smack to right.

Simmons doubled with two down in the ninth and Appling was given an intentional pass. Dykes flied to Stone.

In the first of the 10th Owen flied to Hass, after which Hayworth and Sorrell fanned. In the Sox half Sorrell threw out Rhyne and Lyons lined to Owen. Grube was called out on strikes.

Simmons Does His Stuff.

Rogell opened the 11th with a single to right and went to second on a wild pitch. It was at this juncture that Simmons put on his great demonstration of how baseballs should be thrown. White singled to left and Rogell was out at the plate, which was a good show in itself. White took second on the throw, of course. Gehringer singled to left and Simmons again put on his show, sinking White on another perfect shot to Grube.

Swanson, Haas, and Kress went out in order in the eleventh.

Greenberg, most active of the Tiger offensive players, opened the 12th with a grounder to Appling and was safe when Appling juggled the ball. He moved to second on Doljack's sacrifice. Then Owen flied to Haas and Lyons threw out Hayworth.

The next big strain for Chicago partisans came in the 14th when Gehringer singled with one down. The anxiety ended when Stone hit into a double play. In the Sox end of the same inning Appling singled with two down and Dykes walked. Rhyne ran the count to three balls and two strikes, then fanned.

Doljack Decides It.

Greenberg knocked his fourth hit and first single with one out in the 17th and scored on Doljack's triple to right center. Owen tapped to Dykes and Doljack was out at the plate, Dykes to Grube. Hayworth filed to Swanson.

In the Sox 17th Schuble threw out Appling and Dykes. Stone drew an error for dropping Rhyne's foul, but Rhyne then ended the game with a foul to Hayworth.

Control Is Added to Unique Conditions.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Conditions surrounding the grain trade are the most unsettled and drastic that operators have ever experienced. All are entirely different from any other period, due to short corps of all grains in the United States and Canada, an absence of export demand, and uncertainty as to the future.

Grain exchanges are confronted by conditions that indicate the necessity for revision of rules and regulations which they have fought against for years, with the government holding the upper hand. At the same time government officials have intimated that we are in an inflation period.

While present conditions have brought about a decline of around 30 cents a bushel on wheat and 23 cents on corn from the recent high point, prices are materially above the low levels of last March.

However, Advance in Prices Expected.

It would be no surprise to see a sharp upturn to materially higher levels as soon as a readjustment of conditions governing the exchanges is effected by government regulations. There are also likely to be sharp fluctuations at times that will tend to prevent heavy operations by leading traders. In this regard it is apparent to leading interests that the days of big speculative operations in grains and provisions are over.

It is believed by all interests who have made a study of speculation and its effects on crops and markets that exchanges are necessary to facilitate economical marketing costs for producers. Were it not for the exchange marketing costs, it is believed, would be much higher than at present. But it would be no surprise to see that operations of the government will result in lowering of costs eventually.

All Grains Liquidated.

There has been heavy liquidation in all grain markets, and prices are at a level, it is believed, where new buying would bring about higher levels. Grain crops in the United States and Canada are the shortest in recent years, yet there is an abundance of wheat and corn for all consumptive requirements and for export, with a probable scarcity of oats, rye and barley before the end of the season. Crops in the southern hemisphere are uncertain, with indications of smaller production than last year.

There will be no actual scarcity of wheat the world over, and should it develop in any section the condition could easily be relieved by an adequate supply of tonnage, which is handling grain at low rates.

Movement of Wheat.

Movement of wheat to primary markets since July 1 this year aggregates 47,673,000 bushels, compared with 57,833,000 bushels last year. The loss this year is around 7,000,000 bushels at Kansas City, while Minneapolis has had an increase of over 1,000,000 bushels, although the northwest has one of the shortest crops of spring wheat in years.

Wheat future prices in Chicago moved within a range of 10 cents during the week and at the close September was 92¼ cents, December 95⅜ cents, and May 99⅞ cents, net losses for the week being 5¾ to 6⅜ cents. Winnipeg prices were off 11¼ cents to 11¼ cents, and Liverpool from 3½ to 4¼ cents lower compared with a week ago. Prices for the week follow:

Corn Report Bullish.

Crop reports on corn are less favorable, government returns suggesting a heavy decline during July. Heaviest losses are in the states of largest production. Farmers in the central corn belt were induced to sell old corn freely owing to recent advance in price, but they shut off when the market broke. The close was unsatisfactory, both for cash and futures, but an improvement is looked for.

Corn statistics are bearish, and crop outlook moderately bullish. The yield is the second lightest since 1901, but the visible supply is the largest known. Prices on futures had a range of 7 cents during the week, with the close at net losses of 4⅜ to 6⅛ cents for the week, September being 49⅜, December 54⅝, and May 60⅛ cents. Prices for the week follow:

General Electric Raises Pay of Workers 10 Per Cent

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Schenectady, N. Y., Au. 13.—Employés of the General Electric company here will receive a flat increase of 10 per cent in wages, Burton L. Delack, plant manager, announced. The increase will include piece rate, hourly wage, and salaries up to and including $2,500 a year. It is understood the increase will also be given to most of the office and clerical workers.

Sees Wheat Surplus as a Mountain

Washington, D. C., Aug. 13.—A world wheat carryover of 640,000,000 bushels, or enough to reach 3½ miles in the air when piled in sacks on a single acre of land, was pictured today by Secretary Wallace in "A Balanced Harvest," official manual for the adjustment administration's wheat reduction campaign.

The campaign, designed to reduce next year's plantings by about 10 per cent under the current crop, will be formally opened around Aug. 24, when Secretary Wallace will announce the exact amount of reduction to be required of wheat farmers in return for benefit payments of about $130,000,000. Advance surveys indicate, according to adjustment officials, that from 85 to 90 per cent of all wheat farmers will contract to reduce acreage.

Appeals to Farmers.

Over a facsimile of the signature of Franklin D. Roosevelt approving the plan of wheat acreage reduction, Secretary Wallace appealed to the 1,200,000 American wheat growers to discontinue their "production for an unknown demand." Meanwhile payments are being received by the bureau of internal revenue from the 30 cent processing tax on flour milling out of which the benefit payments will be made.

In terms readily understandable to the dirt farmers Secretary Wallace said:

"Conditions growing out of the war have caused the separate nations of Europe to seek desperately to feed and clothe themselves. They are debtors trying 'to live at home.' They won't buy from us because they don't have the money and can't get it by selling goods to us. The 40,000,000 or more acres we planted for that lost market are surplus acres now. Most of those surplus acres are still in cultivation. Our visible and unmarketed surpluses rise to terrifying heights.

Hold Most of Surplus.

"We have more than half of the world's enormous surplus wheat pile here in the United States. No less than 360 million bushels of a world wheat carryover of 640 million bushels are stored within our borders. The short crop this year will not solve the difficulty. We shall still have a large carryover, and a normal acreage for the 1934 crop would probably add another 200,000,000 bushels to our surplus wheat pile.

"It staggers imagination to consider how much wheat there is in the world. There are 640 million bushels of it in the main exporting and importing countries alone. Put it in two bushel sacks; cover an acre of ground; add other layers until you have all the world's unsought, unpurchased wheat piled where you can see it. The pile is more than 3½ miles high. That is higher than the highest mountain in the United states. And the United States has more than half of all that wheat."

Bankers Tell Alabama to Buy Own Warrant

Mobile, Ala., Aug. 13.—[Special.]—Failing in his efforts to induce New York banks to purchase $17,000,000 of state warrants, Gov. B. M. Miller today appealed to the bankers of Alabama to aid the state government by buying a large portion of the state's paper. The governor and members of the warrant commission returned to the state capital last night from New York. Gov. Miller said that the Chase National bank and others balked at the size of the Alabama offering and suggested that the patriotic bankers of the state purchase the warrants as was done in Tennessee.

Crude Rubber Consumption Reaches All-Time Record

Consumption of crude rubber by domestic manufacturers, reports Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reached the all time peak of 51,326 tons in June, a gain of 15.1 per cent over May.

CALL FOR STEEL HOLDS UP WELL; PLANTS AT 54%

New Spurt Expected Later This Month.

With demand for certain lines showing remarkable vitality, operations in the steel industry are holding up much better than usual for this season. The prospect is that buying will show a new spurt in the latter part of the month. This is the summary given by the magazine Steel in its weekly review of the industry.

The current demand continues to support the operations of the mills around 54 per cent of capacity. The review asserts that favorable showing continues despite increasing pessimism regarding early effectiveness of the NRA program.

Coal Strike Threat Ended.

A favorable development was the settlement of the Pennsylvania coal strike, which eased the fuel shortage which a while back promised to force the closing of some mills.

Price uncertainty is acting as a check on new buying. Big consumers, faced with the necessity of paying the same prices as the little fellows, are hesitating to make new commitments in advance. Adoption of the steel industry code is expected to be a stabilizing influence.

Railroad buying is improving. The New York Central is reported to be releasing 8,000 to 9,000 tons of rails to the Chicago mills. The Burlington has placed orders for 3,500 tons.

Roads Repairing Cars.

With an estimated 15 per cent of freight cars in urgent need of repair, demand from this source is gaining. The Burlington has closed orders for 2,500 tons of car parts. Eastern lines are preparing buying programs which may include the purchase of 250 locomotives.

Of the structural awards for the week totaling 7,143 tons, approximately 4,855 tons were for breweries.

The review says the decline in United States Steel corporation's unfilled tonnage was due in part to cancellation of contracts booked at lower prices and not specified as needed by Aug. 1. In many instances new contracts replacing the canceled orders call for larger tonnage than the canceled orders, it is said.

UNITED PUBLIC SERVICE GROSS INCOME $2,509,163

Gross earnings of the United Public Service company—a Middle West unit—for the six months ended June 30 totaled $2,509,163, compared with $2,911,504 in the like period of 1932, according to the report of Receiver Samuel W. White. Net earnings were $576,291, compared with $716,362 in the like period of 1932. After deductions applicable to subsidiary companies there was $11,070 available to the company for funded debt interest and other charges.

Further, the report stated that a total of $464,724 accrued interest in default on funded debt and notes of the company for the first six months of the year was not deducted in the statement.

Receiver White reported that the United Public Utilities company, a subsidiary, had total gross earnings of $1,692,296, compared with $1,936,940 in the like period of 1932. Net earnings were $447,136, compared with $523,980 in 1932. After deductions there was available $18,050 to the company for general interest, dividends, etc.

Average Daily Closing Prices of 50 Leading Stocks on the New York Stock Exchange

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 13.—Net sales of the General Motors corporation as shown in its pamphlet report for the six months ended on June 30 amounted to $311,954,474, compared with $296,798,534 for the same period of 1932. For the second quarter net sales amounted to $191,954,311, against $147,134,818 for the second quarter last year.

The balance sheet as of June 30 last shows total current assets of $331,272,833, exclusive of cash balances of $13,837,443 in closed banks. This compares with current assets of $283,258,874 on Dec. 31, 1932. Current liabilities were $71,773,002, against $57,821,680, making net working capital $259,499,831 on June 30 and $225,437,194 on Dec. 31, 1932.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president, in commenting on the financial position of the company, compares certain financial relationships between the status at June 30, and at the beginning of the depression. He says the net working capital as of June 30 exceeded that on Dec. 31, 1929. United States government and other marketable securities were $73,137,233 greater than the corresponding items were on Dec. 31, 1929. The improvement in working capital and liquidity, he explains, was effected in the face of dividend payments in excess of earnings by approximately $70,000,000 in the three and a half years.

U. S. IS UNLIKELY TO INTERFERE ON GRAIN ACTION

Washington, D. C., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Farm administrators tonight were reported inclined toward a policy of non-interference with the action of grain exchange authorities in ordering removal of minimum price limits at the nation's principal grain markets.

Notice has been served by spokesmen for the exchanges of removal of the minimum limits at the close of trading next Tuesday.

At the department of agriculture it was disclosed tonight that numerous messages have been received from farmers who soon will move wheat and other grains to market, most of them favoring government action to assure continuation of the minimums. The minimums were based on the closing prices of July 30 in futures trading. They were put into effect as an emergency action after grain prices sagged rapidly.

LETTERS

Sales Tax Eats Profits.

Chicago, Aug. 9.—In the following letter we would like to present how the 2 per cent sales tax suddenly becomes a 10 per cent income tax in the printing business.

Approximately 50 per cent of the price of our product is for outside purchases, such as paper, ink, type, etc. About 30 per cent is for labor and overhead expense, leaving a net profit to the owners of 20 per cent. When the sales tax of 2 per cent is deducted from this amount it in reality is a 10 per cent tax on the earnings of the business, which is our total income.

Our customers, in accordance with the terms of the law, frankly refuse to pay an additional 2 per cent if added to the bill, and if this 2 per cent is added in the original estimate it becomes a part of the price of the job, which we have to sell as the price of printing. As our purchases and labor cannot be classed as carrying any of this tax it leaves the 2 per cent entirely on the profit, which is our income from the business.

You can readily see that this is a greater burden than we ought to be expected to bear, in consideration of the fact that wholesalers and manufacturers not selling directly to consumers have no share in this.

The above figures are approximately true of a great many other businesses outside of printing, and bear out the contention that the sales tax as now operated is distinctly a class tax which a restricted part of business is asked to bear.

MERCHANTS FLOCK TO CHICAGO'S EXHIBITS; TRADE SETS RECORD

Wholesale trade rose to new levels last week as a large number of buyers visited the Chicago market to attend the Interstate Merchants' council and the various trade shows being held, the Chicago Association of Commerce reported.

Retail trade also continued to hold its gains over former weeks, the association said. August clearance sales acted as a stimulant to retail buying.

The association said that early reports indicated that out-of-town merchants purchased $7,000,000 more of goods during the retailers' convention than last year.

Commercial Solvents.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly give me information on Commercial Solvents.—Mrs. R. L.

Answer: Commercial Solvents corporation is the largest domestic producer of butanol [normal butyl alcohol]. It is used chiefly in the manufacture of lacquers. It is also used in preparation of shellac, varnish, rayon, artificial leather, and drugs, and chemicals.

Acetone, ethyl alcohol, and methanol are byproducts and are used mainly in production of foods, drugs, artificial silk and photographic film.

The company is the sole licensee of the Weizmann patented process, which enables it to produce butanol cheaply.

There are two factors which investors should consider in evaluating the value of this exclusive process. First, the patents on it expire in 1936, and, second, there is always the possibility of discovery of new methods for producing butanol. Union Carbide and Carbon corporation has made considerable strides in the latter phase.

Despite low demand for its products in 1932 the company ran at capacity during the year in order to take advantage of the low price of corn. It more than doubled its inventory. The sharp increase in the price of corn during 1933 should net the company a handsome inventory profit.

The company's plants are well equipped to turn out pure grain alcohol. In the event of repeal of the 18th amendment the company should easily turn out 35,000,000 gallons of it a year, which could eventually be doubled by a moderate expenditure for new fermenting and distilling equipment.

Net income for the first half of 1933 equaled 25 cents a share, against 23 cents a share for the corresponding 1932 period.

Net income for 1932 equaled 51 cents per common share, against 84 cents for 1931 and $1.07 for 1930. Earnings in 1932 and 1931 were favored by the company's writedown of fixed assets to $1, which eliminated depreciation charges. The downward trend of earnings was due to slackening of industrial demand for its product and price declines.

On June 30, 1933, cash assets alone were $2,770,000 while current liabilities totaled $231,000. Total current assets were 28 times current liabilities.

There is no funded debt. Capitalization is represented solely by 2,530,371 shares, which pay dividends of 30 cents semi-annually.

The capital stock deserves a fairly good rating.

CORN CROP SEEN AS SMALLEST IN 46 YEARS

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 13.—(AP)—From present indications Illinois farmers this season will harvest the smallest corn crop in 46 years, A. J. Surratt, statistican for the federal department of agriculture said in his August crop survey.

"Draught, intense heat and chinch bugs served to lower prospects of the corn crop during the last month," surratt, said in his report for Illinois, "conditions were especially unfavorable in the important central and eastern section, where drought prevail. The 1933 corn prospect on Aug. 1, was 222,778,000 bushels compared with last year's production of 387,043,000."

Winter wheat had best results among the grains, prospects for Illinois wheat on Aug. 1, were 24,592,000 bushels compared with 21,750,000 for last year, the spring wheat outlook was the smallest on record, with only 703,000 bushels this year compared with 1,683,000 bushels last year.

REPORTS 30 PCT. GAIN IN GREAT LAKES SHIPPING

Arthur C. Sullivan, president of D. Sullivan & Co., operators of nine great lakes freight ships, reports that cargo and bulk freight business to date is 30 per cent ahead of what it was at this time last year.

"The fast rebound in bulk and general cargo shipments on the lake carriers is a positive barometer of the marked upswing in business during the last few months in the territory adjoining the great lakes," Mr. Sullivan stated.

The Sullivan fleet, which totals about 50,000 tons, includes the S. S. Alabama, which provides a passenger service between Chicago and Muskegon.

U. S. May Act This Week on Gold Hoarding

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug 13.—Whether gold hoarders will be prosecuted will be determined by Attorney General Cummings when he returns to Washington this week after a short vacation.

Recently Mr. Cummings declared with emphasis that willful hoarders of gold, who after final warning failed to return their holdings to the treasury or federal reserve banks, would be prosecuted in the federal courts.

Owing to the long delay in starting prosecutions, some have taken the attitude that the threats of prosecution were merely designed to bring about the return of gold to the treasury and reserve banks as was directed by the presidential order of last March.

New Threat to Prosecute.

Officials at the justice department again today, however, insisted that willful violation of the edict will result in the presentation of cases to federal grand juries. They expressed confidence that the gold empounding order would stand the test of the courts, a question that has caused widespread discussion.

If Mr. Cummings carries out his plan, the first move will be a final warning to the 200 or more individuals found by department of justice agents to have refused to turn in their gold. Secondly, the names of the hoarders will be given to the newspapers for publication. Then the cases will go to the grand juries. Mr. Cummings expressed confidence that most of the hoarders would relinquish their gold before prosecutions started. It was pointed out, however, that should a hoarder turn in his gold even after he is brought before the court, that would have a strong bearing on what action was taken.

Much Gold Returned.

The governument's drive to get gold back since March has brought a vast reduction in gold and gold certificates in circulation. On July 31 $571,849,000 in gold and gold certificates were outside the treasury and reserve banks, a reduction of $649,852,000 since Feb. 28.

There is no figure available on the actual amount in circulation in the United States. Officials pointed out today that unquestionably a considerable amount of the gold and certificates listed as "in circulation" has been lost or destroyed, particularly the certificates, while a large amount has been taken to foreign countries.

WALL ST. LOOKS FOR SOME SORT OF ACTION SOON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 13.—Speculation on the immediate future of the stock market turns very largely on the technical significance of the continuing period of dull trading. The list has been idling in a trading range of four to five points for more than three weeks now. Post-graduates of the chart student fraternity believe it is bound to break on one side or the other before long. The question is, Which way will it be? Last week's little display of bullish activity, which carried through the better part of two sessions and into the third, raised hopes in some sober minded circles that a resumption of the major advance so rudely interrupted by the mid-July break was in the making.

Seen as Flash in Pan.

When the flurry gradually petered out, as it did Thursday morning, without gaining any worth while momentum, another contingent of observers given to just as careful consideration of the evidence promptly set it down as one of those flashes in the pan and decided there was nothing in the picture to alter their previous convictions that the market is getting ready for that secondary reaction which so many hold to be necessary before the ground can be laid for a further sustained move to the fore.

The crux of the situation seems to be that the sharks of the speculative element cannot quite make up their minds whether the current dullness is a "resting level" of the rebound from the July break or whether the reaction which overtook the list last month is exerting its pull under the surface afresh after the brief technical recovery.

Answer Means Much.

To the trader fingering whatever pocket change the depression may have spared him with a view to making a "play" on his guess, the answer to the rebus means much. If what has been taking place in the last three weeks turns out to be the makings of a secondary decline, the dullness would be interpreted as a bullish condition on the ground that little liquidation remains hanging over the list and that the present holders of securities are disposed to hang on to them in the hope of substantially higher prices.

Inability to read the signs is what is keeping the rank and file to the side lines. Any number of bankers have given up during the last week or so and followed their vacationing clients to the mountains and beaches to await better visibility. Last week's turnover of 8,727,689 was a shade better than that of the preceding week, but it was still only about half the weekly average at this time last year, when trade was not very high, even with a midsummer rise of sorts under way.

Traders Ponder Inflation.

As for news of market importance the thoughts of traders are fixed primarily on the twin subjects of inflation and the success or failure of the administration's recovery program. There is widespread uncertainty on both scores, and the disposition to abide the vicissitudes of time is strongly evident on all hands. Most folk seem to believe that the recovery plans are going to have a beneficial effect and that the momentum already gained by business is going to carry far.

The feeling is also pretty general that inflation is coming sooner or later—many can see no other meaning to the monetary conferences which the President has been holding at his Hyde Park home during the last week.

Miscellaneous.

ARE YOU INTERESTED IN A GROWING INCOME?

You may have a talent that is hidden—an ability to make money that has never occurred to you. Men past forty and they have discovered such talent. They have lost their former jobs or found their trades or professions unprofitable, and then sought something new. Maybe they didn't sit into the new thing right away—but if they made a little money as they went along, and gradually improved, they "found themselves," as the saying goes. There are men here in our business who have discovered that they, too, had unsuspected talents. E. B. never thought that he would succeed in a business outside his former training, and he worked hard to make $200.00 here his first month, but last week started him on his second month, and in that one week he made $85.00. In other words, in a single week this man made 80% as much as he earned the first month, and did not work any harder last week than any week of his first month!

E. T. J. has been in this business longer, he is a consistent earner, but he also is progressive. He had one good day that last week, but he has had better days than that, and will have others still better, he works for it. This is not money poured into fleeting palms. It is dug out with consistent effort, but in a highly legitimate and dependable business—one of the first of its kind to cooperate with the government in the NRA movement. We are making places for men—not just men to fill any places that call for no effort, but men who will work consistently the same as they would be expected to elsewhere. But we will say this: Any man who really puts in forty productive hours a week here should be able to start out and do as well as C. R. S., a new man here, who made $20.00 his first week, and started right out his second week to better than double it!

I don't believe that any men started under less favorable conditions than J. D. who in spite of his some months ago. Here is a man who didn't seem to fit in and click right away, but he came on slowly and steadily, he received $89.10 last week and has made $550 in a month and is out to beat that record, but it we had predicted any such earnings when he came in, he would not have believed us. That inner talent of his was gradually developed. It is growing wonderfully!

W. H. made only $22.00 his first week, but he started out his second week to pass the $40.00 mark by the middle of the week, with every indication that his second week will show fully $85.00 earnings. But you may not think that YOU could do this, neither did those men. If you haven't the courage to inquire, to find out all about a business of this kind, how can it ever help you? This is not just a little concern, it is very large and powerful, and you always are sure of your money. You do not buy anything, put up a penny. This is a BUSINESS in every sense of the word!

What would you think of a business in which a man, wholly without previous experience, could step in and make over $100.00 his first week? E. P. did just that. This was far above the money he made in his old occupation, as bank receiving teller. A

First Pictures of Rioting and Bloodshed in Havana After President Is Deposed—U. S. Sends Warships

UNITED STATES SENDS WARSHIPS TO CUBA AS MOBS CONTINUE SLAYING OF MACHADO SECRET POLICE; FIRST PICTURES OF PILLAGING IN CAPITAL. Picture taken on Saturday in Havana and sent to Chicago by special airplanes showing wreckage of building near the presidential palace as mobs celebrated the overthrow of Machado by wild demonstrations. The palace itself was partially sacked after the president had fled to the Bahamas in an airplane, the government being taken over by Dr. Carlos Manuel de Cespedes. The foes of Machado have run down and slain more than fifty members of the Porra, secret police agency. President Roosevelt last night ordered American warships to the scene.

HAVANA MOB TEARS DOWN BIG STATUE. Cubans as they appeared Saturday defacing a statue on Machado avenue. They wrecked it apparently because it was located on street with name they disliked.

U. S. ENVOY AND NEW CUBAN PRESIDENT. Ambassador Sumner Welles (left) shaking hands with Dr. Carlos Manuel de Cespedes in Havana on Saturday after he had been made successor of Gerardo Machado.

LOOTING BREAKS OUT IN HAVANA AS MOBS CELEBRATE OVERTHROW OF MACHADO GOVERNMENT. Scene in Havana on Saturday as mob was carrying loot from store during wild celebration over change in government. Scenes of wildest disorder were witnessed as the frenzied populace paraded through the streets killing and singing at the same time. Business has been paralyzed by the general strike.

SLAYER OF SECRET POLICE CHIEF CHEERED. Lieut. Rogerio Perez Villalon, who shot Col. Antonio Jiminez, chief of Porra, being paraded through Havana streets by wild mob of anti-Machado men.

MOBS WRECK OFFICE OF HAVANA NEWSPAPER CONTROLLED BY MACHADO AS PRESIDENT FLEES. The street in front of the Heraldo de Cuba, government controlled newspaper owned by former President Machado and Orestes Ferrara, former envoy to America, after it had been sacked by Cuban mob celebrating downfall of government. Machinery was wrecked and the structure set on fire.

CROWDS MILL THROUGH STREETS OF HAVANA IN CELEBRATION MARKED BY MUCH BLOODSHED. Scene in the Prado, Havana's main street, on Saturday during wild celebration over the fall of Machado. Scores were slain as the mobs avenged themselves on those who before had the power to oppress them. The Porra, Machado's secret police, was the special target of the killers.
